Churchill Tells Tories War Danger Wanes

Declares Outcome of U. S. Vote Won't Alter Allied Growth

SCARBOROUGH, Eng. — (A. P.) Prime Minister Churchill said Saturday the danger of war has receded since he came to power a year ago.

The free world's resistance to Communist aggression, he added, will grow even stronger with either Dwight D. Eisenhower or Adlai E. Stevenson in the White House.

Churchill described British-American solidarity as "the foundation of our foreign policy." He told 350 cheering delegates at a Conservative Party conference that Russian maneuvers to separate the two western nations will fail.

"We intend to persevere faithfully and resolutely in strengthening the ties of friendship and kinship which have brought us into such effective alliance with the great English-speaking Republic across the Atlantic ocean," Churchill said.

Churchill did not imply any comparison between President Truman and the two Presidential candidates. The tenor of his speech was that the free nations, with the passage of time, were gathering momentum in the task of defending themselves.

He said "the future peace of the world and the survival of its freedom" depend on British-American unity. But he also stressed that Britain wants to be considered a full and equal partner in this "honorable comradeship."

This has been a theme of the Conservative conference.

Churchill challenged Prime Minister Stalin's prediction the western powers eventually would fall out among themselves.

"We shall certainly not fall into the snare made for us by the Soviet government and their Communist adherents and fellow travelers, here or in other countries, and allow any breach in the effective harmony of thought and action which is the mainstay of all we hold dear," he said.

Churchill's speech came after Britain's election last week, heard angry charges from Aneurin Bevan's left wing that the United States was leading Britain along a road to ruin. The position of labor moderates on British-American unity, however, is similar to that of the Conservatives.

Churchill warned Britons they would find the rearmament burden heavy.

He said a Laborite whispering campaign a year ago referring to him as a warmonger had cost the Conservative Party 50 parliamentary seats in the general election. Actually, he continued, "there is a general feeling in the world that, on the whole, the danger of world war has receded since we became responsible."

British MP Plans Aid for Chaplin

LONDON — (A. P.) British Laborite, William Proctor said Saturday that he would ask in the House of Commons that the government "make representations to the U. S. government to allow Charles Chaplin to re-enter the United States without hindrance."

Chaplin, English-born comedian, is visiting Britain after 21 years in the United States. U. S. government officials have said that before Chaplin is allowed to re-enter the U. S., an investigation will be made to determine his fitness for readmission. He is a British subject.

L. A. C. SAYS:

Taft-Hartley Law, A Vital Issue

We have just read a list of amendments to the Taft-Hartley labor control bill advocated by a powerful labor union's official magazine. Most of the suggested changes are almost identical to changes suggested by Senator Taft. He has, for several years, offered 28 changes in the law to make it more fair to unions. But the national labor leaders and the Truman forces have insisted on outright repeal. Rank and file union members have overwhelmingly approved the major features of the law when they were presented aside from the whole measure. But when asked about the law as a whole they follow the labor leaders' contention that it is a "slave bill." In the following we list ten important parts of the bill. It is doubtful if one union member in ten realizes these are parts of the bill. We have printed them before and have had numerous local union members tell us they did not realize

TOTALLY BROKE Pupil-Politico Bares Fund Data to Class

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (A. P.) Another political candidate has made a clean breast of his financial status and come away a winner. Twelve-year-old Mike Murphy, running for secretary of the student body at Madison School, decided Saturday that was the best way to clear up his difficulties with school authorities.

It seemed they had become slightly worried when Mike handed out printed cards during the campaign that read:

"Mike will fight for what's right."

Feeling he might have had access to funds that gave him an unfair advantage they asked for an explanation.

Mike gave it to them at a school assembly.

"From what I read in the papers I decided it might be a good thing for a candidate to tell what he earns and owns," he said.

"First, I get a dollar a week allowance. If I leave my pajamas on the floor, mother deducts a dime. And if I don't do something I should do, it costs another dime. At the end of the week I usually end up without a cent."

"Also I get a dollar for every gopher I catch in our yard. But I think I have caught them all. The other day I caught one down the street, but dad said that didn't count."

"Besides, I'm still in debt for a window I broke."

"I assure you that I have accepted no money for my campaign."

The explanation apparently worked for the seventh-grader was a solid winner over two girls and another boy when the votes were tallied.

Mike, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy, was not too surprised, however. He considers himself an old campaigner. He has served as president of his class and officer of other groups.

What does he want to be when he grows up?

"I want to be a lawyer like my dad," he says. "And maybe I'll go into politics too."

Visitor, Carrying $13,000, Missing From L. A. Hotel

LOS ANGELES — (A. P.) Police launched a search Saturday night for a missing, 47-year-old Oroville, Calif., lumberman who vanished after arriving here carrying $13,000 cash to conclude a business transaction.

A missing was Vincent L. Montero, whose wife, Nellie, flew here from Oroville and filed a missing persons report.

She said he had been missing since leaving his home, Sept. 26. Detectives said Montero was to have stopped in Sacramento on the way to meet a business associate.

He checked in at a hotel here on Sept. 30, investigators said, and left later in the day without checking out. His baggage was left in the room and his auto was parked in the garage. The money he was carrying was not found.

OPS Orders Grocery Price Lists Posted

LOS ANGELES — (A. P.) Maximum prices that grocers may charge for certain items will be posted in groceries in six Southern California counties this week, Office of Price Stabilization officials announced Saturday.

The community pricing programs will be in effect in Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego and Ventura counties, the OPS announced.

Is This Photo of Lincoln En Route to Gettysburg?

BALTIMORE — (A. P.) The Western Maryland Railway, in the process of celebrating its 100th birthday, has unearthed from the National Archives in Washington a picture that may give Lincoln scholars reason to reconsider one of their theories.

It has been pretty well agreed among them that the Great Emancipator was never photographed either at or on his way to Gettysburg, Pa., the scene of his most famous address.

But a picture taken in 1863 by Matthew Brady, Civil War photographer and Lincoln portraitist, is being billed by some lovers of Lincoln lore as a shot of a group which includes the President at Hanover Junction, Pa., en route to Gettysburg.

John Lippi Jr., Gettysburg man and Lincoln hobbyist, says he is certain the tall figure in a stovepipe hat is the famous President.

Shadows indicate the time of day would be shortly before sunset. The season and hour jibe since Lincoln made his famous speech in November and would have passed through Hanover Junction about 5 p. m., according to records of his trip.

The tall man in the photo has side whiskers like Lincoln wore, and the fact that the picture was made at all by the famed Brady would indicate an event of some importance in Hanover Junction history.

Miss Josephine Cobb, chief of the National Archives staff pictures division, isn't so sure.

She does agree, however, that the picture was filed in the wrong category for years. In 1950, Miss Cobb became suspicious of the filing which labelled the shot as a Hanover Junction, Va., picture.

She noted some of the men were wearing items of Northern

Surge of Frosh to College May Nudge 1949-50 Peak

WASHINGTON, (A. P.) — The U. S. in a statement, "we may expect day early indications are that the entering college classes this fall are about 15 per cent greater than it was last year."

Commissioner Earl James McGrath made the estimate, based on fall enrollment reports which the Office of Education has received from 310 colleges and universities enrolling more than 500 students each.

"If the trend in freshman enrollments continues in reports if final figures this fall bear out still forthcoming," McGrath said the preliminary estimates.

YOU WOULDN'T THINK, offhand, that Joyce Reed would qualify as an ancient. The Long Beach blond is a saucy 25. What's wrong with 25? ## Soviet Meet Cheers U.S. Red Greeting

MOSCOW — (A. P.) The 19th Soviet Union Communist Congress tonight received with an ovation greetings from the Communist Party in the United States.

The congress then recessed until Monday when it will complete its business by electing a new central committee, key party body. Prime Minister Stalin has been secretary-general of the central committee for many years. As such he is the party's most powerful officer. He likely will be re-elected.

The delegates were told the greeting from U. S. Communists were signed by William Z. Foster, national chairman of the American party, and others. When the greetings were read, the more than 1000 delegates, alternates and foreign visitors demonstrated with a standing ovation.

VISITORS APPLAUDED

Greetings also were delivered by Communist leaders from Denmark, Turkey, Greece, Iran, Syria and Trieste. The foreign visitors were interrupted frequently by prolonged applause, Moscow radio said.

One guest speaker was President Wilhelm Pieck of the German Democratic Republic (Communist controlled East Germany).

G. G. Wagenaar, representing Communists in the Netherlands, told the congress that Dutchmen never will fight against the Soviet Union. In this he echoed a statement by Maurice Thorez, French Communist party secretary, that France never will fight Russia.

At the conclusion of its first week, the congress had completed four of the five items on its agenda. Before taking the week end off, the delegates ended their discussion of proposed new party by-laws and appointed a commission to draw them up.

The new central committee will be the first chosen in 13 years. As usual, it is expected to include prominent party members. The group named by the 18th congress in 1939 included 70 members and 68 alternates. While the party has grown considerably, there is no indication the committee may be expanded.

Under the party reorganization plan already approved by the congress, a new presidium is to be elected to carry on the work of the central committee when it is not in session. The presidium will supplant the politburo and the organization bureau, both of which are abolished.

Soviet party members and members of foreign Communist parties will watch with great interest to see who the new officers will be. Their election will show which leaders rank high in party councils.

The congress opened last Sunday night.

Italians Develop 1st Jet Dirigible; Tests Successful

ROME — (A. P.) The newspaper Giornale D'Italia reported Saturday that Italy has built the world's first jet-propelled dirigible. It said the ship measures 184 feet long, 42½ feet in diameter, and has been put through 14 successful test flights.

The newspaper stated much larger jet dirigibles are planned by the United States but are still in the drawing board stage. Giornale D'Italia did not specify the speed of the airship or how many persons it would carry but gave these details:

The craft uses helium. It would prove valuable in submarine hunting, and in defense against air raids or guided missiles. As an offensive arm, it could be used for launching guided missiles.

"Larger models could even carry and launch up to 10 airplanes," the newspaper added.

ROKs Slash to Top, Retire as Shells Hit

Fight for Seoul Key Blazes Into 6th Day of Non-stop Battle

SEOUL, Korea. (Sunday) — (A. P.) South Korean soldiers slashed to the top of shell-pocked White Horse Mountain this morning for the 12th time in six days of savage fighting, but pulled back from the crest shortly before noon under savage Red artillery and mortar pounding.

"Nobody can hold the top of that hill," declared a front line U. N. officer.

It was the 23rd time the shell-scarred hill northwest of Chorwon, which guards the invasion corridor to Seoul, has changed hands in 125 hours of non-stop battle.

He said a Chinese company trapped on the top by a South Korean flanking maneuver early this morning apparently managed to get off.

South Koreans, in one of their toughest fights of the war, at last reports held positions on the eastern and western flanks of White Horse and were dug in about 75 yards from its crest.

The recently retrenched South Koreans this morning had encircled the top of the hill mass that controls the Chorwon road to Seoul. They fought viciously at close quarters with Chinese on the northern slope shortly afterward.

Allied tanks maneuvered in a valley separating White Horse from a hill almost as high a mile to the north and poured direct fire on Red positions on both heights. Reds have been supplying their attack on White Horse from the hill to the north.

Red artillery fire against South Korean Ninth Division troops on White Horse this morning had dwindled from long heavy blasts to short, intense barrages.

Allied artillery reported no trace of some 1500 Chinese Communists who stormed the key Western Front peak late Saturday.

The battle for White Horse raged into its sixth day today. The fight was considered far from over.

More Chinese troops were reported grouping to the north where the Reds have massed some 16,000 reinforcements to ant South Korean Ninth Division troops have pledged to keep White Horse "at all costs."

By midnight Saturday the peak had changed hands 23 times in 125 hours of non-stop battle.

An Allied officer on the front reported the Chinese might have a few troops remaining on the peak but none could be detected.

The hill top itself was a "mass of ruin," he said. Former entrenchments and bunkers "no longer exist."

Allied big guns opened up with an intense barrage on White Horse and Red springboard positions to the north just after midnight.

"We're really giving them hell row with our artillery," said a U. S. officer with the South Koreans.

Answering fire from the Reds, however, slackened off to only 400 rounds — a sharp decrease from the first few days of fighting.

Elsewhere on the Western front, U. S. Second Infantry Division troops repulsed Chinese Communist positions for five hours on T-Bone Hill, west of Chorwon, early Saturday. Results were not announced by the U. S. Eighth Army. It said three other Allied raiding groups fought short engagements west of Yonchon.

EVEN WITH ELECTION, IT LOOKS FAIR

The Weatherman, who apparently believes that too much of a good thing is not nearly enough, is flying the fair weather flag again.

After small amounts of morning clouds leave this area, Long Beach will be bathed by blue skies, sunshine and 80° degree temperatures today, the Weatherman said.

For those who plan to stay out late, however, there's a dismal prediction of low clouds and late evening fog along the coastal areas.

Crash Lets Browns Meet

There was a Brown reunion at Seaside Hospital Saturday night after all.

En route to the hospital to deliver a toy doll to the newest addition to the Brown family, Reginald A. Brown, 56, his wife, Sarah Brown, 56, and his father William Brown, 88, all of 408 5th St., Huntington Beach, were injured in a traffic collision at Pacific Coast Hwy. and Anaheim St.

Young Millard Brown, of 4302 McNab Ave., whose wife Ruby Brown had made the elder Browns grandparents again, was waiting at the hospital when the senior generations arrived in a city ambulance.

Except for the gravity of a concussion suffered by the elder Mrs. Brown, the reunion would have been a joyous one.

All this is according to the report of the police officer dispatched to investigate the accident — one Officer Terry C. Brown.

IF AND WHEN they open the new Anaheim St. bridge with ceremonies, certainly in the parade should be an old fellow with a scythe.

Father Time should be pleased that it has taken so much of the stuff he supplies to build this important span across the Flood Control channel.

It will be two years in January since construction started. It is now hoped to open the bridge to east-west traffic in December, which will make it approximately a two-year job.

And traffic probably won't be started on the side approaches for quite some time after the major opening.

SEVERAL bad breaks have made the Anaheim job a slow one.

For six months after the start, no structural steel was available. There was a further delay while the Harbor Dept., sponsor of the bridge, pondered a proposal for changes in the length of the giant girders. Instead of splicing two 60-foot girders for master beams, it was finally agreed to splice three 40-footers, the only size available.

After heartbreaking steel delays, a strike of equipment operators and reinforcing steel workers developed. It lasted from last June 9 to July 14.

The strike set the opening date back from Nov. 1 to the possible Dec. 15.

By the way, the bridge is costing about $2,400,000. It's length is 400 feet and it will have six traffic lanes on its broad road surface. A lot of people will be happy when they can drive on that surface.

ANOTHER white sparrow—or maybe it's the same one—has shown up in Long Beach.

A few weeks ago, one was spotted by a North Long Beach resident in his back yard, and the event was duly recorded here.

On Friday, B. C. Maxwell, 149 Roycroft, saw a flock of sparrows cavorting in his neighborhood. Among them was a pure white bird, looking like a sparrow in every particular but its color.

Anybody else spotted an albino sparrow?

A RESIDENT OF Rolling Hills reports a noteworthy incident observed on a drive into town from out there.

On Palos Verdes Drive, he came to a place where a small road repair job was under way. It was the noon hour, and he saw two workmen kneeling on the street, one of them making a motion with his arm and hand that seemed vaguely familiar to our reporter.

He had to slow up to go around the fellows, and had a chance to see what was going on. Sure enough, they were shooting craps, a new kind of traffic hazard here.

KAREN JO SMITH, the 3-year-old Long Beach girl who is suffering from dangerous growths in her tiny body, had her Christmas yesterday.

Jimmy McGarrigle, who plays Santa Claus for a lot of events around here each holiday season, got out his Santa Claus suit and went out to Seaside Hospital for a visit with Karen. From her tiny bed she smiled happily as Jimmy put on an act in the true spirit of Christmas.

And Lyman Dawson, a professional clown living at 112 Dawson, is going to take a bit of the circus into the little girl's hospital room.

Things like that make this a good town and restore the sometimes waning prestige of the human race.

NEW YORK — (AP). President Truman brought his whistle-stop campaign to a climax tonight with a charge that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has adopted "a new kind of isolationism."

"The old isolationism was to say that the United States was surrounded by an ocean moat, that no enemy could cross," Truman said. "The new approach is to say: yes, we are part of the world—but not if it costs more money."

Truman also said that Eisenhower, the Republican candidate, is switching from a charge of "creeping socialism" to a "me-too" approach on issues at home.

Moreover, said Truman, Eisenhower — in endorsing Republican Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin and Jenner of Indiana for re-election — has fallen too far "to scramble back to a position of decency and honor."

Truman summed up his coast-to-coast campaign by firing all his guns at the Republicans. At the same time, he enlarged on what he had said about Eisenhower to date.

He said, at a Columbus Day Citizens' Committee dinner, that the Republicans are people who, in 1492, would have insisted that the world was flat. He spoke at the Waldorf Hotel.

He said the Republicans always find themselves in hot water in an election year.

"They start the race in these election campaigns under the banner of 'Down with Socialism,'" he said.

"And then, in the home stretch, they switch to the slogan of 'Me, too,'" Truman said.

"The switch for this year is already under way," he said.

A few hours earlier he told cheering tens of thousands of Negroes in Harlem that the country's whole civil rights program would be put in grave danger if Eisenhower, backed by Southerners like South Carolina Gov. James B. Byrnes, gets into the White House.

"What do you think the Republican governor and a Dixiecrat talk about when they sit down together for lunch?" the President asked his Negro audience.

"You can draw your own conclusion when the Dixiecrat governor announces, after the lunch, he is going to vote Republican this year."

Democrats accused Republicans of paying youngsters to heckle

President Truman at his whistle-stops in New York state.

Paul E. Fitzpatrick, Democratic state chairman, said that at "stop after stop" small groups of youngsters jeered the President, most of them carrying painted signs.

"Information reaching us at several stops was that the youngsters were paid by local Republican leaders at the direction of the Republican State Committee."

No Profit in Backing Ike, Adlai Tells South

(Compiled From Wire Services)

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Adlai E. Stevenson told the traditionally Democratic south Saturday night that a switch to the Republican ticket in the presidential election would lead to its "political emasculation."

The Democratic Presidential candidate said the south has much to lose and nothing to gain by supporting Dwight D. Eisenhower, his Republican opponent.

Stevenson climaxed a grueling 3000 miles through the southlands with a justly swart at Dixie governors who have gone over to the Eisenhower fold.

He jumped on James Byrnes of South Carolina, Allan Shivers of Texas, Robert Kennon of Louisiana, as "embittered aspirants."

All 2600 seats at Nashville War Memorial Auditorium were filled, and police and highway patrolmen estimated 2000 people were standing around the edges.

An estimated 2500 persons drove out to the Nashville airport to watch Stevenson fly in, about 4000 were on hand at the hotel where the Illinois governor stopped.

Late Saturday he was heading for his home base at Springfield, Ill.

People lined up along streets and at speaking stops by the tens of thousands to size up and applaud the first Democratic Presidential candidate ever to bring his campaign to the south.

considerable charm." He added, however, that "when you gaze upon the five stars of Eisenhower, you must listen for the voice of Robert A. Taft."

On domestic affairs, Stevenson pointed to the economic improvements brought to the region by the federally-financed Tennessee Valley Authority and observed: "The bill of rights is scant comfort to a starving child."

As he has in most of his southern speeches, Stevenson also recalled that he has southern ancestors. But he said he didn't do it as an itinerant politician trying to strike up some "kissin' kin."

"I don't believe I need to make such a gesture," he said. "I believe that in the year 1952, as it has been for more than a hundred years, it is enough in the south for a man to present his credentials as a life-long Democrat."

BEAUTY CLEANS Aussies Prepare For Olympics

People "down under" are beginning preparations to play host to the 1956 Olympics.

Mrs. Margaret Gaffney, a visitor here from Melbourne, Australia, says her countrymen are enthusiastic over the prospect of having the games there four years from now.

Mrs. Gaffney, who has been visiting her husband's brother, R. E. Gaffney, and Mrs. Gaffney, at 318 W. Fifth St., since June, plans to return to Australia within two weeks.

Eisenhower scheduled a weekend rest. He went out to play golf Saturday.

He will attend church services Sunday. His aides said he has made no appointments for either day but plans to devote himself to a study of reports from the campaign to date.

Monday, Eisenhower resumes his hard-driving campaign, moving through Wyoming and then into Oklahoma and Louisiana. From there, he swings into Texas—a

GOP Chiefs Study 'High-Level' Finale

DENVER—AP. A strategy of a "high level approach," avoiding personalities and partisan retorts, was under study Saturday by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's political high command for the final weeks of the presidential campaign.

The decision, an informant said, will be based on examination of reports coming in now from all parts of the country.

They deal, not only with Eisenhower's own sweep through the West, but more especially with reactions to President Truman's "give-him-hell" train trip. At some points, the general was only a few hundred miles behind the President, speaking in the cities a few days later.

On the basis of latest information, Eisenhower's top lieutenants are trying to determine the answers to two interlocking questions:

1. Has the President helped or hurt the Democrats by his attacks on Eisenhower?
2. Has the moment come for Eisenhower to emphasize the crusading nature of his campaign, leaving off any direct replies to Truman and Gov. Adlai Stevenson, while stressing his declaration, "I'm not a politician!"

SCHEDULES REST

Eisenhower scheduled a weekend rest. He went out to play golf Saturday.

He will attend church services Sunday. His aides said he has made no appointments for either day but plans to devote himself to a study of reports from the campaign to date.

Monday, Eisenhower resumes his hard-driving campaign, moving through Wyoming and then into Oklahoma and Louisiana. From there, he swings into Texas—a ing that the President's accusations were "noisy blanks."

As the week progressed, however, the general's advisers said they began getting reports that Truman's attacks "were hurting the Democrats without injuring Eisenhower."

CAUTION'S ADVICE GIVEN

Last night in the Mormon tabernacle in Salt Lake City, Eisenhower said:

"I regret that what was promised (by the Democrats) as 'education' has now been so far forgotten that we are being given name calling and a variety of assorted nonsense."

"I have not replied in kind. I do not intend to do so." His bluntest reaction, a storm of prolonged applause, when he said he had not started his campaign as a politician—"and I'm not one now."

Jacob Arvey Linked With Pabst Case

WASHINGTON—(AP). The name of Col. Jacob M. Arvey, Chicago Democratic leader, was linked by House investigators Saturday with an attempt to forestall a federal suit against the Pabst Brewing Co. last year.

But top members of a House judiciary subcommittee did not define the importance of Arvey's role or say whether they thought it improper.

Chairman Chelf (D-Ky.) and Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) said in a joint statement the Washington attorney representing Pabst had tried to impress George A. Larrick, deputy food and drug commissioner, by saying Arvey had sent him.

Larrick told the subcommittee that at first Arvey's name made no impression on him, and after he recognized it, "I was influenced—to be more careful than ever."

The Chelf-Keating statement also said that Arvey telephoned the Pabst attorney, Raoul Berger, at least twice for Berger's valuation of criminal proceedings which the government filed against the company.

Berger told the subcommittee that Arvey was a long-standing personal friend, that he frequently consulted Arvey on the current political campaign and other matters and had done some legal work for him in Chicago.

Arvey, a Democratic national committeeman from Illinois and a backer of Gov. Adlai Stevenson for President, was not immediately available for comment.

The Chelf committee explored the Pabst case as part of its investigation into the Justice Department. It summoned Berger and Larrick to a special hearing Friday for questioning about Arvey's connection with the case and released their testimony today.

Food and drug officials condemned four carloads of corn grits, a raw material for beer, after an inspector reported finding insects and rodent "filth" last June in a Pabst plant at Peoria, Ill.

The Pabst concern issued a statement this week saying that its Milwaukee laboratory had not yet inspected the grain at the time the government stepped in. It said its laboratories constantly check such matters and that "destruction of faulty material is routine."

The government officials ordered one carload of the grain seized as evidence for a civil suit against Pabst and the other three disposed of by the company.

Berger, who said he was hired by company officials and not Arvey, first visited Larrick. He was turned down on a request to settle the case by dropping formal proceedings and allowing the company quietly to destroy the grain.

Expert Reports Teen-Age Dope Use Exaggerated

NEW YORK—(WHNS). The points out in the pamphlet. And "epidemic spread" of teen-age dope addiction was exaggerated to be found among underprivileged groups. Estimates give the danger does exist.

This is the reassurance and warning of Albert Deutsch, noted social welfare writer, in a new pamphlet, "What We Can Do About the Drug Menace," issued by the Public Affairs Committee.

There is no "national epidemic" and despite population increases there is one-fourth the number of teen-age addicts than were to be found in this country 40 years ago, according to Deutsch.

The teen-age problem in drug addiction is confined mostly to serious enough to "require" a few metropolitan centers, he says.

great bulk of teen-age drug activity on a sound basis to keep the real menace in check.

"Available studies reveal the dition occurs in the slum areas of large cities—areas where life is bleak, where wholesome outlets for adolescent energies and drives are meager," he reports. "The same studies also show that the number of minority group children among teen-age addicts is highly disproportionate to their total in the general population. Pent up resentments against discrimination and the intensified sense of futility and frustration found in all minority groups are among major factors, he adds.

ROKs Recapture, Give Up Mount

reported U. S. Sabre jet pilots had their most successful day of the month, downing six Communist MIG fighters near the Manchurian border, far north of the battle zone.

Allied fighter-bombers concentrated on front line strikes. They pummeled Red positions around White Horse throughout the day.

The Reds unleashed a stiff attack by 750 to 1500 men to drive the South Korean off the crest at 5:30 p. m. Saturday.

Allied artillery poured a barrage on another approaching group earlier in the day. The Eighth Army said "Artillery played a major role in reducing this threat . . . inflicting heavy casualties."

A short time later still another heavy Red assault hit the South Koreans holding the west slope. The dogged defenders fell back to the western base of the hill.

However, South Koreans on the eastern slopes clung to a slight knob just below the crest.

South Koreans had wrested the peak from the Chinese shortly after noon Saturday with a spirited bayonet and hand grenade charge, while diversionary attacks raged to the north.

Fifth Air Force headquarters announced the loss of six Allied planes in the week ended Friday. Allied Sabres bagged four MIGs. Four Allied planes were downed by Red ground gunners, one Sabre was lost in combat and another plane was lost by other causes.

3 Autos Collide In Paramount; All Drivers Injured

PARAMOUNT—The drivers of three autos were injured, one seriously, in an accident at Orange Ave. and Rosecrans St. at 6:30 p. m. Saturday, according to California Highway Patrol.

Robert Charles Aisenz, 24, of 8411 E. Second St., was most seriously hurt with head and back injuries and was taken to Los Angeles General Hospital.

Lynzy Franklin, 20, of 6151 Century Blvd., Hollywood, and Peter T. DeBoer, 69, of 14000 Avalon Blvd., Compton, was given emergency treatment at Rancho Los Amigos and released. Officers Ray Littlejohn and J. Braine said.

Autopsy Reveals Heart Attack, Not Shooting in Death

An autopsy disclosed that Gen. Garcia, 56-year-old Wilmington laborer, died of a heart attack and not of head wound that was believed to have been inflicted by a bullet.

Police are listing the death as the result of natural causes. The autopsy showed that a puncture wound in Garcia's right temple was one-quarter of an inch deep and did not penetrate the skull.

A police surgeon, called to Garcia's room in a garage at the rear of 1261 Hyatt Ave. Saturday morning diagnosed the wound as a bullet hole, starting detectives on a homicide investigation.

The body is at the County Morgue pending funeral arrangements by the family.

Americans Feted

ROME—(AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi Saturday played luncheon host to diplomatic representatives from 19 North and South American countries on the eve of the 460th anniversary of the discovery of America.

U.S. 'Bombing of Greeks' Investigated, Disproved

SEOUL, Korea (Sunday)—(AP). The Eighth Army announced Saturday that an investigation found no proof that Fifth Air Force Thunderjets accidentally bombed Greek infantrymen on Big Nori Hill in western Korea.

The incident had been reported in the Army communique, Sept. 28, in announcing the loss of the hill to Chinese Communist troops.

A headquarters statement said, "The investigation, which included statements from Greek officers and enlisted men, exonerated airmen from any responsibility in wounding or killing friendly troops."

The investigation was conducted jointly by the Army and the Air Force.

The Army said a flight of four Thunderjets dive-bombed near Big Nori while the Greeks were being heavily attacked by Chinese Reds. It said six bombs were dropped and acknowledged that one fell 427 feet away from the contested ridge line.

Investigators reported, "There is no reason to believe that the bomb inflicted casualties."

Pasadenan Elected

PASADENA—(AP). A. J. Lebeck of Sacramento was elected president of the California-Nevada Division of Gideon's International Saturday at the organization's annual convention. Other officers included E. C. Newberry, Santa Ana, chaplain.

Pentagon Sees No Major Offensive Due in Korea

WASHINGTON—(AP). The Pentagon considers the Communists capable of putting on a series of limited but fiercely fought offensives like the one with which the Reds are harassing the western front in Korea now.

So far, no grave concern has been shown here over the offensive which is nearly a week old. It has netted the Reds only heavy casualties and shifting tactical positions in contests over hilltops.

But, on the basis of information reaching here, it is believed the Chinese forces have accumulated ample ammunition, well distributed along the front, and have their usual abundant supply of manpower to launch similar efforts later.

The possibility of a full-scale, major attack is not ruled out. However, no troop movements suggesting a buildup for a major enemy effort have been reported.

Military men point out that they can assess only the capabilities, not the intentions, of the Communists. Similarly, they do not claim to know the reason for the decision of the Reds to beat, in a limited offensive, against Allied positions which have been heavily strengthened during the more than a year of comparative quiet on the Korean front. There are several possible reasons, among them:

1—To provide psychological pressure behind the now-suspended truce talks.

2—To counter the effect, on troops and in the homelands, of the unrelenting Allied air attacks and the high ratio set recently in the duels of U.N. jet planes with the Soviet-made MIG-15s. Reports say U.N. jet pilots have knocked down 15 enemy MIGs for every U.N. craft destroyed.

3—A hope to shove a sector of the Allied front back and use this as another bargaining factor in truce negotiations.

The Pentagon is pleased at one result of the Red offensive. It has shown the highly improved combat capability of South Korean forces, which have received some of the heaviest onslaughts.

How is it that after months-long, constant "interdiction" air attacks on the supply depots and the highways and by-ways behind the Red lines the Communists have enough ammunition to pour 50,000 or 60,000 rounds of artillery fire on Allied lines in a single day?

Among the reasons is the apparent fact there are not enough

Wiley Urges U.S. Reds in U.N. Be Fired

WASHINGTON — (A. P.) Sen. Wiley (R.-Wis.) said Saturday that "quite a few" American Communists and security risks have been working for the United Nations secretariat in New York.

He called on the U. N. to throw them out and announced that he had asked the State Department to give him a full report on the matter.

Wiley, ranking Republican on the Senate foreign relations committee, is a delegate to the U. N. General Assembly, which opens next Tuesday.

In issuing his statement, he did not want to "render more difficult the already immense task of the assembly session."

But he added, "I have a responsibility to make known to the leading officials of the U. N. what I feel to be the extreme displeasure of the American people over the continuance in the U. N. secretariat of subversive Americans."

"The Red infiltration," he said, "is not a matter of conjecture or a pipe dream, but a matter of hard, cold fact, documented by top security officials — facts which, when revealed, will shock the American people."

Wiley said that some U. N. personnel already had refused to answer subcommittee questions on the grounds that they might incriminate themselves and added "apparently more U. N. employees will similarly brand themselves next week."

The Wisconsin Senator said he was "a deep friend" of the U. N. "But," he said, "we must not permit irresponsible individuals within the U. N. secretariat to destroy the very instrument which is our last best hope for peace by recruiting and retaining individuals who ought to be tossed out on their ears instead of being placed in positions of confidence."

Wiley said he did not want his comments "to reflect on the overwhelming mass of worthy U. N. members who are not only a very small minority but are subversives."

Russian employees of the U. N. "obviously can be expected to have the Soviet Union's interests in mind first and foremost," he said.

"But at the very least," he continued, "American nationals hired to work in the U. N. secretariat should be absolutely above suspicion. An American Red could not possibly be faithful to the U. N. or to his own country, but only to Soviet Russia."

LIE SAYS DISLOYAL WILL BE OUSTED UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (AP) Secretary General Trygve Lie disclosed Saturday night that some American employees of the U. N. recently refused to answer questions of a New York grand jury investigating their activities outside the U. N.

The U. N. chief executive implied that the grand jury was investigating subversive activities of Americans who work under him.

He said he would fire any Americans proved disloyal to their country and said he had done so in the past.

Lie's statement came out after a late-hour extraordinary conference with his top aides at his Forest Hills home in response to Wisconsin Senator Wiley's demand earlier in the evening that American Reds be thrown out of the U. N.

Wiley said he did not want his comments "to reflect on the overwhelming mass of worthy U. N. members who are not only a very small minority but are subversives."

Russian employees of the U. N. "obviously can be expected to have the Soviet Union's interests in mind first and foremost," he said.

Pilot Dies as Jet Planes Collide

THIS PIECE OF FUSELAGE was the biggest fragment of wreckage that could be found after two F-80 Shooting Star jet fighters collided in the air Saturday near Pine Castle Air Force Base, Florida. One pilot was killed in the crash; he was Lt. Alexander Ortiz, 24, of Brady, Tex., a former Marine Corps flier. The other pilot, Lt. Richard B. Kelly, 22, of Tangern, Tex., parachuted safely. — (AP Wirephoto.)

LOS ANGELES — (AP) A packed Pacific Electric bus dove headlong into a 50-foot deep excavation after colliding with a butane tank truck Saturday. The bus driver was killed and 19 passengers were injured.

Police expressed amazement that the death toll wasn't higher. The bus plunged down a steep incline and smashed into a puddle at the bottom of the pit with terrific impact.

The driver, Leland Wilson, 31, of near-by Alhambra, was thrown through his windshield and died of a skull fracture. The passengers were hurled violently to the front of the bus.

A passenger, SSGT. Bernard Higuera, 22, of Camp Roberts, said people "seemed to fly right over the backs of seats in front of them and pile up in front of the bus. . . . There was an awful quiet for a minute after the bus hit bottom, then the screaming and moaning started."

Thirteen persons were treated for injuries at an emergency hospital and six others received first aid at the scene, a downtown intersection.

The bus was bound for suburb-an Sierra Vista with 35 passengers.

Lutherans Push Home Missions

SEATTLE — (AP) The biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America called up on its synods and churches Saturday to increase their benevolent giving to keep a booming home mission program for faltering.

Delegates adopted a recommendation urging the subdivisions to "extend themselves to pay in access" of their apportionment for the 1952-53 budget which was adopted two years ago.

The Rev. Dr. R. H. Gerberding, New York, executive secretary of the Board of Home Missions, said the board will require $1,000,000 in the next two years for its program. The board also reported that 80 new churches had been organized in the 34 synods of the church the past two years and that 77 churches were aided toward the erection of church buildings.

"For a fairly accurate study of stantly an average of 40 approved fields awaiting development, 40 being developed and 40 organized each year," the board said.

Rev. Dr. Karl Henry, New York, director of survey and research, said the Pacific (Northwest) and California Synods were among the fastest growing ones in the church.

The convention sessions run through next Wednesday.

Elect JOSEPH M. KENNICK

"My adult career has been devoted to building young men and young women. I intend to protect our young men and young women. My opponent would enlarge the war in Korea to destroy communism. I shall support any measure to effect a successful prosecution of the war so that young people may live in peace."

"We cannot destroy world communism by enlarging the war in Korea. We could send generations of our young people to Asia and still be unable to occupy it. The blood of American youth will never obliterate the red of world communism. We must confine, not enlarge, the Korean conflict."

"By confining the war, we can hope for a truce. We must practice logic and reason at the conference tables, but we must not through military weakness forfeit our right to be present at these conference tables. Build a great fighting machine in the hope we'll never have to use it. If we don't need it the cost will be a trifle."

BODY IN THE TRUNK is that of Gard Young, 43-year-old Chester, Calif., grocer, who was murdered along with two of his children and a neighbor's small son. A fourth child, a daughter of Young, was found with the slain. She was badly battered, but still living. Officers say the killer robbed Young of $7100. Viewing the scene are Dr. Robert Greenman (left), of Westwood, Calif., and Sheriff Olin Johnson of Lassen County. — (AP Wirephoto.)

State-Wide Search on for Killers of 4

CHESTER, Calif.—(A.P.). A state-wide search was on today for two men in a Buick—suspected of brutally beating to death a grocerman and three children, stuffing the bodies into the trunk of the victim's car and fleeing with loot exceeding $7000.

An all-points bulletin was sent to police agencies throughout California after the two in the Buick were reported seen trailing the grocerman Friday, as he was on the way to a bank, accompanied by the three children.

The bodies of the dead were found Saturday in the trunk of a car on a lonely logging road six miles east of Chester.

A fourth child, found alive but unconscious, was reported in "fair" condition, suffering mostly from extreme shock.

Missing was the $7100 which the grocer had obtained Friday afternoon from the Bank of America at Westwood, 11 miles east of this Northwest California mountain town.

Sheriff M. H. Schooler at first theorized that the crime was committed by someone who knew the children and killed them to prevent identification.

ARKANSAS PLATES
A few hours later, however, the sheriff's office put out an all-points bulletin for apprehension of two men in a black Buick with an Arkansas license, number of which was unknown. The description of them was vague.

The bulletin described one man as "tall, dark complexioned, wearing a brown dress jacket and a black hat low over the eyes." The only description of the other man was "shorter." The only reason given for suspecting them was that they had been seen following the victims on the drive to the bank.

The dead were Gard Young, 43, his daughters, July, 6; Jean, 7, and a neighbor boy, Michael, 4.

The Saile boy and his stenographer mother, Rosemary, lived in an apartment behind the Young home.

Young's third daughter, Sondra, 3, was taken to the Westwood Hospital. At first it was reported that she might not survive, but attendants later said her condition was fair.

KILLED ELSEWHERE
Two investigators of the State Criminal Identification and Investigation Bureau, who flew to the scene, said there was reason to believe the murders were committed at another spot and the car then driven to where it was parked in the roadside brush.

A fingerprint expert and a chemist were called to aid the inquiry.

Young, who operated a good-sized supermarket, made a regular week-end trip to the Westwood bank to get money to cash loggers' paychecks.

Sheriff Schooler of Plumas County said this was generally known throughout the region.

On Friday he took the children along for the joyride, while his wife stayed at home with the Young's 5-month-old son.

Young last was seen buying candy for the children across the street from the bank, a little after 3 p.m. Friday. Then the happy little party vanished.

100 JOIN HUNT
When Young failed to return to Chester by 6 p.m. Friday, the sheriff's office and adjoining Lassen County immediately organized a search. One hundred loggers and businessmen were deputized and spent the night in a ground search in the high mountain forests along the Plumas-Lassen county line.

An aerial search, spotted Young's 1951 green hardtop convertible on a lonely logging road early Saturday.

Before ground parties could reach the spot, however, Jerry Bridges, a Chester carpenter, telephoned Highway Patrolman Jeff Cooley to report the gruesome discovery.

The sheriff's office said Bridges related that he had noticed the parked and seemingly empty car while deer hunting, Friday, about 5:15 p.m. He thought it was the car of another hunter, but recalled it early Saturday upon learning of the Young search.

BODIES IN TRUNK
It was only six miles from Chester, so Bridges and his wife drove there shortly after 7:30 p.m. The bodies were left in the trunk pending arrival of state criminal investigation specialists from Sacramento. The Federal Bureau of Investigation also was asked to assist.

WASHINGTON—(A.P.). Rep. O. K. Armstrong (R-Mo.) urged Saturday that the United States abandon "the futile policy" of President Truman started his coast-to-coast tour "on the Crony Express" but ended up on the Phony Express.

Armstrong suggested that an army of liberation be organized with citizens of military age from lands now controlled by Soviet Russia.

Each nationality would have its own unit, train under its own flag and officers and wear its own national uniform, he said.

Armstrong made his proposals in a speech delivered to a celebration of the 173rd anniversary of the death of Poland's Gen. Casimir Pulaski.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(A.P.). The team consists of Senators Republican Party's self-named Homer Ferguson of Michigan, Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa and Francis Case of South Dakota.

The three Senators termed Truman's talk here Thursday night "a firebug speech in typical Truman style—unworthy of a President of the United States."

"He came running with a fire hose to put out the very fires started by the double-dealing of the New Deal-Fair Deal Administrations," they said.

In his speech here, the President said this country was doing everything possible to help the people in "Iron Curtain" countries of eastern Europe.

The Republican Senators declared: "Poland and other eastern European countries were betrayed when Roosevelt, inspired by Alger Hiss . . . agreed to let Soviet Russia take 40 per cent of eastern Poland."

Truman said he had asked the Congress this year for an immigration law that would permit country in greater numbers but that instead Congress passed a bill re-enacting the national origin quota system and overrode his veto.

Truman said the Republicans in Congress voted 4 to 1 for the measure.

The GOP Senators said that a majority of Democrats in both houses voted for the bill and to override the veto. They said that the President's quarrel was with his own party.

Jaycee Boosting Fluoridation Plan

A campaign to promote fluoridation of the Long Beach water supply to help prevent tooth decay has been adopted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as its "project of the year," Robert M. Mulvey, president, announced Saturday.

He said Dr. Godfrey Pernell will be chairman of the Jaycee fluoridation project.

Fluoridation is the controlled addition of fluoride ions to water on the basis of one part per million parts of water.

"Dental scientists predict that children who drink fluoridated water during the years teeth are forming will have from 60 to 65 per cent less tooth decay than children who live in area with fluoride-free water," Dr. Pernell said.

"Medical and dental scientists report that the safety of fluoridation has been established beyond all reasonable doubt."

The Junior Chamber reported that by the end of 1952 about 35,000,000 persons throughout the U. S. will be drinking water to which fluorides have been added. Fluoridation has been adopted by more than 225 communities already.

In California, San Francisco, Rio Vista Morgan Hill and Antioch are adding fluorides to their water and fluoridation has been approved, either by city council action or by a vote of the people, by the following California cities:

San Diego, Pleasanton, Healdsburg, Colusa, Belmont, Sigarten, Harvard, Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley, Albany, Richmond, Piedmont and Roseville.

Support for the Junior Chamber project has been voiced by Dr. Virgil Ridgeway, chairman of the Citizens Committee on Dental Health, and Dr. E. Taylor Dykes, public health dental officer for the state of California.

Fire Sinks Boat as Fisherman, Passenger Saved

A fisherman and a woman passenger aboard a 36-foot cabin cruiser were rescued from the ocean Saturday after their craft burned and sank about a mile off the San Pedro lighthouse.

B. B. Shevick, 25, and Miss Naomi Quevillon, 21, both of Los Angeles, were landed uninjured in Wilmington after their close brush with death. They had remained afloat for more than 30 minutes after their craft, the Wilforda, went down.

Fire of unexplained origin erupted suddenly.

'BET YOU'RE CHICKEN'

No Fish, So They Swam Home

By ED LUNDBURG
Some guys take their fishing seriously.

Witness developments at Belmont Pier Saturday afternoon when two anglers, irked by several hours of fruitless endeavor, leaped off the mole and swam to shore.

The main-eventers identified themselves to reporters as Herb Robertson, 25, and Don Ham, same age, both of Los Angeles. Herb said he works in an auto parts stockroom. Don is a merchant seaman.

They've been pals for 14 years. Police and lifeguards raced to the pier in response to the calls from alarmed citizens. Both the anglers-swimmers had reached shore and needed no assistance, other than that to be derived from cups of steaming, black coffee.

"Don got sore when it looked like we'd never catch a fish," Herb explained. "So he said we ought to swim back to shore. If we didn't catch one before 5:30, we'd catch the two looked at each other.

"He said, 'I'll bet you're chicken,'" Herb recalled.

That did it. Nearby anglers were amazed to see first one (Herb) and then another (Don) fishermen strip off their shirts and leap over the side of the pier.

Both Robertson and Ham tired quickly and had to make the last 23 yards to shore by grabbing the piling supporting the pier deck.

"Now I've got to explain it to my wife," Robertson moaned. "She's downtown waiting for me."

P.S.: Police, whose services were waived off as unnecessary during the fishermen's swim, were called back into the act later in the evening. A "good Joe" who had been entrusted with the pair's shirts, wrist watches and fishing gear when they leaped into the surf, had disappeared.

LUNCHEON AND SERVICE CLUBS

Lt. Col. Olin L. Beall, a veteran of 35 years in the USMC, and recently returned from service in Korea, will describe "The Marines in Action" at Downtown Lions Club meeting Friday noon at Wilton Hotel. In Korea he was commanding officer of the Motor Transport Battalion of the First Marine Division. He enlisted in the Marines before World War I. Between wars he served in Cuba, Haiti, Santa Domingo, Nicaragua, Virgin Islands, the Philippines and China.

His talk will concern the First Marine Division's activity in Korea. Norman Gillette is chairman of the day.

"AMERICAN Foundations" will be the title of a talk to be presented by Dr. Hyman J. Appleman, world famous lecturer and evangelist, before the Chamber of Commerce Breakfast Forum, Wednesday, 7:15 a. m., Wilton Hotel.

Dr. Appleman, currently at tracing large crowds to his modern tent revival, is a former attorney, author of 17 books. He will be introduced by Forum Chairman, Engle Randolph.

Seal Sale Leader and Aids Listed

Mrs. Francis Gentry will be chairman of the organization committee for the 1952 Christmas Seal Sale of the Long Beach Tuberculosis and Health Association. This was announced yesterday by C. E. Scott, campaign chairman.

Mrs. Gentry will have as her assistant Mrs. James H. Darsie, Mrs. Genevieve Basham, Mrs. Ruth Critser, Henry Frishman and Frank George. Assisting in booth arrangements will also be Mrs. Oliver Hinkson, Mrs. Peter J. Carlson and Mrs. Otis Gale.

Rev. William Harrison Myers, Msgr. Bernard Dolan, and Rabbi L. Elliot Grafman will urge church support of the campaign.

"We need volunteers to come to the office at 921 Pacific Ave. and help us prepare the thousands of letters for mailing," said Mrs. Gentry. "In order to get the task done by mailing date, Nov. 17, it will be necessary to schedule volunteer groups every week day from now until the middle of next month."

A telephone call will reserve a date for any group, or individuals may drop in at any time and spend whatever hours they can spare.

Baby Ballet

A 3-Year-Old Learns High Kicks

FAR FROM THEIR MUD PIES, scores of very junior misses make a dedicated pilgrimage to local dance studios once a week to limber up, learn grace and charm, and make their mothers proud of the first stiff steps of ballet. Carla Schultz, 3, of Orange, takes her cue from her instructor. (Staff Photos by George Barker)

BASIC BALLET TECHNIQUE holds the attention of young Carla, veteran of three lessons at a Ben & Sally Studio. At right, above, not stalling at the stall bar is the rule as Carla practices for high kicks and splits. She's the agile daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Schultz.

German Educator Tells War Effect

Not until 1955 will there be a generation in Hamburg and Bremen, Germany, that has had a normal school life since 1940.

That and other observations of war's disrupting effects came from Elsa Sturing, German school teacher, who was the guest speaker at the meeting of the two Long Beach Chapters of Delta Kappa Gamma Society yesterday at Municipal Art Center.

That International goodwill is being fostered through education is evidenced by the recent formation of an Association of International Relationships in Bremen which brings together teachers of many nationalities, Miss Sturing said.

The German educator, who studied at Heidelberg University and at Hamburg, was granted a leave of absence as principal of Bremen Elementary School for graduates study at USC and San Francisco Teachers' College, under a scholarship from California DKG Society, national honor society for women in education. She came to Long Beach to attend the recent convention of state school supervisors.

The whole philosophy of Germany's education system was changed by Hitler, Miss Sturing said, though she did not experience any great difficulty from the "supervisors." A possible visit from the Gestapo, however, was a daily worry the teachers had to face.

After the war, Miss Sturing was faced with the hardship of

DR. ANDREW NELSON Medal from Haakon VII

Ex-Consul Prizes Medal of St. Olaf

As he observed his 90th birthday here last week, Dr. Andrew O. Nelson, of 207 Bennett Ave., looked back on a distinguished foreign service career that began at an age when most men retire.

Nelson was 65 years old when he accepted an appointment in 1928 from King Haakon VII to act as vice consul for that Scandinavian nation in the Los Angeles area.

The job was a rigorous one requiring Nelson to board and inspect 25 to 30 ships from the large Norwegian merchant marine which called at the harbor each month, but he held the position 11 years.

Nelson did such a good job when he resigned in 1939 at the age of 76, King Haakon presented him with a personal letter of appreciation and the coveted Order of St. Olaf medal.

The University of Southern California honored Nelson with an honorary degree of Doctor of Foreign Service, "in recognition of distinguished service in international relations."

It may seem a curious thing that Nelson, an American citizen born in Wisconsin, should have been an official representative of Norway. However, Nelson was well qualified for the position and, since his parents were from Norway, could speak and write the Norwegian language.

The monogenerian quietly celebrated his 90th anniversary with a family dinner at the home of his son, Arnold I. Nelson. Another son, Arnold, also resides here.

Red Cross Backs Radio Hams in Disaster Test

Long Beach radio amateurs and the Long Beach Red Cross Chapter will demonstrate at 8 p. m. Monday how radio contact would be established with the outside world in case of disaster here.

The demonstration will be one of 2000 staged throughout the country this week end by the American Radio Relay League with Red Cross help.

A feature of this year's Simulated Emergency Test is the handling of messages both from and to the Red Cross Amateur Radio Station W6CXO in San Francisco by the Amateur Radio Station W6PMO established in the local Red Cross Headquarters by the Associated Radio Amateurs of Long Beach.

Jim Michaels, W6PGM, of 3102 Lomina Ave. will operate the station today.

On Monday all 55 of the active radio amateurs of the Emergency Corps will participate in a test simulating an air attack.

Mobile units will be dispatched to key communications points to handle communications to Red Cross Headquarters and Civil Defense Headquarters. Under the direction of Assistant Emergency Co-ordinator Charles Rolley, W6IYA, or 326 Mountain View Ave., the Red Cross Station W6PMO will be operated by Tommy Reid, W6OHV, 3812 Magnolia, and Donald Ingalls, W7NUI, 214 Catalina, Alvar Rohland, W6RSV, 165 Roycroft, and Corliss Miller, W6FEI, 4739 Her-sholt will set up and operate portable equipment at Civil Defense Headquarters, 5373 E. Second in Belmont Shore.

Poly Reunion Next Friday

More than 1000 Polytechnic High School alumni, including many well-known film and radio personalities and civic leaders, will return to celebrate Homecoming Day on the school campus Friday.

Invitations have been extended to Barbara Britton, Spike Jones, Kenny Baker, Van Heflin, Jo Stafford and Laraine Day. Other contacts include Verne Stephens, Bob Sturgeon, Jack Rothrock, Jack Salveson and Frank Gabler, prominent athletes; and Bill Dovey, chief of police; Jess Glickerson, city engineer; Leroy Lakake, fire department captain; Clyde Doyle, Congressman, and Dick Zehms, Press-Telegram sports editor.

Ray Neveau, president of the alumni association, said:

"We are trying to notify as many of Poly's 28,000 alumni as possible in order to make this the biggest homecoming in Poly history."

Members of the class of 1930 will be particularly honored as classmates of the school's new principal, W. Odie Wright. Other classes that will receive special attention are those of 1900, '01, '02, '10, '11, '12, '20, '21, '22, '30, '31, '32, 1940, '41, '42 and 1950, '51 and '52.

On the homecoming committee with Neveau are James C. Heartwell, past president, and George E. Marmion, chairman of the class of 1930.

Fetes Planned on Halloween

Community spirit and backing for this year's Halloween carnivals is at an all-time high, according to officials of the sponsoring Recreation Department.

Eight carnivals will be staged at municipal playgrounds, seven of them on Halloween and the eighth on Oct. 30 at Cabrillo Playground No. 3.

All carnivals have the same hours, 7:30-9:30.

"Scores of parents will don costumes and operate the carnival midway booths," Dr. Frank B. Harnett, director of municipal recreation, said.

"Parents long have hailed the carnivals as 'ideal places' for the youngsters to let off steam."

"The children like the carnivals, too," Dr. Harnett observed.

"These events give them a chance to have fun without being blamed for mischief."

Carnivals will be staged, in addition to Cabrillo No. 3, at Los Altos playground and the following park playgrounds: Bixby, Admiral Kidd, Silverado, MacArthur, Somerset and Houghton.

Army Forms Unit to Work on A-Arms

WASHINGTON — (U.P.). The Army set up a new agency Saturday to speed development of atomic weapons and guided missiles for use by combat ground troops.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, said creation of the "combat development agency" was necessary because of increasing importance of new atomic weapons and guided missiles.

The unit, under command of the Army field forces, will do its work principally at Fort Bliss, near El Paso, Tex., where troops will be trained and weapons tested.

One official source said the announcement does not mean guided missiles or atomic weapons have reached the stage of development to make them practical for immediate field use by ground troops. This source said that day is a "considerable time" distant.

Collins himself, announced the "Combat Development Agency" will be charged with helping the Army to understand more quickly the weapons' capabilities and speed their use in Army units as they go into production.

The Army is known to be experimenting with numerous types of guided missiles and has two in production. Beyond this, very little is known, but one type is reported able to seek out and destroy targets as far as 10 miles distant at altitudes exceeding five miles.

Gen. John R. Hodge, chief of Army Field Forces, assigned Maj. Gen. Robert M. Montague, his deputy, to head the new unit. Montague will assemble a small staff of experts to direct the program from his Fort Monroe, Va., headquarters.

Simultaneously, the Army announced the first guided missile brigade at Fort Bliss will be activated to train troops in use of new weapons and to conduct field experiments.

A guided missile group was set up at Fort Bliss in March, 1950. It consisted of three under strength battalions. Raising the El Paso detachment to brigade strength is proof of the increasing attention paid to the program.

Brazil Delays Action on Loan

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) Plans for half a billion dollars in loans to Brazil are being held up by a Brazilian law that makes it virtually impossible to take profits out of the country.

The money would come from the World Bank and the U. S. Export-Import Bank for the development of railroads, water power, port installations and other basic economic needs. About a third already has been committed.

Brazil's congress is considering repeal of the profit-export law. Some Brazilians, however, are reacting unfavorably to what they consider pressure from the U. S. to hurry repeal along.

Won't Hurry Davies Case, Justice Dept. Tells Solons

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) The Justice Department gave notice its consideration of the case of John Paton Davies Jr., veteran State Department official, will not be hurried by Senate committee pressure.

A department spokesman said Davies' testimony last year before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee is "under active consideration" to determine if prosecution for perjury is warranted.

There is no way to speed up handling of the case, the Justice Department official said, and the subcommittee's demand Saturday to know whether any action is planned against Davies will not influence disposition of the case.

The subcommittee referred Davies' testimony to the Justice Department in September, 1951. On July 2, 1952, the subcommittee said it believed Davies had committed perjury, and asked the department to refer the matter to a grand jury.

Davies, a veteran of 20 years in the State Department foreign service, appeared as a witness before the subcommittee during its long investigation of the Institute of Pacific Relations, a private research organization.

The subcommittee claimed Davies "testified falsely . . . in denying that he recommended the Central Intelligence Agency employ, utilize and rely upon certain individuals having Communist associations and connections."

Davies drew a sharp distinction between the words "employ" and "utilize." He conceded that he might have recommended CIA "utilize" some persons with Communist background or sympathies. But he drew the line on detailing his recommendations, saying they "touched on an operation which is only less sensitive than that of atomic energy."

He did, however, outline a "completely hypothetical" case in which

Wild Ride Ends in Auto Crash

Clarence Orsborn, 52, of 1902 Stanley Ave., escaped with what appeared to be minor head injuries Saturday after a wild ride down Hill St. in Signal Hill. Police said Orsborn lost control of his car and it rolled down the grade.

At Redondo Ave. and Hill St., the car overturned and was demolished. Attendants at Community Hospital said Orsborn suffered lacerations and bruises of the head. He was admitted to the hospital for observation.

Man Waylays, Kills Wife and 2 Friends

BLOOMFIELD, Conn.—(AP) One man named "Kane" or "Keane," woman and two men died and 10 other men were wounded as gunfire and an explosion rocked the quiet streets and lonely roads of Bloomfield Saturday night.

State police said Ralph H. Sherman, Mrs. Deibel related, killed his wife, killed a former fellow employee, wounded two men, one of them his closest friend, and then died in an explosion and fire in his own car.

Besides Sherman, the dead were his wife, Juanita, and Lawrence B. Luther, about 30.

Oscar G. Morgan was critically wounded.

Karl E. Deibel, 56, was less seriously wounded.

The shootings of Luther, Morgan and Deibel and the violent death of Sherman, about 7:30 p. m., remained a mystery until Mrs. Sherman's body was found four hours later on a lonely road about three miles away.

State Police Lt. Philip Schwartz said Sherman apparently shot his wife to death. He then kept a rendezvous with Luther and Morgan at another isolated spot about three miles away and then went to the home of his friend Deibel where he took his own life after shooting Deibel.

Luther and Morgan raised chin-chillas, police said, and Sherman aured them to Bloomfield to meet

One Fast Buck Slows Down

THIS 120-POUND ALBINO buck is being escorted in a patrol wagon back to the Detroit zoo. The deer led police a merry chase Saturday as it roamed a residential area. Cornered by scout cars, the deer escaped by leaping over the hood of one of them. Five more cars joined the chase. Finally a hefty patrolman made a flying tackle and a fast buck slowed down. The animal apparently had swum away from a sanctuary on Belle Isle. —(UP Telephoto)

WSB Men Scan Soft Coal Pact

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Key wage board officials gave unofficial scrutiny Saturday to a new soft coal contract to see whether the $1.90 daily wage boost it gives to 350,000 miners can be approved under anti-inflation regulations.

The 18-man board has not yet scheduled a formal meeting on the new one-year agreement, effective Oct. 1, but most observers forswore approval at an early date.

There were indications formal study of all factors bearing on the wage boost would start early next week, with enforcement of the contract considered possible by next weekend.

In the nation's soft coal pits, meanwhile, some miners were reported ready to stay home until the recently revamped WSB, headed by Archibald Cox, approved the pact.

There was no official word from the United Mine oWorkers, now in Cincinnati for its quadrennial convention. But Union President Lewis has often stated his belief that the government has no business interfering with work contracts freely negotiated through collective bargaining.

Suspect Killer in Love Triangle Outwits Posse

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia.—(UP) A man in a cornfield eight miles northeast of Waukon, kept one jump ahead of his pursuers Saturday by doubling back on his tracks after eluding a posse in a cornfield.

Authorities said George Duffey, 23, eluded them by stealing three cars in quick succession. They said he had abandoned the first car near the cornfield at Waukon, Ia., fled in another toward Minnesota, then doubled back to the Waukon area, where he apparently stole a third car.

Duffey is wanted in the slaying of Jimmy Hackman, 19, his rival for the affections of 18-year-old Shirley Arnold.

The girl found Hackman shot to death in his parked car here Thursday night, a few hours after she had broken off her four-year romance with Duffey.

She and Duffey were to have wed today, but she gave him back his ring and told him she would marry Hackman instead.

A statewide search was begun for Duffey and police believed they had him trapped this morning.

Decorations for Coronation

Capehart Questions U.S. Position on POW Issue

RICHMOND, Va.—(UP) Senator Capehart called on the Administration and Gov. Adlai Stevenson Saturday night questioned the Truman administration's stand on the issue of Chinese and North Korean prisoners held by U. N. forces in Korea.

In an address prepared for a Republican rally here, Capehart said "a truce could have been had in Korea and the war ended had the United Nations and President Truman and (Secretary of State) Dean Acheson agreed to the return of all Communist prisoners in exchange for all American prisoners."

"However, for some reason, best known to them, they have insisted that any Chinese or North Korean prisoners who claim not to have been Communist were not to be returned and, as a result of this policy, of course, there has been no truce."

Murder and Suicide

CORTEZ, Colo.—(UP) A 35-year-old Utah man shot and killed his wife Saturday and then turned the gun on himself at a filling station, one mile east of here, Sheriff A. W. Anderson reported. Dead are Hughs Penning Jack and his wife, Vera Abwine Jack, 38, both of White Rock, Utah.

"Problems of Space Travel" will be discussed by William C. Strang, field operations engineer of Consolidated-Vultee's Guided Missile Division, Pomona, at a meeting of Naval Section, Reserve Officers Association, at Los Angeles Naval Air Base at 7:30 p. m. Thursday. Strang is a member of American Rocket Society, an organization of scientists and engineers active since 1930.

Dr. C. R. Brantingham, president of the Naval Section, ROA, said reserve officers of any branch of the armed forces are invited.

The Reserve Officers Association, which now includes Army, Navy and Marine Corps reservists, will hold its state convention in Long Beach next May. Dr. Brantingham said. Fifteen hundred are expected.

For the second time, LeRoy Spurgeon, son of Mrs. Lavinna Spurgeon, 1415 Parade St., has been wounded in action in Korea, while serving with the Second Infantry Division Combat Engineers.

According to his mother, young Spurgeon suffered the loss of his left leg. His left arm was broken in two places; his right leg in two places. He also suffered shrapnel wounds and internal injuries. The soldier is hospitalized in Japan.

Military SERVICE

AIR LAND SEA

For outstanding performance of duty under enemy fire in Korea, two Long Beach soldiers have earned the Combat Infantryman Badge.

They are Pvt. Robert R. Murdock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Murdock, 4139 Conquistador St., an ammunition bearer with the Second Infantry Division, and SFC Louis C. Prunty, whose wife, Laurette, lives at 4441 Boyar Ave., an assistant platoon sergeant in Company F, Seventh Regiment, Third Infantry Division.

Prunty has been in Korea since April, Murdock since May.

Among the 160 new students selected to enter the Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps program at Occidental College, are three Long Beach men and one from Paramount.

From Long Beach: Donnelly M. Fenn, 2932 Chestnut Ave.; Allen M. Laughlin, 329 Molino Ave., and Larry E. Newquist, 142 Santa Ana, and from Paramount: Richard J. Porter, 8130 E. First St.

For outstanding performance of duty in the Korean combat zone aboard the aircraft carrier USS Valley Forge, RM 3 Harley, D. Tucker of 1544 Parade St., recently was awarded a Letter of Commendation at San Francisco.

Tucker's wife is the former Charlotte A. Sartori of Petaluma. The Valley Forge operated with Force 77 from December, 1951, to June, 1952, making daily air strikes against the Communists.

"At ease" was the welcome order for two Long Beach soldiers in Korea.

Both members of the Seventh Infantry Division, they recently spent five-day rest and recreation leaves in Japan.

The men are Cpl. L. J. West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer B. West of 239 Redondo Ave., a squad leader in Company K, 17th Regiment and Cpl. Leonard S. Pyka, son of Mrs. Lydia Pyka of 1575 Harbor Ave. Pyka is a radio operator in the 38th Field Artillery Battalion.

They stayed at Camp Nara, one of Japan's most famous resort centers. Both have returned to their units in Korea.

Duties of a radar watch officer were emphasized in a four-week course recently completed by Lt. Irving Zolo, USN, at Combat Information Center, San Diego. Lt. Zolo's wife, Sondra, resides at 6212 Elsa St.

Two Long Beach soldiers who recently arrived in Germany have been assigned to the 43rd Infantry Division.

They are Pvt. Fred Hedge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Hedge, 1146 Second St., and Thomas L. Ellis, 2038 Williams St.

The division, a National Guard unit from Connecticut, Rhode Island and Vermont, joined the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe last October.

Hedge, who entered the Army in February this year, is now with the 172nd Regiment. Ellis, in the Army since this March, is with the 102nd Regiment. In civilian life, Ellis was employed by the Ford Motor Co.

Plane Talk

By DON BRACKENBURY

Long Beach definitely will put in a bid for the terminus of the 1953 "All Women's Transcontinental Air Race," Barbara London, chairman of the local chapter of Ninety-Nines, says. Bids must be submitted prior to Oct. 31 and the decision will be made in early November.

Barbara has been conferring with Howard Jones of the Chamber of Commerce and the chamber's aviation committee has expressed keen interest in having the race end here. Big things are planned if Long Beach's bid is accepted.

All 18 of the new hangars at Compton Airport have been completed and all but four are rented, Earl Woodley, manager, reports.

Ed Perlis, instructor for Aircraft Associates Flying School, is back at work after his appendectomy. Roy Christman, another instructor there, unfortunately, is in Community Hospital. Roy underwent spinal surgery this week, and is reported recovering satisfactorily.

Harold Schneider of Schneider Air Service, who keeps us posted on quite a few local fliers, says Mr. and Mrs. Reginald (Bud) Cowan are back from Reno, where they flew in their Piper Super Cub.

Schneider, by the way, flew Dr. Walter Mattocks to Selma, near Fresno, the other day to pick up a patient and bring him to Magnolia Hospital here. The flight again proved value of the light plane as an ambulance. Dr. Mattocks is a private flier himself.

Out at Orange County Airport, Santa Ana, Bill Nichols announces completion of their spray paint and dope shop. And he further says bids will be opened Tuesday for the contract for resurfacing the runway and taxi strips. The government has contributed $50,000 for the work.

Six planeloads of fliers from Bellflower Airport attended last Sunday's fly-in at Delano and reported they had a swell time. Nearly 500 breakfasts were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Weiser

(he is general manager of James L. Most Aviation), Jack McKevey and Joyce Smith, and Johnny Glese, one of Most's students, represented the airport itself. Members of the Air-O-Crats Flying Club making the trip were co-managers Ken Schwonberg and Abe Pastor and Donna Evans and Kay Jarrett.

Three new flight instructors have been added to the flying school at Bellflower Airport. They are Harold Rootlieb, Roger Stevens and Don Hamilton.

Along the same general subject, Jim Flannery, a GI student who is stationed at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, just received his private license. Bill Gieske of Fullerton earned his commercial license.

R. W. Nielsen of Comet Service, 2751 E. Wardlow Rd., local representative of Flying Tiger Line, points with pride to the fact that the Tigers currently are the world's largest carrier of air freight. A new contract with the Navy boosted Flying Tiger's traffic about 2,000,000 ton-miles monthly over any domestic airline.

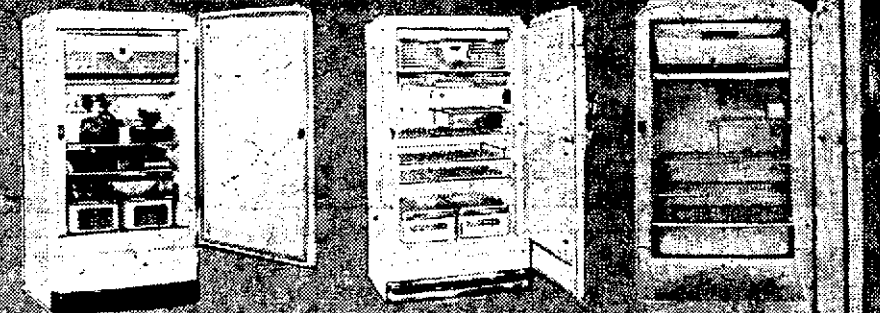

Nielsen also points out that Comet Service is operating in new quarters on the west side of Long Beach Municipal Airport, just north of Standard Aeromotive's hangar.

George Davey, who flies out of Bellflower Airport, is just back from a sort of hitchhiking trip to Alaska. He flew up in a friend's plane and rode back in another friend's car. Said he preferred the flight.

Also back from a trip is Jim Pope, who flew to Nebraska in his recently purchased Cessna 170B, returning via Texas and New Mexico.

Ken Schwonberg is in Cleveland on a trip combining business with pleasure, according to Joyce Smith of Most Aviation Co.

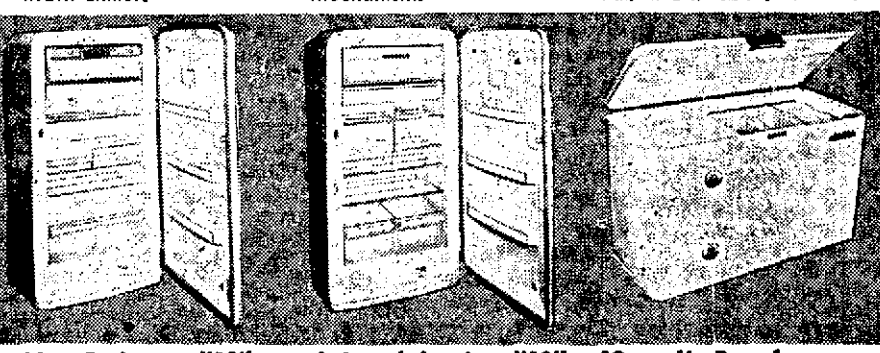

Walt Wehner, district sales manager here for United Air Lines, is plugging UAL's new autumn excursion service to Hawaii. Rates for a round trip now are only $240 plus tax, a drop of $48, says Walt, and will apply until Dec. 10.

Panorama of Long Beach Growth Recalled in Oil Progress Week

ALONG WITH the rest of the nation, Long Beach is noting Oil Progress Week beginning today. In many places it will be only a formality, but here it is much more than that. No city anywhere has better reason to dramatize the oil industry's contribution to its growth and to the strength of its economy.

Oil, more than anything else, transformed Long Beach from a vacation resort to a metropolitan community with a world port. And oil production is still the area's greatest source of material wealth.

This record is easily documented by official figures. Harder to measure are the vision, the enterprise and the advance in technical proficiency that have unlocked a storehouse of age-old riches. Something of the story will be told in the events of Oil Progress Week. Although much of it is familiar, it is worth telling because without it the generosity of nature would have gone for nothing.

As old-timers well recall, the area found its first major source of petroleum June 25, 1921, when Alamitos No. 1 began producing. It was an unspectacular well compared with some that came later, but it marked the discovery of the Signal Hill field.

Since then Signal Hill (designated officially as the Long Beach field) has produced some 750,000,000 barrels of oil valued at well over a billion dollars. (At present prices the value would approach two billions.) Even after 31 years the monthly output is 665,000 barrels.

The immediate impetus of the Signal Hill discovery to Long Beach's growth is shown in population figures over a three-year period. Near the end of 1920 the city's population was apparently stabilized at 55,593, according to the Census Bureau. By 1923 it had more than doubled, the unofficial estimate being 120,000. Not until the industrial expansion of World War II was there a comparable influx of new residents and new enterprises.

Long Beach's city government shared almost at once in the Signal Hill income, through lease of municipally owned land. In 1939 the harbor district's tideland development, an easterly extension of the Wilmington field, opened a second chapter in the city's oil history. The modus operandi was a new form of lease-contract between the city and Long Beach Oil Development Company.

Truman's $1-Billion Dereliction

WASHINGTON.—If somebody took $660,000,000 in currency out of the treasury of the United States and burned it up, the American people would boil over with indignation and demand that somebody be punished for such wanton destruction of the taxpayers' money.

Yet President Truman, who by his failure to use the law Congress gave him caused a loss in taxes now estimated for the steel industry and its workers alone to be $660,000,000, is getting the cheers of the populace as he spends his time campaigning for a vote of approval.

to the Treasury from companies that do not make steel but either transport it or supply raw materials for the steel companies. Nor does it take into consideration the tax losses to the government among companies that fabricate steel.

Economists estimate that the federal treasury lost in 1952 by reason of the steel strike a minimum of $1,000,000,000. The states lost tax money, too.

Somebody has to make up the lost taxes—and it can't be the steelworkers or the steel companies. There was a loss in taxes also because of a diminished profit among companies engaged in national defense work whose costs went up as they waited for steel.

has made in our history. Sen. Byrd wanted to know how much of the loss in taxes arose after the President requested Congress to tell him what to do and after Congress had passed a resolution urging him to use the Taft-Hartley act.

The answer given the Virginia senator is that the tax loss was just about half of the total revenue lost, because the request from Congress came about halfway in the strike period.

Mr. Truman defied the wishes of Congress and refused at any time to invoke the Taft-Hartley act. It now has come out, through a copy of a hitherto unpublished speech made by Philip Murray, head of the Steelworkers Union, on June 22 last, that the President made a commitment to Mr. Murray in December 1951 pledging that the Taft-Hartley act would not be invoked. Hence the President gave away his leverage and the treasury of the United States lost around a billion dollars in revenue through the mishandling of the whole affair.

BYRD'S FIGURES

Sen. Byrd, of Virginia, a few days ago sought the exact figures from the steel companies engaged in the strike and he has made available to this correspondent the data he received. It shows that $601,300,000 of revenue was lost by the U. S. Treasury as a consequence of diminished profits of the steel companies, and that approximately $600,000,000 was lost to the government in the withholding of taxes from steelworkers which could not be collected because wages weren't paid.

These figures, which total approximately $660,000,000, do not take into account the tax losses

Voter Registration Figures Show How Redistricting Has Helped GOP in 18th

HOW REPUBLICAN chances of victory in the 18th Congressional District have been enhanced by reapportionment is clearly indicated in the district's registration figures just announced.

Comparisons between the registration for the coming election, and that for the 1950 balloting, which was before reapportionment, show interesting changes in the percentage held by each party, with the GOP gaining substantially.

This increase for the Republicans came largely through the fact that reapportionment cut off the most heavily Democratic part of the old 18th District. The change left Long Beach, Signal Hill and Lakewood as the 18th District, and eliminated such Democratic strongholds as Compton, South Gate, Lynwood and Norwalk.

Here is what happened, registrationwise:

	Nov., 1950	Pctg.
Total	291,670
Democrats	181,199	62.1
Republicans	92,280	31.6
Nov., 1952
Total	198,819
Democrats	109,891	55.3
Republicans	80,103	40.3

DREW PEARSON

Russ May Offer Phony Peace Plan

WASHINGTON.—Two proposals to solve the most important foreign-relations problem of the day—Peace in Korea—will be aired in the United Nations Assembly when it meets next week. But there's little chance that the peace talks will ever get beyond the propaganda stage.

No. 1—Russian Foreign Minister Vishinsky is expected to make a spectacular but phony peace offer, calling for the withdrawal of Chinese troops from Korea, the return of the Kurile Islands to Japan, and the withdrawal of American troops from Japan—thus leaving Japan unprotected and ripe for Communist invasion.

It is always possible that the Russian and American delegates might be able to sit down behind closed doors and settle the Korean War in New York City—a long way from Panmunjom. However, the American estimate is that Russia wants to prolong the war and talk about peace only for propaganda purposes.

ADLAI DOWN TO EARTH

Adlai Stevenson will bring his lofty phrases down to earth and try out a few "give 'em hell" speeches on a barnstorming, whistle-stop swing through the populated East, beginning shortly.

The Navy is saving the scoop for Life Magazine, but Navy scientists have photographed "phantom" flying saucers in the arctic. They believe this will explain, in part, the flying-saucer mystery.

The Navy saucers were produced during experiments in cosmic-ray research, but were kept secret because of the project's highly classified nature. However, the Navy has finally decided to declassify the pictures and slip them first to Life Magazine.

No. 2—Sec. Acheson will counter the Russian proposal with a dramatic appeal to Communist China and North Korea to end the fighting in Korea. This will be signed by a majority of U.N. members.

A rough outline of the appeal has already been drafted and agreed upon by Britain, France and the United States, plus most of the smaller nations. It will be a direct plea to Peiping and Pyongyang to accept the U.N. truce terms at Panmunjom, endorsing the principle that no prisoner should be forced to return home against his will. Since this is the last remaining stumbling-block in the way of a military truce, the appeal will offer a face-saving formula for ending the war.

The Democratic candidate decided to adopt, in part, President Truman's strategy in order to put some life into the party and bring out the Democratic vote in the big cities.

Stevenson agreed to roll up his sleeves and come out slugging after reports of party apathy from the big Democratic strongholds in the East. His campaign managers, including top adviser Wilson Wyatt, argued that Stevenson had already made a strong impression on the independent voters and had better concentrate for a while on rank-and-file Democrats. If they stay at home in November, Wyatt argued, it will mean that the East's big electoral-vote states will go to Eisenhower.

The rings are plainly visible and could be seen in some parts of the United States.

POLITICO-GO-ROUND

The Republican National Committee has made a secret analysis of the fight for the Senate. As of today, here's how it looks to the Republicans—they think they'll lose Senate seats in Montana, Washington, Indiana and Missouri, but will keep Senate seats in New York, Utah and Wisconsin.

JUST FOLKS . . . By E. A. GUEST

YES AND NO

Two little words are "yes" and "no." Yet from them differences grow. It always causes some distress When Pa says "no" and Ma says "yes." And two opposing views must show When Pa says "yes" and Ma says "no."

But many a Pa has reasoned out Just what to say when he's in doubt. Then neither "yes" nor "no" he'll say, For he has found an easier way. "Go ask your mother," he'll reply. "She has to settle this, not I."

Still better will it always be When both on "yes" and "no" agree. Grave differences sometimes rise When Ma allows what Pa denies. Though little words are "no" and "yes," They often cause unhappiness.

LONG AGO IN LONG BEACH

TEN YEARS AGO

IT WAS ANNOUNCED that Long Beach and the harbor area would be included in the 96 compulsory rent control districts affected in a new ruling by Price Administrator Leon Henderson. . . . The names of 65 persons authorized to purchase new tires were released by the rationing board and printed in the paper.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

ALL RECORDS for registered voters in Long Beach were shattered when the county registrar of voters announced a total of 90,045 eligible to vote on Nov. 8.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

THE LIVES of four Long Beach residents on board the ill-fated Pacific liner City of Honolulu were feared lost after the giant ship burned about 800 miles west of here. . . . Former residents of Pennsylvania gathered in Bixby Park for their annual picnic. . . . Another big local gathering brought thousands of Elks to Municipal Auditorium to hear Gov. W. D. Stephens.

L.A.C. SAYS: Taft-Hartley Law

the measure provided these safeguards.

Here are nine provisions of the bill. When asked separately of union members whether they approved or disapproved, their answer was yes: (1) Would you favor a law to require financial reports by unions? (2) Prohibit Communist union leaders? (3) Delay strikes in public service industries? (4) Allow the union shop only with a majority vote? (5) Allow companies to sue unions? (6) Require a 60-day cooling off period? (7) Outlaw the closed shop? (8) Allow checkoff of union dues only with worker's consent? (9) Allow freedom of speech of employers?

A survey made among union members in a number of industries showed their approval of these measures. The tenth question brought a NO vote by the members. It was—Do you favor a law prohibiting union political contributions?

But a large majority of union members were surprised to know these are provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. They had gone entirely on what they had been told by the union leaders, who resent the curb on the checkoff system, compulsory financial reports and freedom of speech by employers when a strike is threatened.

General Eisenhower and Senator Taft have agreed that among the 28 amendments, proposed by Taft, greater protection to unions should be included. One amendment would be that workers who take jobs vacated by strikers shall not have the right to vote on union affairs. Another change would require employers to take non-Communist oath the same as is required for union leaders. Other changes are acceptable to many unions and their leaders. But to Green of AFL Murray of CIO and Lewis of the miners, only outright repeal is acceptable.

The line is clearly drawn in the coming election. Stevenson has committed himself to the unions for outright repeal. The Democratic platform calls for repeal. On the Republican side, amendments are offered to correct inequities of the measure, but outright repeal is opposed. It is a vital issue because the strength of labor unions has become our greatest economic factor.

The rank and file union members should ask themselves if they wish these restrictions on union leaders removed. They should ask themselves where unions have been harmed in the last five years of the T-H Law. They should look upon the law as a safeguard to union members as well as to the general public. The 75 per cent of all employed persons who belong to no union should understand the provisions of the law.

The issue is whether union leaders are to have unlimited power over our economy and union members or if they are to be made responsible as the law makes employers responsible. These are vital issues which each voter should consider when marking his ballot. The Democratic candidates stand for outright repeal. The Republicans stand for revision but maintaining the important factors shown above. The choice will be made on the Nov. 4 ballot.—L.A.C.

Town Meeting

'Prosperity'

TO THE EDITOR:—I was an official observer at Bikini, and as one of the very few Americans who have seen an atomic explosion at first hand, I find myself depressed and even frightened by the tenor of the Stevenson campaign for the Presidency. The one and only issue which the Democratic party seems to recognize is a record of so-called prosperity and social progress, which the Democrats promise to maintain if the American people return them to power. But these claims are presented with an alarming disregard of economic facts and of the way in which these so-called "prosperities" have really been attained.

The "prosperity" to which they refer has actually been purchased with the lives of more than three-quarters of a million American youngsters who have been killed, maimed, or mentally destroyed in ten years of virtually continuous warfare under Democratic leadership.

Prop. 3

TO THE EDITOR:—As a high school student attending a private nonprofit school, I wish to say this about Prop. 3: Unless the voters vote yes on this issue, California will be a marked state.

Prop. 3, if passed, will free all private nonprofit schools from outrageous taxes without placing a heavy burden upon taxpayers. As it is, parents who send their children to these private schools pay double taxes.

Prop. 3 does not grant subsidies upon these schools but grants justice to them!

'Ailing'

TO THE EDITOR:—I am an ailing Democrat.

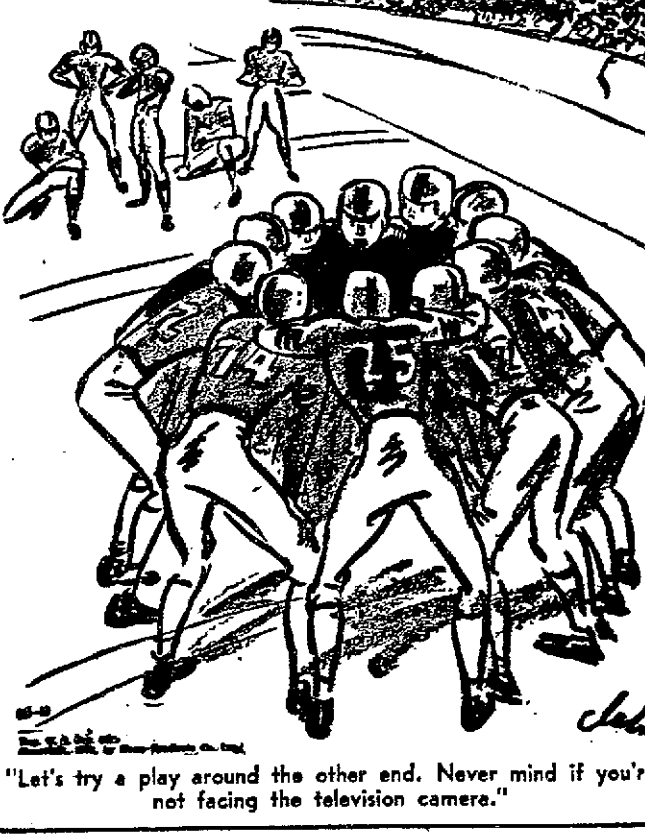

The closer it gets to election, the more I think of voting Republican. Truman says anybody thinking like that should have his head examined.

Several of my friends are worried, too, as to how and where to get our heads examined.

Possibly a mobile medical unit will be set up to handle the crowds.

The Neighbors By George Clark

Stevenson Supports World Citizen Group

By JOHN S. KNIGHT

Publisher Chicago Daily News, Detroit Free Press
THIS WRITER is supporting Gen. Eisenhower for President because there is an imperative necessity for a fresh and resolute attack on the many crucial problems confronting this country.

It is my conviction that Ike is better qualified than his opponent to meet this need.

Eisenhower is a mature man of seasoned judgment who has shown that he has the organizational and administrative capacity to cope with the most delicate and trying situations.

In this campaign, Eisenhower has shown singular ability to grasp the basic issues and the courage to stand for the principles which he feels are in the best interest of the country he loves.

Some will say that he has temporized with the McCarthys and "sold out" to Taft. No one who knows Eisenhower intimately could ever be convinced that he lacks moral stamina. In the great game of politics, a candidate accepts support where he can find it.

Example No. 1 is Gov. Adlai Stevenson, who first wanted nothing to do with Truman but now appears delighted by Harry's reckless and wholly irresponsible whistle-stop outbursts. The governor's period of political chastity was as short as an Arctic summer.

Apart from Eisenhower's obvious qualifications for the Presidency, the case for a change in Washington is well supported by the dismal record of the Democratic party.

So far as we can see, Stevenson, with Truman's help, is attempting to sell a "prosperity" package to the American people.

The strategy is to talk of high wages and social advances; blame the Republicans for Truman's failures, confuse public opinion and cut Gen. Eisenhower down to beatable size.

But in making a choice between Eisenhower and Stevenson, soberminded Americans should take these factors into consideration:

WAR AND PEACE: Within a single generation, the Democratic party has three times carried this country into war, all in the name of peace and democracy.

Yet, as the record shows, peace is still a phantom and democracy has receded, rather than gained, throughout the world.

What a ghastly price we are paying for these mistakes, and yet we are asked to return that party to power in Washington.

CORRUPTION: Throughout the Truman administration, the national government has been rotten with corruption and graft.

The influence peddlers moved in White House circles; public officials accepted bribes, agents of the internal revenue department "fixed" the tax returns of their pals in return for personal favors.

FOREIGN AID: While most Americans favored the principle of giving assistance to war-torn European nations, they have been appalled by the profligacy with which the administration has given our billions away.

In many instances, your tax dollars have been used for such projects as a railroad station in Italy, resort hotels, housing projects and public buildings.

Most shocking of all is the use of American funds to help reduce the public debt of European countries when our own national debt is at a fearsome peak.

TAXES: Both Harry Truman and Adlai Stevenson scoff at Eisenhower's promise to reduce taxes.

But Sens. Paul Douglas of Illinois and Harry Byrd of Virginia, both Democrats, have conclusively demonstrated that the expenses of government can be cut substantially.

Eisenhower says there is too much fat in nonessential military expenditures, and he knows where to slice it off.

However, Stevenson has accepted the views of Truman and you can forget about lower taxes if he is elected.

TRUMAN AND ADLAI: A vote for Stevenson is a vote for Harry Truman and his administration. The President has said as much, and Stevenson has not denied it.

The President and his candidate now see alike on Communists in government, Taft-Hartley, tideland oil, inflation, taxes, foreign policy and corruption in Washington.

Long before Stevenson had given a deposition favorable to Alger Hiss, Truman was pooh-poohing infiltration of the government by the Communists.

On Feb. 28, 1947, Truman wrote Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania: "People are very much wrought up about the Communist 'bugaboo' . . . Our government is made for the welfare of the people and I don't believe there will ever come a time when anyone will really want to overturn it."

ADLAI'S ASSOCIATIONS: Gov. Stevenson's closest friends are advocates of world government, a form of federal union in which the United States would be but one of many states, and subject to the laws, and taxing powers of a world legislature and the decisions of a world tribunal.

Gov. Stevenson, the Democratic candidate for President, also belongs to an organization known as the World Citizens Association, 230 E. Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.

The chairman of this group is Anita McCormick Blaine, a wealthy Chicagoan who made huge contributions to Henry Wallace in 1948 and has since financed the radical, left-wing New York Compass.

In its platform for world citizenship, the World Citizens Association recites: "National states must be subordinate to world civilization; their jurisdiction must be limited by world law, and any local legislation contrary to world law must be null and void."

In another section is mentioned the necessity of recognizing "the larger quality that forces itself upon peoples everywhere" and "every man's interests and responsibilities as a world citizen."

The World Citizens Organization, in its program for world citizenship, says that world institutions must maintain law and order and may supervise such "world services" as the international postal union . . . the stabilizing of world finance, the better organization of commerce, world communications . . . study and regulation of labor conditions and the curbing of such evils as the traffic in women and drugs.

On page 153 of a booklet issued by the World Citizens Organization, the name of Adlai Stevenson appears as a member of the central committee.

While we can offer no objection to anyone's joining this outfit, or any of the other flaky "intellectual" groups, we think it is important for everyone to know that Adlai Stevenson apparently prefers world government in some form to retaining our sovereignty as an independent nation.

And yet, we are asked to elect a Presidential candidate who is willing to fly the flag of a world federation above the Stars and Stripes.

For this reason alone, Stevenson should be soundly defeated.

Kennick, Hosmer Square Off on Taxation Issue

Congressional Candidate Craig Hosmer's views on taxes came in for discussion between him and his opponent, Joseph M. Kennick, yesterday.

Kennick, taking note of comments by Hosmer at a Junior Chamber of Commerce public affairs committee meeting, asserted Hosmer advocates increased income taxes and lower excises.

Kennick claimed Hosmer told the Junior Chamber that a person who drinks liquor should not pay a liquor tax any more than a member of the WCTU.

"That is like saying a person who drives a car should not pay a gasoline tax any more than a person who gets around in a wheelchair or on crutches," asserted Kennick.

Hosmer asserted Kennick's quotation from his talk, taking it out of context, conveys an inaccurate impression.

He said that one of the needed tax reforms in the country is to stop wasting administrative energy on a myriad of separate kinds of excise taxes, each with its separate complications and separate bureaus that make tax collection costs excessive.

He added that in the case of taxes imposed on such items as liquor and cigarettes, a clear distinction should be made as to whether they are for revenue purposes or for controlling use of such items. He asserted that the purpose of taxes is solely for revenue then there is no reason, according to tax economists, to treat a person who uses liquor or cigarettes any different from persons who do not. He said that revenue and police power taxes should not be confused.

Hosmer asserted that indirect taxes fall heavily on people least able to pay, and properly drafted corporate and individual income taxes are the most fair taxes because they are tailored to ability to pay.

He said that in the case of excise taxes or sales taxes, the poor mother pays just as much tax on the necessities she buys for her baby as the millionaire mother.

Kennick jabbed at Hosmer on another angle, charging he has suddenly become interested in juveniles and narcotics.

"He expressed no interest in these subjects when he ran for nomination last spring," said Kennick. "Two years ago he was not concerned with these problems."

"If my opponent wants to run on my platform I shall be glad to see that he gets all of it."

Here's How to Apply for Absentee Ballot

Oct. 15 is the first day to apply for absentee ballots for the November general election. Those expecting to be away from home on election day should act promptly after that date, as the completed application of the ballot must be in the office of the Registrar of Voters on or before Oct. 20.

Here is the way to get an absentee ballot:

1. Write out an application for such ballot, giving name, correct address in your county and the address to which the absentee ballot should be sent.

If the applicant lives in Los Angeles County, address the application to Benjamin S. Hite, Registrar of Voters, 808 North Spring St., Los Angeles 12, Calif.

2. Each person requiring a ballot should apply individually. One application will not be sufficient for man and wife, for example. Each must apply.

Kennick said Hosmer told the Junior Chamber that funds must be increased for foreign control of narcotics. "Any school kid can tell him where to get narcotics," said Kennick. "If my opponent is so naive as to believe he can stamp out narcotics by 'foreign control' he has no business in Congress."

Kennick's comment, sharpest yet in the Congressional campaign, appeared likely to set up a warmer temperature for that race.

COMING EVENTS
Lakewood Young Republicans will meet at 17011 Bellflower Blvd. on Monday evening, with President Ken Askew in charge.

North Long Beach Democratic Club will meet Saturday evening at 5337 Long Beach Blvd. with cards and entertainment following a business session.

GETS JOB
Assemblyman Herbert R. Klocksiem, who was re-elected in the primary in the 44th District, has a new campaign job. He is vice chairman of the Los Angeles County Ike-Nixon campaign for the Long Beach area.

Klocksiem said he is strongly for Eisenhower, and that the nation needs a President "not shackled with the deadwood accumulated by the Truman administration."

BRADLEY WORKERS
Willis Bradley campaigners in the Belmont Shore area are stepping up their plans for a final drive for votes for the Republican.

REGIONAL POLITICS

Adlai Again to Invade Southland Thursday

By THE LOOKOUT

SOUTHLAND DEMOCRATS are shaping plans for Presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson's second whirlwind visit to the area where Republican standard bearer Dwight Eisenhower made political history last week.

Stevenson will fly to Los Angeles from Sacramento next Thursday afternoon for an airport reception, parade, two public speeches and a nation-wide television-radio broadcast.

One of his speeches will be to the AFL Teamsters' Union, which opens its 16th convention in Los Angeles Monday. Two thousand labor union delegates will hear him at Hotel Statler in a 15-minute talk starting at 3:45 p. m.

The Democratic Presidential candidate will deliver a nation-wide television address over KTTV, with no live audience at the scene, at 7:30.

Then Stevenson will go to the Shrine Auditorium for the climax of the day's campaign activities. Doors of the auditorium will open at 7:30 p. m. Democratic Congressional candidates in the Southern California area will be introduced.

Stevenson will speak for 20 minutes, 8:10 to 8:30.

It will be Stevenson's second visit to Southern California within the span of a month, and emphasizes the importance of the populous Southern California area to any candidate seeking this state's 32 electoral votes. He will fly to San Diego after the Thursday night speech.

Narleski Hurls Bruins to Win

ONE OF NARLESKI'S 10 STRIKES—This touchdown pass from Ted Narleski to Ernie Stockert in the first quarter at the Coliseum Saturday started the Bruins on the way to a 20-0 win over Rice.

their fourth straight this season. Though the life of scrimmage was at the 12, Narleski faded back to the 21 behind fine protection to get this toss away, aimed for his right end, Stockert, who is seen waiting for the ball as he gallops into the end zone. The only Owls with a chance to knock it down were Safety Horton Nesrsta (11) and Leo Rucka (55), who had started the play at tackle.

Stockert darted between them to make the catch, one of 10 passes Narleski completed in 15 attempts before he was injured. (Staff Photo by Chuck Telly.)

PORTLAND, Ore.—(A.P.). California's Bears lazed through the first half, but when Oregon made it close, the Bears turned loose their power to run up a 41-7 Coast Conference victory Saturday.

It was the first conference test of the season for the Bears, ranked No. 3 in the nation, and when they found themselves in a 7-7 deadlock at halftime, they burst loose for five touchdowns in the second half.

Their vaunted fullback, John Olszewski, contributed two of them, one on a 70-yard jaunt around end, in which he slipped from the hands of one lineman, then outraced everyone without another tackler touching him.

Oregon cracked the conference passing record in trying to pull an upset. Quarterback George Shaw tried 50 passes, and completed 23 of them to break the record of 21 completions, set by Don Heinrich of Washington last week against UCLA. Shaw's passes gained 244 yards, high conference mark for this season.

For a while it seemed it might work. Shaw threw 21 passes in the first half, completing 12 of them. One 17-yard pass brought the tying touchdown, and Ron Lyman out-jumping two California defenders to catch it just inside the end zone.

After the halftime intermission, California was a different team. The Bears had fumbled away two scoring chances in the first half, but they did not miss an opportunity in the closing periods.

First they drove 71 yards with halfback Bill Powell cisleng end, virtually untouched for the final 36 yards. Then they picked up an Oregon fumble and quarterback Bill Mais at once threw a 34-yard touchdown pass to end Hal Ellis.

Just before the third quarter ended, Olszewski made his 70-yard sprint to give California a 27-7 lead.

Reserves took over then, and added two more scores, one on an 80-yard march, the other on a 58-yard pass play.

Halfback Paul Larson bucked over the ball to end the long march. Quarterback Roy Willsey threw the scoring pass to halfback Bob Brooks, who ran the final 40 yards to the goal line.

Olszewski ran up 172 yards, in ground gains, the best of any conference player this season.

His teammate, halfback Don Johnson, had the best previous mark, 157 yards against Minnesota last week. Scoring: California—Touchdowns—Olszewski 2, Powell, Ellis, Larsen, Brooks. Conversions—Kough 2. Oregon—Touchdowns—Lyman. Conversion—Harvey.

MATHIAS MOVES—Stanford Fullback Bob Mathias, Olympic decathlon champion, picks up 13 yards and a first down against Oregon State during first quarter of Saturday's game at Stanford. Oregon later chalked up the Indians' fourth touchdown, breaking over, right tackle and rolling 61 yards for the counter. The Tribe won, 41-28, to remain undefeated to date in the 1952 football season.—(UP Telephoto.)

Uclan Defense Clicks Again

By DAVE LEWIS
Independent Sports Editor

Los Angeles Coliseum—UCLA's Bruins rolled relentlessly onward to possible Rose Bowl laurels here Saturday as they registered their fourth consecutive victory of the season with a methodical 20-0 conquest of the hapless Rice Institute Owls from the Lone Star State of Texas.

A crowd of 30,926, expecting to see a wild and woolly intersectional struggle, instead witnessed one of the duller games of the young season as the Owls went into a "shell" and played some of the most conservative ball ever exhibited by a Texas team on the Pacific Coast.

While the crack UCLA defensive platoon was effectively stopping everything sent its way by the Texans... the Bruin offensive unit found it necessary to take to the air to register its three touchdowns when its running game was stopped cold by the burly Rice forward wall, which held the Uclans to a net gain of 33 yards on the ground.

In the absence of the injured Paul Cameron, UCLA's ace tailback, Teddy Narleski and sophomore Primo Villanueva spearheaded the Bruin aerial offensive...

the first-half touchdown tosses for a 13-0 lead at the intermission and Villanueva hurling a third scoring strike early in the third quarter.

TEDDY HURT
Villanueva, No. 3 tailback, was rushed into action late in the second quarter when Narleski suffered a badly torn rib cartilage in his right side... an injury which probably will keep him out of next Saturday's crucial struggle with Stanford.

However, Cameron is expected to be back in good health by then.

Big Ernie Stockert, who snagged five airdrops to boost his all-time Bruin pass-catching record to 61, was another casualty in another doubtful performer against Stanford.

OWLS CONSERVATIVE
Observers who were expecting a wide open game from the usually pass-happy Texas crew were astonished by the fact the Owls threw only four passes in the first 38 minutes of play and a mere 14 during the entire game...

... quite a contrast to the 53 pitches the Owls tossed in last week's game with LSU.

Rice completed only two passes for 14 yards while five were intercepted by the alert Bruin secondary.

Only late in the game after failing hopelessly behind in the scoring did the Owls attempt any passing to speak of... and they were quickly discouraged by the Bruin interceptions.

UCLANS ROLL ON
It was the Uclans' second victory over one of the top-ranking

LSU Roms Over Wildcats

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(UP). Louisiana State freed a band of explosive backs to aid Norm Stevens' highly effective passing and routed Kentucky, 34 to 7, Saturday, in what had figured to be a tossup Southeastern Conference football duel.

On its first offensive play, Stevens connected with Al Doggett on a scoring pass that covered 80 yards.

Except for an early threat that bogged down on an attempted field goal, Kentucky was in the hole until a fumble recovery set up its touchdown in the third period. Dick Shatto's nine-yard pass to end Steve Meillinger produced the score.

THERE GOES STOCKERT AGAIN—UCLA's longest gain in defeating Rice in the Coliseum Saturday was this aerial from Ted Narleski to Ernie Stockert, good for 54 yards to the Owls' 14-yard line. Narleski pitched to Ike Jones for the Second Bruin touchdown on the next play. The play shown here originated on UCLA's 34-yard stripe, Narleski throwing from the 26. Stockert made the catch just as he reached midfield at the north sideline and kept going until finally knocked out of bounds at the 14 by End Sammy Ward.—(Staff Photo by Chuck Telly.)

S. F. State Blanks Oxy

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP). San Francisco State drove 52 yards to a touchdown in the first quarter and 76 yards to another in the third for a 14-0 triumph over Occidental of Los Angeles Saturday. Occidental's closest penetration was to State's 24-yard line in the third quarter.

As the game closed, Occidental's quarterback, Bob Sasser, threw a desperation pass, which State's Harry Bremond intercepted and ran back 85 yards for another touchdown but a clipping penalty nullified it. Scoring: Occidental—Sasser 1. S. F. State—Touchdowns—Bremond 2, Sasser 1. Conversions—Bremond 2.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

You don't meet boys like Willie Sommers every day; you might even go for months and never get acquainted with a lad who has as much character, vitality, wholesomeness and fun.

Boys like Willie just can't be found in the city. You have to go native and find them in the great outdoors.

We met Willie at Cooke City, Mont., just outside the north-east entrance to Yellowstone Park, in a rather unusual way. Chuck Vaughan and I had gone there last month to meet another party who was to guide us on a fishing trip into Cooke City's back country. A previous engagement prevented the friend from taking us. Truthfully, his trouble was simple: He had spent so much time fishing that his wife decided to take matters in her hands and keep him at home.

Chuck and I wandered into a small lunchstand for a quick sandwich and coffee at 9 p. m. There we met Mary Holt—and we found Mary's pancakes the following morning the best in the northwest. Mary heard us groaning about our luck. A smile came on her face and she said: "Why worry, why don't you get Willie Sommers across the street? He has a jeep and he knows this country better than any one who lives here."

So we went to see Willie. He was such a boyish youngster that I thought perhaps Mary was just a little overwhelmed in her enthusiasm for him. Only 19 and just out of high school, Willie rather shyly admitted he knew a little something of the lakes and streams in the Cooke City area.

He reckoned he could take us the next morning if Dad didn't have too much work. Willie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sommers, operate a motel and service station.

Willie took a look at the moon and said: "Fishing may not be so good; the trout are feeding at night. But I'll do my best to show you a few."

Jeep Ride One of Biggest Thrills

Willie was waiting for us the next morning in his jeep. We loaded in our gear, rods, reels, tackle boxes, creels and cameras, and roared away. The first two or three miles meant nothing because we were on paved and good dirt roads. Then suddenly things started to happen. Ahead of us lay what Willie called a road. We then were above 8000 feet. But what Willie called a road, I wouldn't dignify it by even calling it a trail. Rocks, boulders, ravines, fallen tree branches! As I said later and as I repeat now, I wouldn't even want to walk up that mountain. But Willie's jeep took everything in stride in four-wheel drive.

And could that boy drive! Never once were we the least bit frightened. His co-ordination was perfect. The country was superb. Great mountains, lakes by the dozens and blue Montana skies filled with clouds! I didn't have to frame color pictures; all I had to do was point the camera and shoot.

We would pass a lake and suggest a try at it. Willie would smile and say: "No fish in there; we'll try the one over the next hump." Fishing was poor but we caught a few, especially if Willie hopped from the jeep and tried his hand. Willie was like a mountain goat, leaping from crag to crag. Up and down he went tirelessly while we huffed and puffed every few feet.

We went all the way to Goose Lake where a hailstorm stopped us for a short while. The fishing became secondary to Willie and his jeep. Here was a boy born and reared in the great outdoors, who could shoot a hole through a tin can at 100 feet with his .45 revolver; a boy who has roamed his native land, fishing and hunting summer after summer.

Willie's Just a Natural Guide

Chuck, who knows more about the outdoors than the average man, was just as fascinated with Willie. He confided once to me: "I never saw anything like him. Have you ever seen such vitality?"

Willie knew just where to drop a fly and what to do with it when there was a swirl. He knew where to sink one and what to do when there was any perceptible movement. He seemed to have a sixth sense that told him when a trout was near the hook. Through it all he was helpful, explaining the peculiar characteristics of each lake in that great country of rock and water. We were above timberline part of the time.

Perhaps you are tired of my praise of Willie. I could go on for another column because he's the kind of boy that makes you feel proud of your country. He's the kind of boy who is symbolic of the American outdoors as it should be—clean, beautiful and strong.

Willie guided us carefully down the mountain and back to Cooke City, stopping to show us sights and clean the fish. Chuck and I went through Yellowstone from northeast to west entrances that night and about all we talked about was Willie and his jeep. Willie was a halfback on the Cody, Wyo., high school team last year and it was a champion team. He's going to Carroll College at Helena, Mont., this year and, without hearing from the football coach there, I'll wager that Willie will be a star on the team.

Of course, Uncle Sam is breathing down Willie's neck and may take him soon. If so, the Army will miss a bet if Willie isn't made a jeep driver. If the Army doesn't take Willie, he'll make the best guide in Montana. Just look for him, if you're in Cooke City.

Record Entry Due for Horse Show

The second annual Los Angeles International Horse Show, which runs Oct. 17-26 at the Pan-Pacific Auditorium, will be the largest in the nation this year.

A record entry of over 1200 horses has already been received, making the 1952 show bigger than those staged in New York's Madison Square Garden and in Kansas City, traditional sites of America's two richest horse shows.

The well-balanced 10-day program, including every type of walking, jumping, and hunting competition, will feature the first Southern California appearance of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The famed scarlet-coated men of the north will bring 37 officers and men, plus 40 crack mounts to Los Angeles.

Leading the Long Beach entry is Dorothy Strohm, who will be shooting for a part of the $35,000 in prizes in the jumping class.

Pirates Take Cole, Sandlock

PITTSBURGH—(AP). The Pittsburgh Pirates, taking steps to make over their last-place team for next season, Saturday obtained infielder Dick Cole and catcher Mike Sandlock from Hollywood in the Pacific Coast League in exchange for three players.

They are second baseman John Merson, pitcher Joe Muir and outfielder-infielder Lee Walls. The deal puts the Pirate roster at 36 players.

Six Local Games on Semipro Card

Six games are on the semipro baseball menu for teams in the Recreation Commission Leagues here today, with double-headers at Wilson High, Park Ave. Field and City College all starting at noon. Schedule:

AT WILSON HIGH—12, Douglas Engineers vs. Lakewood Merchants; 2:30, Naval Midway vs. Ocean View.
AT PARK AVE. FIELD—12, Broadway City vs. Gateway Flowers; 2:30, Signal Hill vs. Audubon.
AT CITY COLLEGE—12, Eagles No. 751 vs. Wilmington Eagles; 2:30, San Pedro Independents vs. L. B. Merchants.

LAST BLAST!—Final, roaring blast of 1952 from motors of powerful inboard speedboats will sound over waters of Marine Stadium starting at 1 p. m. today. Regatta, sponsored by the Southern California Speedboat Club to help it "underwrite" the national desert race meet on Salton Sea in November, is expected to lure a top field of boats. Pictured are Pacific One Design hydroplanes.

Commission Girds for Annual Hoop Program

Five Gyms Set for Big Show

There's basketball in the air locally as Rod Ballard and his right-hand man, Walt Sheek, start machinery rolling for the annual Recreation Commission city-wide hoop program. Entry blanks have been mailed to previous team sponsors, an entry blank deadline has been set for Friday, Oct. 24, and the first league games will be played Monday, Nov. 3.

Accommodations are more or less unlimited this year, with several new gyms now available, but for the time being plans call for play to be held each night of the week at Jordan and Poly High courts, at Jefferson, Franklin and Washington Jr. High gyms.

Usual schedule calls for triple-headers each night at each gym, starting at 7 o'clock, and other gyms will be added to the program if the number of entries warrant the increase.

Teams interested in joining the program may obtain entry blanks at the Recreation Commission office at the Municipal Auditorium.

Coaches Review Games on Monday

Second guessers among Long Beach football fans will get a chance to air their views again at the weekly breakfast session of the Monday Morning Quarterbacks Club at 7:30 a. m. Monday at Hugo's Restaurant, 5834 Atlantic Ave.

The informal gabfest will be open to all men and women who care to join in, and the panel will include coaches of the four local high school squads and Buck Andresson from City College.

Due to be cut up with the ham and eggs are the games played over the current week end between City College and Pasadena, Poly and Downey, Wilson and Whittier, Jordan and Alhambra and St. Anthony's and Riversdale. No reservations are necessary.

Colgate Outlasts Rutgers, 13-7

HAMILTON N. Y.—(AP). Underdog Colgate's defensive-minded football team picked up two touchdowns on a pair of breaks in the second period Saturday then outlasted Rutgers' last period scoring threat to win 13-7. The first score came at 6:09 of the second quarter when a pass interference penalty gave the Red Raiders the ball on the Rutgers four and Halfback Al Simmons scored on the next play.

Four minutes later, Simmons picked off a Don Dreier pass and galloped 65 yards for Colgate's final score.

WALT FAULKNER Drives at Pomona Today

Stock Cars in 100-Mile Pomona Race

POMONA—Headed by hard-driving Marshall Teague of Daytona Beach, Fla., the nation's speed kings converge upon the L. A. County Fairgrounds today for the 100-mile AAA national championship stock car race.

Managing Director J. C. Aganjan of San Pedro has posted a $5000-guaranteed purse to assure fans of the finest in cars and drivers. Last Feb. 24, Southland approval of AAA-sanctioned stock car racing when 17,000 saw a similar 100-mile, with a resulting purse of $10,400 for the drivers.

Teague's 20 wins out of 27 starts this season has placed him in certain control of the 1952 stock car title, and he will again drive a Hudson Hornet Sunday, having used this type of machine in all previous wins. Also slated to tool Hornets are Jack McGrath of Glendale, Andy Linden of Los Angeles, Danny Oakes of Beverly Hills and Perry Grimm, Inglewood.

Johnny Mantz, Duarte, tools a 1952 Nash Ambassador. Mantz makes his initial start since rejoining AAA ranks. Bill Taylor, 1948 Coast stock champ from Temple City, wheels a 1952 Packard. Bobby Ball, "Professional Athlete of 1951" for the state of Arizona, wheels a 1952 DeSoto Firestone 8, while Sam Hanks, Glendale, also pilots one of these power-steering jobs.

Other threats include Walt Faulkner, Long Beach, and Biddy Biddinger, Pico, Olds 88's; Hal Cole, Bell, Plymouth; and George Seeger, Whittier, Ford 6. Gates will open at 11 a. m., with time trials at 1 p. m. and the 100-mile at 2:30 p. m.

Duke Still Unbeaten

COLUMBIA, S. C.—(AP). Duke University's alert defense helped to overwhelm South Carolina, 36-7, here today before a Southern Conference crowd of 22,000. Duke, ranked sixth in the nation, remained undefeated.

Rockets Face Star Kist Nine

Two of the Southland's strongest semipro baseball clubs will tangle at Recreation Park today when the Star Kist Tuna nine of San Pedro faces Bill Feistner's Long Beach Rockets. Game time is 2:15 p. m.

Les Phillips, one of the star hurlers for the Los Alamitos Air Raiders service team this past summer, probably will pitch for Star Kist Tuna today and will be backed by a fast squad which has given a good account of itself in semipro company.

Rex Cecil, who hurled a long string of victories for the Rockets a few months ago before returning to organized baseball with the El Paso team, is slated to start on the mound for the locals, with Al Ziegler catching. Pitcher Bud Dagle probably will not don a Rocket uniform today.

Rocket infielders due for service today are Ev Pearson, Morley Bockman, Frank Estes, Whitey Thomson and Red Meairs. Outfield talent probably will include Joe Duhem, Jack Graham, George Seifridge, Don Taylor, Ted Herder and others.

Table Tennis Here Nov. 7-8

Seventh annual Long Beach open table tennis championships, slated for Washington Jr. High gym Nov. 7-8, is likely to be a wide-open affair since the men's singles crown will not be defended by the great Keun Hang Choi, who has returned to his native Korea.

John Hanna, president of the sponsoring Long Beach Table Tennis Club, announces that play will be held in men's and mixed doubles, Class "A" singles and doubles; women's singles, junior singles (under 18) and in senior men's singles (over 35). In the meantime, table tennis interest is gaining with regular once-a-week open play at the Washington Jr. High gym every Monday evening from 7 until 10 p. m.

Open Badminton Classes Here

Anyone interested in playing badminton, or in learning to play the game, has been invited by the combined badminton clubs of Long Beach and the sponsoring Recreation Commission to attend the weekly open sessions from 7 to 10 p. m. at the Wilson High and Jordan High gyms.

Play is held each Tuesday and Thursday nights at Wilson, and on Tuesday nights at Jordan.

Leading tournament players from the badminton clubs are on hand each night to give free instruction to beginners, while those who already play can obtain suitable competition.

Marquette Swats Detroit U., 37-27

DETROIT—(AP). Marquette University added a sour note to the University of Detroit's homecoming festivities by surging from behind in the fourth quarter to down the Titans Saturday, 37 to 27.

A crowd of 12,298 saw Marquette sophomore halfback Ed Mixan turn the tide on the first play in the fourth period when he cut around left end on a hand off and raced 58 yards down the sideline to put the Hilltoppers in front 25-20.

Marquette scored twice more in the final period, while the Titans managed only one touchdown in the last half.

Inboards Hold Last 1952 Regatta on Marine Stadium Waters Today

By BOB RUSKAUFF

For the last time this year on the tricky local course, the swift, sleek boats of inboarding will command waters of the Long Beach Marine Stadium in one of two major speedboat meets this afternoon in the Southland.

Feuding Schnabel, Becker to Collide

A "natural" presented itself to Promoter Harry Rubin, generalissimo of the Long Beach Wrestling Club, last Thursday night when hot words in the dressing room developed into a free for all fight between the Becker brothers and Hans Schnabel.

As a result the main event this Thursday will find the old block buster Schnabel, meeting popular George Becker for a winner take all, to-a-finish wrestling match.

Big barrel chested Hans had a mouthful of disparaging remarks to make about the Beckers, who did what any red blooded American boys would do. The Brooklyn boys were perhaps quicker tempered than usual due to the outcome of the World Series.

George, while lighter and shorter than the Milwaukee power-house, is capable of taking care of himself in the roughest company and will have some surprises in store for Hans. Schnabel has made enemies wherever he appears with his vicious style of wrestling. This will be an exciting two out of three fall brawl with the winner not only walking off with a victory but all the money as well.

Bobby Managoff, long-time local club champion, tangles with the hooded monster, known as Mr. X in the semi-windup, two out of three falls, 45-minute limit. While the masked man's identity is unknown, his reputation as a tough competitor is legend. Managoff has chalked up victories for himself the past two weeks but will have to do a lot of wrestling to take the measure of Mr. X.

The Zebra Kid, 301 pounds of trouble, meets Woody Strode, ex-grid star, in the special event. Strode, a long, lanky fellow, is the underdog in the one-fall, 30-minute bout. The Zebra Kid, built on the five-by-five side, is one of the best matmen in the country. A treat for scientific fans will be offered in the opener as Bobby Becker matches might with the Golden Greek, Jess James, for a 20-minute, one-fall go-round.

Respective leaders in the Newport series so far are the feminine international champion of Lehman class, Virginia Haskell in Wee Mite and H. W. Thorne's Albatross, Espinita. Miss Haskell has become the sailor of sailors in the sporty LIC fleet and has scored two thirds and a first spot in the Bogart series so far.

Alamitos Bay YC sailors, who recently buttoned up their fall action, will compete in outside events but keep things quiet on the bay until their next prewinter racing feature, the annual Turkey regatta, the week end before Thanksgiving.

Aided by a fumble on the Brown 35 and a 15-yard roughness penalty against the Bruins, the victors scored their touchdown on an eight-yard plunge by Fullback John Almy. Lew Masotti place-kicked the seventh point.

Brown had taken a 6-0 lead in the first quarter on a 30-yard pass from Pete Kohut to Sandy Kassaris.

Rhode Islanders Edge Browns, 7-6

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—(AP). Rhode Island University defeated Brown for the first time since 1935 Saturday when a touchdown and extra point late in the final period gave them a 7-6 victory before 15,000 fans at Brown Field.

Aided by a fumble on the Brown 35 and a 15-yard roughness penalty against the Bruins, the victors scored their touchdown on an eight-yard plunge by Fullback John Almy. Lew Masotti place-kicked the seventh point.

Brown had taken a 6-0 lead in the first quarter on a 30-yard pass from Pete Kohut to Sandy Kassaris.

WHERE SIX ESCAPED

Norwalk's Inmates Not Violent

By RALPH McCLURG

NORWALK—Although Southern California holds a staggering lead over the rest of California in the number of sex offenders sent to state hospitals by the courts, there are none in Norwalk State Hospital with a history of violence, Dr. Robert E. Wyers, director of the institution, said Saturday.

In recent weeks six sexual psychopathic patients have broken through minimum security facilities at the institution or walked to freedom.

The latest two escapees were captured without struggle Thursday night by sheriff's deputies at Barstow. They were Floyd Batterson, 29, of Long Beach, and Franklin Benton, 22, of Downey. Both are being returned to Los Angeles courts.

The pair left the hospital Tuesday night after forcing a hush off a heavy window screen. "Of the 300 inmates listed as sexual psychopaths at the local hospital, a minimum security unit, none, in a strict sense are considered dangerous. All patients are screened by the courts and members of the state mental staff before commitment," Dr. Wyers declared.

Patients at the local institution in the sexual psychopathic classification are confined by the courts for a 90-day period for observation or are the "curable" type, committed for treatment. Those considered violent, dangerous or incurable are placed in Mendocino State Hospital where maximum security facilities are available, Dr. Wyers said. In addition, the program here is only temporary as state plans call for construction of a new maximum security institution which will provide more rigid screening for commitments here.

Norwalk State Hospital, which served the nine Southern California counties, receives approximately three times as many commitments of sexual psychopaths as the Mendocino institution. This is considerably disproportionate to population and indicates that either Southern California has more than its share of sexual psychopaths or the courts in the area are more conscious of the menace to society.

Nearly 1000 persons have been committed under indeterminate sentences to California State Hospitals under the sexual psychopath act since its enactment in 1933. The law placed California in a leading position in taking a treatment approach to the problem of sex offenses.

At the present time the Norwalk institution has a total of 2378 patients with 300 in psychopathic wards. About 60 per cent of the patients committed for observation receive indeterminate

ROUTE TO FREEDOM—The escape window where two sexual psychopathic patients at Norwalk State Hospital fled Tuesday is inspected by Earl J. Wademan, acting supervisor of nursing service, and Dr. Robert E. Wyers, director of the institution. periods of confinement for treatment. The other 40 per cent are found not to be sexual psychopaths or are returned to trial court because they would not benefit by treatment. In a recent report to the California Conference of Judges, Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Philip H. Richards said, "violent sex offenders who cannot be cured should be quarantined until they are no longer a menace to society."

He termed the present act "seriously defective," and said the provision allowing return of incurables to trial court should be amended.

Poly High and Lynwood Girls Win Essay Prizes

Linda Thais, 14, of St. Emydius School, Lynwood, and Rose Ann Wood, 15, of Poly High of Long Beach, were winners among elementary and high school students, respectively, in the statewide essay contest on "Why I Want to Own My Own Home," sponsored by the California Real Estate Association.

Both girls were presented trophies in San Francisco during closing sessions of the association's week-long 48th annual convention.

Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Thais, of 10781 San Vicente Ave., Lynwood, and is in the 9th grade at St. Emydius. Her essay written last spring was entered by the Compton-Lynwood Board of Realtors as the winning essay among elementary school pupils in that area.

Rose Ann is a junior at Poly and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard A. Wood, of 1530 Appleton St. Her entry was the winner in the high school division in a similarly sponsored contest last spring by the Long Beach Board of Realtors.

Both winners received a trip by plane to San Francisco, accompanied by one parent, where they received the trophies awarded by James M. Udall, association president.

Los Altos Brews Fight on Liquor

A delegation from the Los Altos area is scheduled to appear before the State Board of Equalization in Los Angeles Tuesday and protest an application to transfer a liquor license to the Village Inn, 2099 Bellflower Blvd. The hearing on the application will be held at 9:40 a. m. in Room 531 Black Bldg., 357 S. Hill St., it was announced.

A petition signed by more than 250 Los Altos residents was filed with the board in September in protest to the application and additional protests will be entered on the record Tuesday, sponsors of the petition said.

In a recent report to the California Conference of Judges, Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Philip H. Richards said, "violent sex offenders who cannot be cured should be quarantined until they are no longer a menace to society."

He termed the present act "seriously defective," and said the provision allowing return of incurables to trial court should be amended.

Austria Needful of Independence, L. B. Visitor Says

Dr. Rudolf Strasser, Austrian newspaperman, director of the Austrian Federal Chamber of Commerce and Washington correspondent for a half-dozen leading newspapers of his country, visited Long Beach last week. He was accompanied by Dr. Frederick E. Waller, consul-general for Austria of the western states. Dr. Waller for many years was a resident and businessman of Long Beach.

While touring the Pacific coast, Dr. Strasser addressed numerous civic organizations.

DR. RUDOLF STRASSER Tells Austria's Problems and before coming to the coast he covered the Republican and Democratic national conventions for his papers. After a tour of the Long Beach harbor and several of the larger industrial plants he left for Washington, D. C.

The economic potential of California, and political problems generally, together with an intensive inquiry concerning industrial, agricultural and oil development and growth of Long Beach in population and solution of the housing situation to accommodate the ever-increasing influx of newcomers, were his principal interests here, and aroused his enthusiastic admiration.

"We should get better acquainted," he said, in summing up his tour. "Your people should visit my country, and more Austrians should have an opportunity to witness the phenomenal growth and progress of your city," he said.

Discussing the necessity of restoring Austria's independence as a step towards the consummation of world peace, Dr. Strasser said:

"Austrian foreign policy must foster any development toward a four-power agreement on her independence or continue to exist under the present system of restricted administrative capacities under a four-power control board. In fact, after the failure of 258 conferences on the subject of an Austrian state treaty, the Austrian population has lost confidence in the possibility of solving the Austrian problem through four-power talks. Therefore through an unanimous vote of the Austrian parliament, the country's population last April decided to present the problem of her sovereignty to the General Assembly of the United Nations, hoping that an overwhelming world public opinion in favor of Austria's independence could somehow influence the decisions of the Soviets, who alone have blocked every western attempt to restore the country's independence.

COMMUNITY CHEST

FOR OUR TOWN...

FOR OUR NEIGHBORS

Long Beach City Employees believe in "People Helping People"—which is the way of the Community Chest. Last fall, they contributed $11,037.72 to the Chest—an average of $3.67 for every City Employee, including part-time workers. This means that despite a lower family income, the average City Employee gave more than 2 1/2 times as much to the Chest as the average per capita gift from all people in the Long Beach area.

In addition, 411 City Employees served as Volunteer Workers for the Chest during the past year.

This year, the City Employees' Association urges its members—and all Long Beach residents—to increase their gifts to meet the Chest goal of $554,200.00.

Shore of 'Palos Verdes Island' Traced to Refinery in Torrance

TORRANCE — Looking for Palos Verdes Island? It disappeared 250,000 years ago, but you'll find the shore line right in the middle of a Torrance oil refinery.

This was the discovery last week of George P. Kanakoff of the Los Angeles County Museum paleontology staff.

Thanks to the alertness of S. R. Goycollea, a stillman at the General Petroleum Corporation refinery in Torrance, Kanakoff was able to locate the easterly shore of the ancient island which became linked with the mainland about 250,000 years ago—give or take a few thousand either way.

THIRTY FEET below surface of the grounds of General Petroleum's Torrance refinery, George P. Kanakoff shovels out 250,000-year-old fossils from ancient Palos Verdes Island. Kanakoff is a paleontologist from Los Angeles County Museum.

GOYCOLLEA NOTICED a peculiar horizontal line of sand in a 40-foot excavation being dug at the refinery. He clambered in and scratched away, digging out a few small shells. These were forwarded to Kanakoff by A. E. Thompson, refinery manager.

The samples brought an immediate request for a personal visit by Kanakoff, which was granted. The paleontologist arrived with pick, shovel, screens and gummy sacks and spent two hours digging out samples of the long buried fossils.

He expressed an opinion that the sand reef turned up by the excavation established the easterly shore of Palos Verdes Island—or at least where the shoreline was during the Upper Pleistocene Age, which ended 250,000 years ago.

FOR SOME TIME Los Angeles County paleontologists have been mapping the topography of this area as it existed during the different geologic ages.

An important feature of the Upper Pleistocene Age was Palos Verdes Island, which had first made its appearance a couple of million years before. It was gradually linked up with the mainland by deposits of alluvial clay which filled in the intervening channel. Some 30 feet of this clay covered the sand bed in the refinery.

Kanakoff views the increasing urbanization of Los Angeles with regret. A short, wiry, grey-haired man with a finely waxed and pointed mustache, he observes:

"It is getting harder and harder to find good fossil deposits here. Everywhere there is building going on and our geologic history is slowly being covered over with concrete."

County Districts Rated Lopsided

Further reason for the reapportionment of the badly lopsided representation in the five supervisorial districts of Los Angeles County was seen as the latest official registration figures swelled the voting population of the three larger districts at the expense of the two smaller populated districts.

Registration of 673,954 voters was noted for the Nov. 4 general election in the First Supervisorial District, represented by Herbert C. Legg of Downey.

Legg is one of the strong boosters on the board for a thorough re-districting.

The second in size is Raymond V. Darity's Fourth District, with 637,197 voters. Next comes Roger W. Jessup's Fifth District, with 589,869. Supervisor John Anson Ford's Third District has 513,689 voters.

In last place is the Second District of Supervisor Leonard J. Roach, with only 293,957 voters.

Envoy to Danes Will Address School Leaders

Fifteen hundred school supervisors from more than 500 California communities will arrive in Long Beach today for opening sessions of a four-day conference called by Roy Simpson, state superintendent of public instruction.

The convention is the third school session to be held here within a week. Trustees and administrators ended their meetings on Saturday.

Headline event of the conference will be the address Monday evening of Eugenie M. Anderson, U. S. ambassador to Denmark.

The first general session will be tonight at 8 in Municipal Auditorium. Dr. Harry W. Smallenburg, president of the California School Supervisors Assn., will preside at the meeting, which will feature an address on "Education in California Meets New Challenges" by Simpson and one on "Changes in the Cultural Pattern of Life in California" by Dr. L. James Quillen of Stanford.

END BIFOCAL TROUBLES

MEN AND WOMEN who wear bifocals often are puzzled by their inability to see clearly at "arm's length." The reason for this difficulty, however, is very simple. The bifocal has two focal powers. The power for reading seldom is effective at more than 18 inches. The power for distance is most effective at distance six feet and beyond. In many cases the eye cannot accommodate itself to the range that lies between "arm's length" and "six feet and beyond." CONTINUOUS VISION LENSES provide for this deficiency by adding a third power for arm's length, and minimize HEAD TILT. Come in or phone 62-8319 for appointment. Open Friday Evenings and all day Saturday. Convenient weekly or monthly payments arranged if desired. In Long Beach 25 years.

"There's one thing that really irks me," expounded the usually easy-going Bob, "and that's to hear some disc jockey revive a Russ Colombo record with the comment that 'Here's the guy from whom Bing Crosby got his style.'"

Bob claims that the famed Crosby style was first put on records as early as 1926 when Bing sang with Paul Whiteman's Rhythm Boys. The famed Whiteman recording of "Mississippi Mud," made sometime in the late 20's, backs up brother Bob. Bing takes an occasional solo and shows flashes of the Crosby style in that collector's item.

By 1930, Bing and Russ were both singing in Gus Arnheim's orchestra at the Coconut Grove here. Russ, a violinist, preceded Bing by some years as a member of the orchestra.

"One day," says Bob, "Con Conrad, the songwriter, borrowed $500 from Bing and then used it to take Russ back to New York for his radio debut as a national soloist."

Bob claims that Conrad played recordings that Crosby had made with Arnheim and Whiteman on the train trip back and thus developed the Colombo style, which was similar to Bing's. Russ got on the air from New York about three weeks ahead of Bing. Quite a rivalry developed until Russ's untimely death from a shooting accident in 1934.

Neither Conrad nor Colombo are around any more to give their side of the controversy and Bing, casual then as now, never lets it bother him enough to comment on it.

However, Arnheim indicates that Bob's story could be true except for Bing loaning the $500.

"Bing never had that kind of money in those days," recalls Gus.

Arnheim said that Colombo's style of singing was much different before Crosby joined the band.

"Russ sang much higher, as I recall. Later, he lowered his voice. I have always thought it a useless controversy. Both boys hit big at about the same time with the same type of style. Crosby skyrocketed while Colombo started a little slower. Russ was not a rhythm singer. He lacked Crosby's versatility. Where Crosby could sing hillbilly, sacred or blues, Russ was best with love ballads."

What Does Junior Think of Television?

What do your children think of television?

Do they date on murder programs?

How are parents meeting the problem of bedtime for young TV fans?

A survey undertaken as a matter of interest and with no attempt to prove anything drew a wide array of opinion from third graders in Long Beach schools.

These typical comments indicate that both television and children are here to stay. Beyond that, there may be a few surprises for parents in the juvenile reaction to the newest form of entertainment.

Marilyn: I like Cartoon Time.

Jackie: I like television, 'cause when you don't have anything to do you can watch and learn to make things and watch the news.

Mike: It's just movies only you don't have to pay.

Marilyn: I usually go to bed at 7 but if there is a special program, I stay up 'til 8.

Mike: I hide behind the couch and watch it's bedtime.

Bobby: I get my mother to open my door and then I get out of bed and look through the crack.

Ann: I usually play in the morning and then watch television in the afternoon.

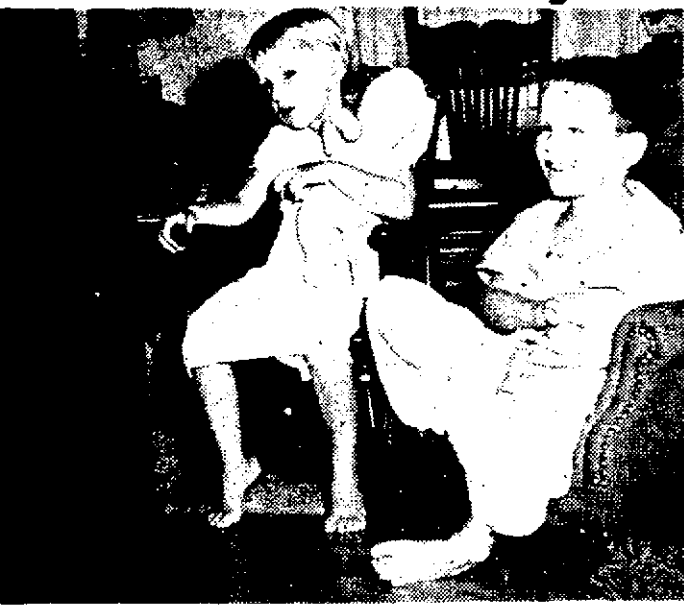

Jackie: Sometimes I watch television and then I go out and then come in again to watch.

Danny: The best programs are when school is on. I like to be sick and stay home.

Carole: Mother won't let us turn it on until 5 o'clock.

Buddy: If you watch too much it will hurt your eyes. Mother lets me see four programs. Allen: I can watch until Daddy comes home.

Jerry: There's one program I don't want to watch. "Tales of Tomorrow." It gave me a nightmare last Tuesday. An insect was killing everybody.

Gary: "I like Red Skelton. He does jokes. We saw Martin and Lewis.

Peggy: Cartoons are good, too. Ricky: "It isn't too good. You might forget to go to bed, and then you wouldn't get your school work."

Bob: If you get too close, it hurts your eyes.

Susan: The news is good. We saw the lady swim the channel.

Larry: Murders aren't good. My aunts do not have a television and they look at ours. When they look at murders, I get nightmares.

Mary: They make eye strain—then you learn less in school.

The children discussed programs they and their parents liked and suggested the following:

"Amos and Andy," "I Love Lucy," "Queen for a Day," "Spade Cooley," "News," "You Asked for It," Charlie Chan.

TOKYO ROSE HAS RIVAL

Tars Teased by Squalling Squaw

By CHUCK CHEATHAM

Servicemen recently returned to Long Beach from far north waters near Greenland report the debut of another radio rascal who rivals Tokyo Rose of World War II's dubious fame.

She is Moscow Mollie, a squalling squaw who broadcasts from behind the Iron Curtain perverted propaganda designed to cause our men to give up the battle against Red domination of the world.

She continually harps on "Why don't you go home, Yanks? Give up the Imperialists' war before you lose your wives and sweethearts."

Long before our government released any information concerning our super-secret base being built on Greenland, Moscow Mollie was filling the airways with minute descriptions of the establishment.

IF CIVILIAN employees were flown on furloughs by the armed forces to Boston, the pettifogging petticoat greeted them on return with their names and a detailed description of how and where they spent their time in the Bean City.

Time and again she pointed out to the returnees the glories of the mainland and reminded them they could enjoy all the home comforts all the time by merely failing to return to the isolated island base.

Sailors, it sea would be greeted with the name of their vessel and a description of the meal they had just eaten. If the sailors dined on roast beef and apple pie, the mystifying moll would ask concernedly, "How was the apple pie and roast beef?"

CALLING CREW members by name, she would deliver such messages as "Tom Jones, don't worry about your wife being lonely. I'ma is having a wonderful time making all the bars with a host of boy friends."

Or again, Sailor Bill Brown would be told, "Sorry, Bill, nothing new on your wife Rose. She still hasn't had the baby. I'll let you know when."

Along with news of births and deaths she broadcasts to individuals, Moscow Mollie keeps up a steady flow of misinformation about the U. N.'s intentions and the glories of the Red heaven on earth which she claims the frozen Russian steppes to be.

So far, those who have reported on her broadcasts say, the myopic Moscow Mollie has failed to gain a single recruit for the Red world.

Canada Boosts Aluminum Units

MONTREAL — (AP). Canada's production of aluminum in the next two years will be stepped up nearly one third and is expected to approach figures that will be more than one half of the present world output.

This swift rise comes through huge development operations of the Aluminum Company of Canada, subsidiary of Canada's Aluminum, Limited, only producer of aluminum in this country.

The expansion is in two provinces, Quebec and British Columbia. At present Canada's entire production is centered in Quebec. The company's biggest production unit is at Arvida, up north in the Saguenay district.

This year Arvida, a company-designed town cut from the "bush" of Northern Quebec and incorporated in 1927, celebrates its 25th anniversary. In that quarter of a century, it has become the aluminum capital of the world because of the fast-flowing rivers that provide electric power, vital to aluminum production.

No Curtain Calls Climax This Playhouse Venture

By BUD LEMBE
Members of the group quietly take their places and the "performance" begins, sans audience and sans applause.
Although there are no curtain calls to climax their efforts, the Long Beach Community Playhouse actresses and actors who meet once a month for a play study-discussion enjoy their work.
Participants are in two classifications: Experienced Playhouse performers who want to maintain and improve their skill, and newcomers who need experience in interpretive reading to prepare for roles in Playhouse productions.
The reading sessions were begun in July. Each month, participants sink their talents into a different full-length play recently presented on Broadway. The first act is summarized by a member; the second act is read

MRS. O. W. COLE

By experienced players. Newcomers get their chance in the third act.
Over coffee served after the reading, members dissect the play, discuss its merit and demerit and whether it might be suitable for future Playhouse staging. Mrs. O. W. Cole, chairman of the group, presides over the study session. Miss Beth Fisher is secretary.
Each meeting thus far has been attended by more than 40 Playhouse members. The play-reading exercise is particularly popular with men and women who haven't the time for frequent appearances in regular presentations at the theater.
The group's next meeting will be at 8 p. m. Oct. 12 to read "Another Part of the Forest" in the Playhouse 3021 E. Anaheim St. Only members of the Community Players are eligible to take part, but memberships are open to anyone interested in the theater.

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

By LOUIS CALHORN (Guest Columnist)
HOLLYWOOD—Rome wasn't built in a day—and proof of the adage is seen on the screen in "Julius Caesar." MGM's pictorialization of the famous Shakespearean historical drama.
On the well-remembered Ides of March in 44 B. C. the film illustrates ancient Rome still under construction.
Foundation stones, columns and the scaffolding of a new public building appear along one side of the Forum where Marlon Brando, as Mark Antony, comes "to bury Caesar, not to praise him" before a funeral throng of "friends, Romans, countrymen."
This new building is the Basilica Julia, which authentic Roman records of 2000 years ago indicate was under construction at the time.
Julius Caesar, whose robes I wear in the picture, was a builder by nature and an enthusiastic sponsor of public works. But it was a sign of the dictator's pride and ambition for which Brutus (James Mason), Cassius (John Gielgud), Casca (Edmond O'Brien) and the other conspirators assassinated him that Caesar had used tax money to erect a personal monument—the Basilica Julia, in free Latin-to-English translation, was the Temple of Julius.

(played by Greer Garson) are shown living in a hilltop villa which is surprisingly "modern" and "functional" by today's architectural standards. They were exponents of "indoor-outdoor" living. Their dining table was set on the open terrace, under a protecting canopy. Calpurnia kept house in a flexible floor plan, which she could rearrange more or less at will through the use of drapes and screens.
Brutus and his wife Portia (Deborah Kerr) lived in even more up-to-date surroundings. Their home, in an outlying residential district, was built along "ranch-style modern" lines with wide, overhanging roof trellises. The living quarters opened directly onto a patio garden.
This surprising modernism of Roman houses—which had been borrowed largely from the still more ancient Greek architects—was not entirely a surface matter, either.
Research by MGM's art department turned up abundant evidence that particular Roman houses enjoyed a pioneer form of air conditioning. Air circulated to interior rooms was "washed" through sprays of water, carried by bronze or copper pipes, as a precaution against the "vile contagion" of the natural atmosphere (i. e., disease germs) and as a cooling agent in summer.

"They also had radiant heating for water," Art Director Carlo Carfagno reported. "Hot water pipes were buried under the floor slab." Hot water was no great problem. Slaves, laboring in shifts to stoke the wood fires beneath large boilers, kept it flowing.

The sets, like Rome itself, weren't built in a day. They were the product of several months of creative planning and labor by studio art and construction departments. The emphasis, however, was on dramatic effect rather than archaeological detail.
Director Joseph L. Mankiewicz, Producer John Houseman, Art Director Cedric Gibbons and Edward Carfagno, the associate art director assigned to "Julius Caesar," agreed on that point at the outset.
"We're making Shakespeare's play into 'Plutarch's Lives,'" as Mankiewicz expressed it. "It's a melodrama, still as modern today as when it occurred. We want the audience to believe they're seeing it in ancient Rome—but not to the distracting point where our camera lingers carelessly on the columnar frieze or gingerbread."
The result is a blend of authentic realism in wardrobe and props with undated, stylized architecture in the settings.
At certain points historical accuracy came to the aid of designers and set decorators—particularly in the case of the athletic stadium where Caesar and his entourage come to watch Mark Antony run a foot race, early in the story.
Sharp eyes in the audience may note that this structure is dissimilar to the Colosseum they know on Roman post cards of today. Studio artists made no attempt to duplicate the famous Colosseum. History, in fact, saved them the trouble—for the Colosseum wasn't built until about 135 years after Caesar's death.
History also gave an assist when it came to visual pointing-up of the play's essential modernity.
Caesar and his wife Calpurnia

Ex-Salesman Follies Star

Six years ago, a balding, middle-aged silk salesman was invited to entertain his fellow tradesmen at a party at Leon & Eddie's after his stint, Eddie Davis, the veteran night club owner, convinced the amateur he could make the grade in show business, if he was interested.

The salesman, Myron Cohen, wasn't wrong. Myron subsequently was booked in various clubs around the country, appeared on dozens of TV shows, and signed a contract to record his dialect routines.
Cohen, who was part of the silk business for over 20 years and draws on his experience for his material, is thankful to Davis for discovering him, but doubly so to his parents. It seems Myron was born in Russia, but brought here to this country when he was 1 year old.
"I never would have been a success as a comedian in Russia," explains Myron, "because the best comedians are drafted into politics and the diplomatic service. Who could compete with the monkeyshines of Malik, Vishinsky and Gromko?"
Myron Cohen stars in the "Farfel Follies" next Sunday at Municipal Auditorium.

TV Actors Will Entertain Legion

Jack Rourke and the cast from his television program will entertain Arthur L. Peterson Post No. 27 at the American Legion group's meeting Tuesday at 8 p. m. in Veterans Memorial Bldg., Cedar Ave. and Broadway. Post Commander Frank Hogan has invited all veterans and their wives to attend.

Newells Perform at Hillside Cafe

Continuing their engagement at the Hillside Cafe, 3099 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., are George Newell, blind organist, and his wife, Bobby, who accompanies her husband on the drums.
An article in last Sunday's Independent-Press-Telegram erroneously located their performances at the Hilltop Cafe.

Walker's Marks 19th Birthday

MEMBERS OF WALKER'S personnel who have been with the store since its opening in 1933, are pictured with Howard F. Conrad, as the first piece is cut from the big 19th Birthday Cake that has been on display in Walker's Pine Avenue window this past week. More than 5000 pieces of cake were served to customers Saturday morning. The cake contained 19 lucky pennies and 19 gifts were presented to the finders of these pennies.

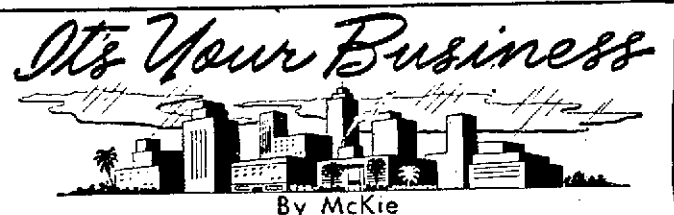

Walker's Cuts Huge Cake for 19th Birthday

A 600-pound cake was cut into an estimated 5000 pieces and served to customers Saturday to open the 19th birthday anniversary observance of Walker's Long Beach store.

The event opened the store's annual birthday sale, facilitated this year by five new executives and modernizations and rearrangements throughout the institution.

The birthday sale will continue through Oct. 18.

The 19 women first in line to receive servings of cake and congratulations were: Mrs. A. C. Engel, Mrs. Leonard Helm, Mrs. Minnie Cooper, Mrs. Lillian Mullen, Mrs. Nancy Mickelson, Lou Strohl, Mrs. Lydia Kraft, Mrs. C. O. Sadler, Mrs. Pearl Taylor, Mrs. Edith Friend, Pearl M. Bixler, Mrs. Martha Packard, Mrs. Lucy Marlow, Mrs. Helen Fulton, Mrs. Kitty Pinto, Mrs. M. Livengood, Mrs. Mina Tronsgaard, Mrs. Mayme Battey and Mrs. L. Brady.

Long Beach is recording new cent hike above the 1951 total and all-time peaks this year in total retail and department store sales, as well as in building permits, bank deposits, says Virgil B. Gillespie, vice president and manager of the Long Beach branch of Security-First National Bank.

Gillespie was quoting from figures recently compiled by the bank's research department. It was pointed out that if business profits remain as high during the final four months of the year as they were during the first eight months—seasonal factors considered—the new record will be assured.

Total retail sales in Long Beach may well exceed $370,000,000 in 1952, according to the bank's research experts. This is a 25 per cent increase over the last official census total of $295,000,000 for 1948. Department store sales for 1952 (to date) have been at an average level equivalent to $37,100,000 per year. This is a 4 per cent hike above the 1951 total and all-time peaks this year in total retail and department store sales, as well as in building permits, bank deposits, says Virgil B. Gillespie, vice president and manager of the Long Beach branch of Security-First National Bank.

Department store sales for 1952 (to date) have been at an average level equivalent to $37,100,000 per year. This is a 4 per cent hike above the 1951 total and all-time peaks this year in total retail and department store sales, as well as in building permits, bank deposits, says Virgil B. Gillespie, vice president and manager of the Long Beach branch of Security-First National Bank.

STOCK CAR RACE TODAY—sign. This terrific combination. Headed by hard-driving Marshall Teague of Daytona Beach, the nation's speed kings converge upon the L. A. County Fairgrounds, Pomona, today for the 100-mile AAA national championship stock car race.

Going up from Long Beach to watch Teague in action will be Joe Ricketts of the local Hudson Hornet to his 21st victory in 28 starts.

Managing Director J. C. Agajanian of San Pedro has posted a $5000 guaranteed purse to assure fans of the finest in cars and drivers, and a goodly crowd should be on hand. The 100-miler will begin at 2:30 p. m.

Ricketts, who is pretty high on Hudson's long string of stock car victories, says there is more to an event like this than just entertainment. "It's a competition of skill, and the results have been very favorable."

How did he explain Hudson's exceptional record of 41 stock car wins?

"Well, it's like this," Joe modestly explained. "It's a combination of Hudson's all-around service spots springing up to cater rugged construction to the needs of the overseas sports."

NASH NXI COMING—Nash Motors has taken another step toward the eventual production of its lighter NXI car which was exhibited two years ago in a series of cross country showings to test public reaction.

Negotiations between Nash and two long established British auto firms have been completed for the production "during the latter part of 1953" of the new car for distribution in the U. S. and Canada, is the word from George Henderson, general manager of Severn Motor here.

Austin Motor Co. and Fisher & Ludlow, both of Birmingham, England, will produce the cars for Nash, he said. Fisher & Ludlow will build the bodies and Austin will provide the chassis and do the final assembly.

A name for the new car, which has a definite sports car appearance, has not been selected.

JOE RICKETTS says there is more to an event like this than just entertainment. "It's a competition of skill, and the results have been very favorable."

Modern Houses May Be Obsolete Soon

The wizardry of home appliance and gadget makers threatens to make "obsolete" the building trades most "modern" houses.

The flaw, according to housing industry experts, is that the new houses are not fitted with enough electrical wiring. The wiring can't carry the heavy load thrust on it by the great variety of electrical equipment pouring into American homes from manufacturers' production lines.

This overloading constitutes not only a dangerous fire hazard but serious financial loss to the home owner who must tear down his walls to rewire his house adequately.

The nation's builders and traders are getting behind a campaign to promote better planning of electrical wiring systems to meet the increased electrical needs of the average home.

Among those contributing to the drive is the National Association of Home Builders which has urged its 25,000 members throughout the country to help solve the problem. The association is working in partnership with the national adequate wiring bureau to help spread the word.

Also supporting the campaign is the practical builder magazine which is printing a series of articles emphasizing the seriousness of the flaw. The magazine said many of the 4,000,000 homes built since World War II are "doomed" to early obsolescence through the lack of thoughtful electrical planning.

The magazine printed statistics to show the need for better wiring systems. The work load carried by the "average income" home wiring system has increased by leaps and bounds.

The 1940 average was almost double that of 1930. The 1951 average more than doubled the 1940 figure. By 1960 the total will be doubled again, the magazine predicted.

Custom-order House

A custom-order tweed suit from Bond Street is commonplace, but a custom order house from London is something new.

England is going in for prefabricated houses — "custom designed for the homeowner's climate, family and living habits."

This week a prefabricated house made in England arrived in California. It is specially designed for the coldest weather with heavily insulated hard-board walls, insulated windows and an extra high peaked roof to stand up in a heavy snowfall.

For a family in the tropics, the British pre-fab factories provide aluminum homes. The most popular is a bungalow, much like those seen in London's suburbs. They have been shipped to French West Africa, the Gold Coast of Africa, Belgian Congo, Sudan and Kenya.

Most of the houses are made from standardized angular and tubular steel components which can be assembled to form a frame-work for almost any kind of building. Complete buildings, including timber for outside walls, insulation, inside walls, asbestos and galvanized iron roof sections, and electrical fittings are exported.

Nurses Institute Graduation Held

Fifty practical nurses were graduated from the Long Beach Nurses Institute at exercises in Town Hall. The graduation exercises, the first since the change in the Institute's management last May, were attended by a capacity crowd.

Rev. Louis F. Mertz of the Lakewood United Lutheran Church gave the invocation, then spoke on "Stewardship of the Great Possessions of Life." The class also heard an address on "Understanding Patients" by Dr. Robert Brown.

Marine Conference Lists Objectives

By EDESEL NEWTON
Marine Editor

It was a colossal Merchant Marine Conference that was held in conjunction with the 26th annual convention of the Propeller Club of the United States. Those 1000 men who attended are saturated in information about every phase of the maritime industry and its kindred military operations, so great and vital a part of the economy of Long Beach and of Southern California.

It is not difficult to pick highlights out of the four-inch stack of papers read during the panel sessions. Here are a few: Government participation in shipbuilding and operation is a national fixture and the steamship and allied industries will continue to hammer on improved legislation.

PREFERRED PROPULSION

Geared turbine propulsion continues to be the most popular form of drive for American ships.

Cargo pilferers can expect vigilant and resolute police action under new cargo security measures established by the industry. The American Merchant Marine is competing with a 13-fold

Shipyard Calls for Recruits to Maintain Fleet

Capt. George C. Weaver, who recently took command of Long Beach Naval Shipyard, yesterday announced urgent need of recruits.

The shipyard CO said vacancies in a number of trades must be filled to maintain the shipyard's schedule of repairs and maintenance of naval ships most active in Korean waters.

The need is so acute that Perry Luce of the employment division will tour areas of Southern California in an attempt to recruit the following trades:

Boatbuilder, flange turner, locksmith, machinist (inside), sheetmetal worker, shipwright, electronics mechanic, joiner, electrician, fire control mechanic, patternmaker, gas plant operator, shipfitter, pipecoverer and insulator, toolmaker, electrician, power plant operator-heat treaters, machinist (outside), millman and radio mechanic.

Perry Luce will interview applicants for these positions at the California State Department of Employment Office, 1313 Pine Avenue, from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Navy Blacksmith Blues

Steel, Aluminum, Copper Ease Delayed

WASHINGTON—(AP). The government has postponed for a month the date when it will relax regulations and allow builders to get more steel, aluminum and copper. Originally scheduled for April, the order now will be effective May 1.

Fruit Company Charters German-Built Motorships

Two 343-foot German-built motorships with their engines set in the stern and with three cargo hatches have been built in Germany and are chartered to United Fruit Co. for Central America-west coast service. Their operation will be linked with that of the United Fruit Co. ships calling at the local harbor.

The ships have a beam of 45 feet, displace 2765 tons, 160,000 cubic feet of cargo space, twin Diesels developing 3500 horsepower, and fancy staterooms for six passengers each.

Spokesmen for Unifruit said they would be among the most economically operated ships on any route. They were built at Bremen-Vagesack, and the first one, Ms. Leon, was delivered two weeks ago.

The new ships will trade at all Central American west coast ports from Champerico to Panama.

Power Shortage Hits Aluminum

WASHINGTON—(AP). Mobilization officials trying to meet defense goals still are seriously concerned about aluminum. They fear water power shortages in the northwest and in the Tennessee Valley, together with other factors, may cost the nation 120 millions pounds in production the last four months of the year.

Aluminum producers are contending that they need higher ceiling prices if they are to expand production.

Leaders Warn on Court Action in Segregation

WASHINGTON—(AP). Some Negro leaders are warning their people to move cautiously in their legal campaign to get the Supreme Court to rule segregation in public schools unconstitutional. The court now has three such cases pending.

These leaders' advice is: Don't put the court in a spot where it will have to rule definitely for or against segregation. Present the cases in such a way that the court, which has

L. B. Crane Aids in Ship Salvage

The San Diego purse seiner San Luis which was laden 25 tons beyond her 75-ton capacity of tuna and sank six miles off Cape Colnett, Lower California, has been salvaged in one of the fastest operations of its kind in several years.

A Smith-Rice Co. crane from Long Beach, towed by the tug Retriever, lifted the ship from 100 feet of water and carried it in slings 110 miles to San Diego. Leon Kelly directed the operation, assisted by one diver and eight others.

Smith-Rice has purchased and is dismantling the old 100-ton stiff-legged crane at Craig Shipyard. The crane was built in 1917 and was used to install engines and boilers in ships.

shown its interest in Negroes' civil rights, can give a decision favorable to the Negroes and yet make no definite decision on the constitutionality of segregation. They fear that if the court finds segregation does not violate the Constitution many of the Negroes' present gains might be lost.

Port Notes

In a few hours, the salvage tug Pacific Retriever disappeared piece by piece, beginning with the funnel, then a winch and a capstan, then the pilot house, and so on. They vanished between looks by interested waterfronters.

Owners, Pacific Towboat & Salvage Co., were dismantling the faithful old 110-foot former sub-chaser down to the bare hull in preparation for sinking her in the depths off Long Beach. During service along the Mexican coast toredos (worms) honeycombed her hull below freeboard, working beneath copper sheathing.

Outbound Tuesday, American-Hawaiian Line's giant C-4 type freighter Hawaiian will carry a near record eastbound intercoastal cargo of 14,000 tons dead weight, according to George V. Cooley, Pacific Coast traffic manager for the company. He and Leonard Formosa, Southern California district manager, reported that in recognition of heavy demand by shippers more tonnage is in prospect for the A-H route.

Largest tanker ever to visit the Pacific Coast, the 32,000-ton SS World Concord of North American Shipping and Trading Co., is outbound for Saudi Arabia after delivering 231,000 barrels of crude to Standard of California at Richmond, San Francisco Bay. Gradual increase of the supertanker movement in the Pacific is accompanied by a warning from Munger T. Ball, Texas oil and shipping man, that the ports and the Army engineers should make a study of future harbor depth requirements. He was a local visitor during the Merchant Marine conference.

SS Old Dominion Mariner, just completed at Newport News, Va., as one of 25 Mariner class ships built for the government, will be operated under a general agency agreement by American President Lines, with Capt. F. E. Angrick, well known Pacific skipper, as master, the local APL office announced Saturday.

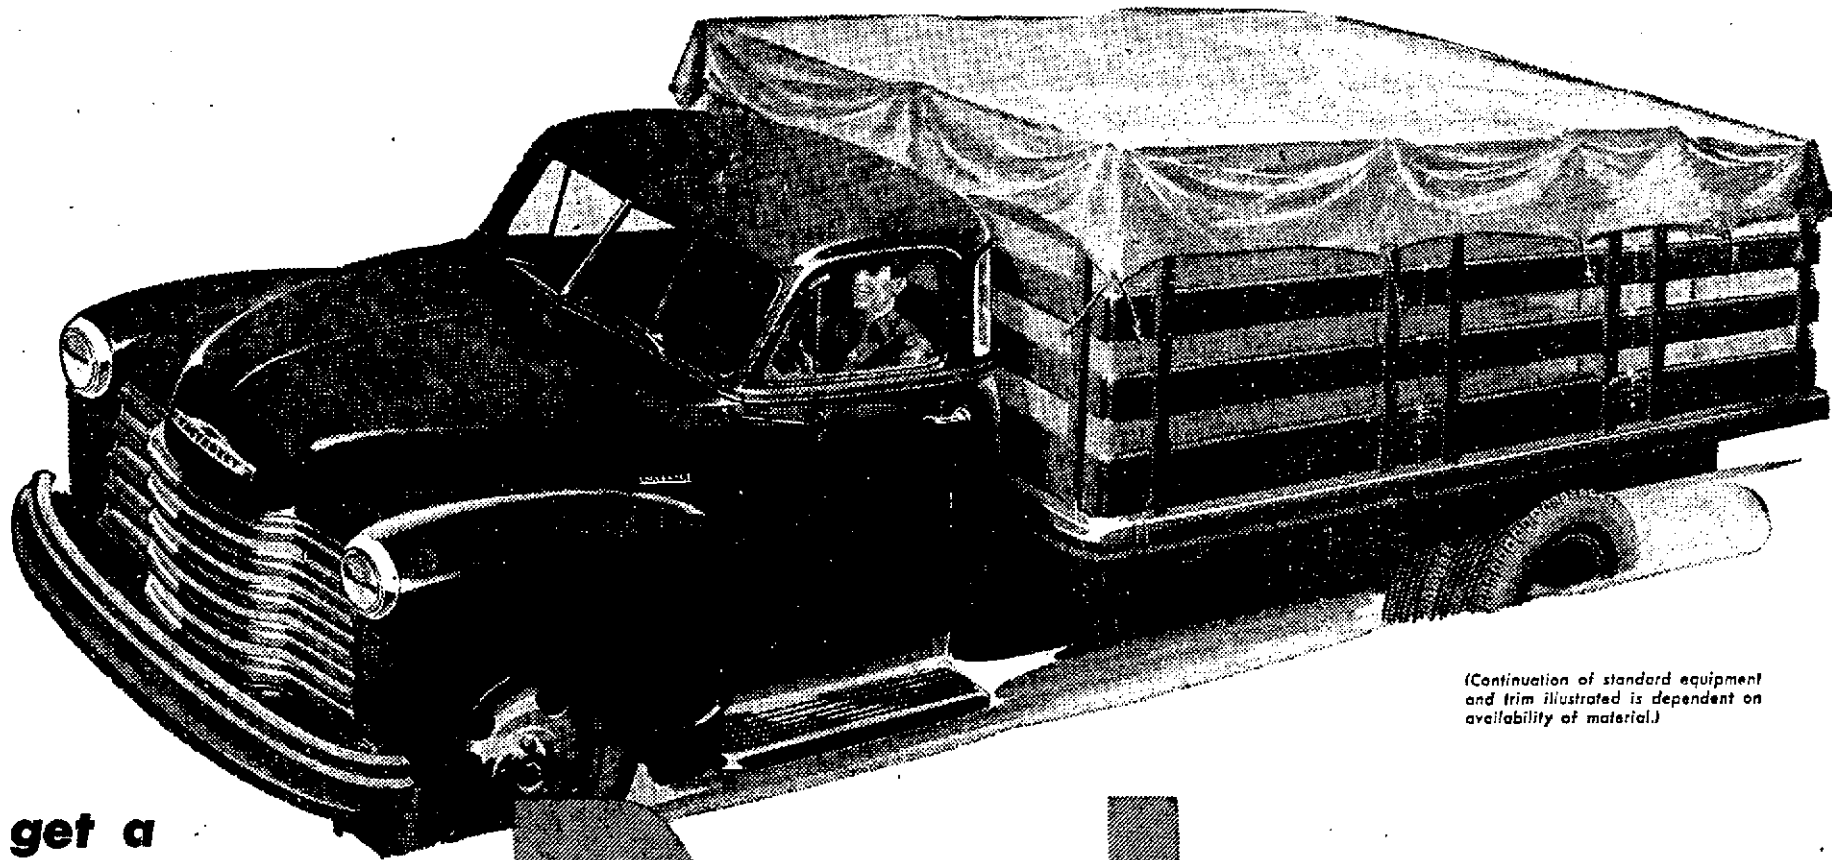

Here with Formosan and Philipines molasses, the Chinese-flag tanker Yung-Che, fully manned by Chinese, this week will load Union Oil Co. of California products for Japan. The old steamer is said to be a former Clyde Mallory Line tanker, built in this country about 30 years ago. Owners are Chinese Merchants Steam Navigation Co.

The former Union Oil Co. tanker Victor H. Kelly, burned out in the recent fire at Oleum, has been sold to National Bulk Carriers, pioneers of supertankers, but remains in San Francisco Bay, according to National Metals & Steel Co., who purchased her from the underwriters. Sale to an operator points to plans for reconstruction or use of her machinery if not the after section, undamaged in the fire, elsewhere by the purchasers.

Here on her maiden voyage to the Pacific Coast, the nearly new British-flag tramp tanker Athel-sultan of Balfour, Guthrie & Co., stopped at Richfield's Long Beach terminal to load approximately 80,000 barrels of fuel oil for Vancouver, B. C. She brought Saudi Arabian crude to Standard's Richmond refinery.

Joint Meeting in Temple Sinai

Temple Sinai Brotherhood and Sisterhood will have a joint meeting on Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the temple social hall. Dr. Benjamin J. Feldman, guest speaker will discuss cancer and its detection. He will show color-sound motion pictures, "Traitor Within" and "Man Alive." # Better Deal and a Better Buy WITH CHEVROLET TRUCKS!

A better buy because . . .

THEY LIST FOR LESS

Production economies, made possible because Chevrolet is the world's largest truck manufacturer, cut the cost of Chevrolet trucks. That is why Chevrolet trucks list for less than comparable models of any other make.

LOWER OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE COSTS

Valve-in-Head design in both Loadmaster and Thriftmaster engines means extra gas and oil economy. Chevrolet's 4-way engine lubrication system reduces wear. The husky, brawny-strength of sturdy Hypoid rear axles, the rigid channel-type frames, Flexi-Mounted cabs, recirculating ball-gear steering, rugged Synchro-Mesh transmission and many other special Chevrolet features assure your Chevrolet truck of extra long life, of low-cost operation and upkeep.

TRADITIONALLY HIGHER TRADE-IN

Chevrolet trucks keep their value longer! That is positive proof of the greater value built into Chevrolet trucks and it is a wonderful plus measured in dollars and cents savings at trade-in time.

A better deal because . . .

You save money from first to last with these great Chevrolet trucks. A Chevrolet truck lists for less than others in its field. Chevrolet's extra-on-the-job economy means lower costs throughout its long and dependable life. And with Chevrolet's long list of exclusive extra-value features, you actually get more truck—and get more work done—for less money. Join the hundreds of thousands of satisfied truck users who are enjoying a better deal and a better buy with Chevrolet trucks!

Grandma, 42, Plans Big Day

Look--Grandma's Streamlined Now

By BILL HACHTEN

A generation ago, grandmothers were sweet, white-haired little ladies who spent most of their time indoors, taking it easy. But today, things are different. Even the grandmothers are streamlined.

Take the new president of the Long Beach Grandmother's Club for instance. She's Mrs. Rene Gurich, an attractive 42-year-old housewife, who goes swimming almost every day at the Pacific Coast Club.

You wouldn't think she's "grandma" to 5-year-old Rene Zingarelli, but she is.

Today, Mrs. Gurich and other youngish and young-minded grandmothers are observing National Grandmothers' Day with a brunch at 11 a. m. at the Pacific Coast Club. And they'll all be wearing their club pins, which have an attached name bar for each grandchild.

Known officially as Long Beach Chapter 138 of the National Federation of Grandmother's Clubs, the group is one of 175 in the country. It was organized here last November by Mrs. Jane Compton, a fortyish grandmother herself, who swims with Mrs. Gurich.

What do the 30 club mothers do besides compare pictures and talk about their grandchildren? They do social welfare work, have luncheons and card parties, and help care for their "adopted grandmother," Mrs. Lillian

John Bagwell Rites Planned

Mrs. John F. Bagwell Jr., 5919 Walnut Ave., whose son, Sgt. John F. Bagwell III, was killed in the recent action at Bunker Hill, with the First Marine Division in Korea, has been notified by the government that his body has been returned to the United States.

Spongberg Mortuary is in charge of funeral arrangements not yet completed.

Sgt. Bagwell, an only child, was wounded in Korea last February 13 and later returned to duty.

Bagwell, a graduate of Wilson High School, and alumnus of City College, formerly was employed in the circulation department of the Press-Telegram.

Mrs. Bagwell was widowed two months ago when her husband, who was in the hardware business here, collapsed and died. Her brother, Virgil Brewer, formerly in the grocery business here died of a heart attack in Bakersfield, two weeks ago.

First Car Struck in Three-Vehicle Crash Flees Scene

A three-car accident took an unusual twist Saturday afternoon when the driver who was victim of the crash fled the scene.

James E. Hutchings, of 356 W. Hill St., told officer R. J. Miller that he struck a car at Hill St. and Chestnut Ave. In turn, Evelyn Louise Atkins, of 2140 Oregon Ave., struck the rear of Hutchings' car, police reported.

The woman and Hutchings exchanged names, but the first car, which Hutchings struck, fled the scene. Police filed a hit-and-run report.

P & G's Outing Attracts 1500 From Long Beach

The 35th semi-annual Dividend Day of the Procter and Gamble Long Beach plant was celebrated Saturday in observance of the company's profit-sharing plan, at the Valley Park Country Club in Sherman Oaks.

More than 1500 people, employees and their families, traveled from Long Beach to Sherman Oaks for the gala day of festivities and recreation, according to P. A. Nichol, plant superintendent.

They opened the day's festivities at 10:30 a. m. with drawings for prizes.

A barbecued lunch was served from 11:30 a. m. until 2 p. m. with swimming, dancing, ping pong, and softball among the afternoon activities.

The Procter and Gamble profit sharing plan is one of the oldest in American industry and is a key factor in keeping the firm's rate of employee turnover at a very low rate.

Anybody Ready for Seconds

PIE EATING CONTESTANTS in the Procter & Gamble employees' picnic in Sherman Oaks, Saturday, were, from left: Curtis Cheneweth, 14, son of P & G employee Leslie Cheneweth; Richard Thompson, 13, son of Earl Thompson, and Jay Lagreggs, 12, son of James Lagreggs. All three are residents of Long Beach.

600 Expected at Blue Star Meet Convening Today

Six hundred are expected for the 10th national convention of Blue Star Mothers of America, Inc., getting under way in Long Beach today.

Mrs. Jean Forker of Long Beach is convention chairman. National president is Louise Meyerhoff.

Registration is taking place this morning at Wilton Hotel. At 2:30 p. m. today there will be a reception for national officers in Town Hall. Memorial vesper service will be at 7:30 p. m. today in Municipal Auditorium. Hazel Rue Scott, national chaplain, will be in charge of the service.

Brig. Gen. Lotha A. Smith, USAF, will speak at a luncheon at 11:30 a. m. Monday in the Lafayette Hotel.

Official opening of the convention will be at 2:30 p. m. Monday in the auditorium.

The convention will reconvene in the auditorium at 9 a. m. Tuesday. Speaker at a banquet at 7 p. m. in the Wilton will be Dr. A. Polyzoides.

The convention will close Thursday afternoon after installation of new officers.

Blaze Destroys Bellflower Home

Lee Creekmore of 7214 Maple Ave., Bellflower, was awakened by the smell of smoke early Saturday and dashed out into the street in time to see the $7000 home he was renting go up in flames.

County firemen who extinguished the blaze could not immediately determine its cause, sheriff's deputies reported.

SOUTHLAND SOCIAL NOTES

Provocative Fetes Capture Interest

By MELISSA MOORE

One Lomita family with a background of many interesting historical accomplishments continued its precedent of setting records Saturday afternoon when the father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Granger, son, Richard, and daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Jeanne Powell, were initiated into Emerica Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star.

Both the father and son are affiliated with the Lomita Masonic Lodge 644 and Richard is also a member of the Long Beach Consistory, Los Angeles Shrine (Al Malaikah), Newport Harbor American Legion and a past commander of Lomita VFW.

Descendant of several prominent early Americans, the mother, Mrs. Daisy B. Granger, numbers among her ancestors writers Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and Ida May Tarbell. During the Civil War Mrs. Granger's relatives served with the Union and Confederate Armies. Her great-grand-uncle, Gen. John Tarbell, was the commanding general occupying a portion of the south following Lee's surrender while her grandfather, Dr. John Peake, was a surgeon in the war serving with the confederacy. Dr. Peake was also one of the original 49ers during the gold rush days in California and was a Master Mason. Continuing the family Masonic tradition was Arthur F. Peake, father of Mrs. Granger, who was a charter member of the El Paso, Texas, Lodge, and a pioneer in Arizona in the early days riding the Chisholm Trail when very young.

Leaving by plane this week for Europe was Douglas A. Graham of this city who will join Mrs. Graham in Madrid, Spain. Mrs. Graham has been in Europe six weeks with their daughter, Mardell, who is attending school in Lausanne, Switzerland.

The Grahams will visit Italy, their daughter in Switzerland and Cairo, Egypt before returning to Long Beach Nov. 1.

Stanford alumni throughout the Southland are eagerly looking forward to the gala pregame football rally Friday night at 6 o'clock to precede the Stanford-UCLA game. Anticipating a turnout of more than 1000 Indian rooters at the Embassy Room of the Hotel Ambassador, William F. Hooper, chairman of the party, has arranged for the Stanford Coach Chuck Taylor and his staff to be on hand. Aubrey E. Austin Jr. will be master of ceremonies for the program which will include the entertainment of an alumnus Doodles Weaver. Following cocktails, dancing will be enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Clark Bonner Jr. are on the rally committee representing Long Beach area.

Latest in fall attire for the busy clubwoman was modeled at the fashion show and tea given by the South Whittier Woman's Club. Members modeled the styles which were presented under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth O'Neil, program chairman.

Pouring at the tea table which reflected a fall motif were Mrs. Dennis and Mrs. Florence Walker. Mrs. Sadie Bailey assisted by Mrs. Nita Swafford and Beth Waddington were in charge of the refreshments. Mrs. Jo Oliver presided during a brief discussion of business.

Tempo of the fall season was accelerated yesterday afternoon with a gala cocktail party given by Dr. and Mrs. M. John Rowe Jr. in their home at 17 Temple Ave.

Between 5 and 7 p. m., more than 130 friends of the couple gathered in the home. Adding to the party was group singing around the piano.

Assisting were Drs. and Mrs. James Kiepp, John B. Davis and Vernon Weir.

The time is soon approaching when weird characters will appear and scamper through-out town to peek in on Halloween parties such as the one set for Oct. 31 at the Executives and Officers Town Club on East Ocean Blvd.

The evening of the fun will begin with dinner and featured awards for the most grotesque, funny, original and fantastic costumes. On the committee making arrangements are Leonard and Lillian TeGroen, Joe Medina, Frank Belsante, Jean Herndon (Miss Kentucky), Dolores Peavyhouse, Mrs. Stephen Seymour, Chuck Bell, Howard Benson, Webb Carter, Oscar Melnhardt, Spud Martin and Mrs. S. M. Robinson.

BUSILY engaged with plans for the Thursday benefit party by Symphony Juniors are, left to right, Mrs. Jack Dilday, who will be hostess in her home at 4020 Linden Ave.; Mrs. Marcus D. Lipton of 250 Roycroft Ave.; Mrs. Arthur R. Hooker Jr., serving on the planning committee, and Mrs. Maurice M. Rosenbaum, hostess in her home at 1011 Amelia Dr. Other members opening their homes will be Mrs. Monroe Yunker, 1540 Ramallo; Mrs. Julian Knutson, 261 St. Joseph Ave.; Mrs. Sidney W. Ellery, 1111 Claiborne Dr.; Mrs. Leonard Watson, 3837 Elm Ave., and Mrs. Clyde H. Dunlap Jr., 2330 Lakewood Rd. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Yunker.—[Staff photos by H. S. Melvin.]

Picnic, Dessert Series Occupy College Faculty Wives for Fall

Fall is the time for roasting wieners over an open fire, sitting around in the cool of the evening and reminiscing with friends while the marshmallows turn a golden brown. With this in mind, the Long Beach State College Faculty Wives Club began their fall program last week with a picnic at Recreation Park for their husbands, families and the staff. More than 300 were in attendance to enjoy the courtesy of hostesses Mmes. Charles Burch, Blair Archer, K. L. Johnson, W. A. Nagle, Ernest Ward, Samuel Wiley and James Wilson.

To continue the fall activity program, the hospitality committee of the club planned a series of get-acquainted parties for the purpose of bringing the new members and the old members of the club together in smaller gatherings for the purpose of becoming better acquainted. Committee members, acting as hostesses are Mmes. Francis Flynn, Arnold Christensen, J. P. Doss, K. L. Johnson, H. E. Kimball and Harold Sprague.

The first two events in this series were desserts at the home of Mrs. Paul Doss, 12631 Fletcher Dr. Garden Grove, with Mrs. K. L. Johnson as co-hostess, on Thursday and Friday. Invited guests at the Thursday dessert were Mmes. W. A. Albrecht, R. J. Bartges, Charles Boorkman, J. D. Avari,

Invited guests to Friday dessert were Mmes. C. D. Barnes, J. B. Allen, Charles Boorkman, J. I. Bradley, David Bryant, D. E. Garrett, E. L. Miner, R. R. Madison, W. D. MacQuarrie, Wallace Moore, W. E. Hartman, W. A. Nagle, F. G. Nelson, P. Victor Peterson, J. L. Smith, C. L. Surran, Jack Montgomery, M. H. Gerard and B. R. Garman.

The next two of the dessert parties will be Oct. 16 and 17 at the home of Mrs. Harold Sprague, 3911 Charlemagne Ave., with Mrs. H. E. Kimball as cohostess. Invited guests to the Oct. 16 dessert are Mmes. I. F. Ahlquist, R. C. Anderson, R. E. Barrow, C. R. Bergland, J. W. Bratton, Charles Boorkman, M. G. Garver, R. A. Kennedy, E. C. Kidd, George Korber, D. H. Orgill, P. Victor Peterson, F. M. Sager, V. E. Schmidt, Herman Schwarz, Kopf, Clayton Tidyman, R. H. Wilde and D. L. Garner.

Invited guests to the Oct. 17 dessert are Mmes. C. L. Amundson, T. A. Baird, Charles Boorkman, Charles Burch, W. C. Crowe, F. R. Erickson, G. H. Hackney, Ross Hardy, Richard Hergiv, Halvor Melom, P. Victor Peterson, J. E. Searies, W. D. Stevers, W. L. Strauss, C. H. Tilden, L. D. Wadeigh, J. A. Wagner and L. C. Mehra. The last of these social events will be a tea, Oct. 18, at the home of Mrs. Arnold Christensen, 2283 Stearnlee Ave., with Mrs. Francis Flynn as cohostess. Invited guests are Mmes. A. E. Adams, B. C. Archer, C. P. Baker, L. W. Barclay, Charles Boorkman, H. F. Ferguson, N. A. Galluzzo, S. E. Hodge, O. P. Johnstone, K. A. Kinsman, T. G. Macfarlane, B. C. McGarrity, Don Muchmore, J. H. Noguera, John Olsen, C. O. Orman, P. Victor Peterson, J. O. Plusch, K. A. Russell, T. V. Schepeler, C. E. Shehorn, John Trevemmen, Ernest Ward, R. T. Whitney, S. E. Wiley, Stanley Williams, James Wilson, R. W. Winslow, Fred Woods and E. T. Zwetschke.

INTERVIEWING the American Ambassador to Denmark, Mrs. Eugenie Anderson (right) and a member of the Danish parliament, Mrs. Nina Andersen (center), is blonde and vastly capable Heidi Nielsen, Danish newspaperwoman and writer, who is now living in Long Beach. Mrs. Nielsen is covering the U. S. political scene and the coming election for a Danish newspaper.

HOSTESSES for the benefit bridge and canasta party Thursday in the various Peninsula homes will be Mrs. H. A. Neibling, left, 222 Roswell Ave.; Mrs. Crofton Cooper, 5220 Vista Hermosa; Mrs. Charles O. Planting, 5221 El Roble, and Mrs. Robert G. Bult, 5261 El Cedro. Ways and means chairman, Mrs. Monroe Yunker, is being assisted by Mmes. Leo Caldwell, Melvin Collins, Richard J. Shelley, Arthur Hooker, Raymond Parker, William Rosenlof and Miss Marjorie Hight. The Symphony Juniors underwrite student tickets for the four concerts in Long Beach each winter by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. The event Thursday is the major fund-raising project of the group.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1952 — SECTION E

Danish Scribe Views U. S. Political and Home Fronts

By Betty Carey
Independent Women's Editor

Did you know there were six political parties in Denmark (one being the Communist?). Do you know how much eggs cost in Copenhagen, as compared to the price in the U. S. or Russia? No, we didn't either. But there is a Danish subject living here who knows probably more than you or I about OUR country, even if we can't reciprocate in our knowledge of hers.

She's Heidi Nielsen (see picture below), who's been here only since August, and who has talked to more of our political figures than most of us ever will.

Mrs. Nielsen, with her husband and two small children, is living in Long Beach at present and the Nielsens may decide to make their permanent home here. We hope so, because Mrs. Nielsen is an able, thinking person; the sort who is in the habit of finding out how a government operates, and who actively contributes her efforts toward making it operate right. Some of the reason for this may be because she has lived in a country in the shadow of the Soviet, has seen the mass graves in Poland, and has aided in evacuating orphans from the war-torn zones of Europe.

In 1948 Mrs. Nielsen first came to the U. S. to cover the election in which Truman and Dewey were the chief figures. She was here under the auspices of the Scandinavian-American Foundation to study politics and housing and to send back her observations for publication in the Social Democrat, labor paper of the largest political party in Denmark.

Here she contacted the foreign journalist branch and was assigned to the Presidential campaign train. She did 11 tape recordings for the Voice of America on the train's 23-state visit, including one from the train and one on election night.

Mrs. Nielsen interviewed everyone from Indians in Arizona to movie stars in Hollywood, including Via and Joan Hersholt, who are Danish and greatly beloved in their native country.

Our visitor liked what she saw and on her return home her husband, Magnus Nielsen, an industrial engineer, caught her enthusiasm and came here in 1951 to visit different machine plants. He found the job he wanted with the Jorgensen Steel Co., and sent for his family. Their small daughter, Berit, 8, is adapting rapidly and learning English fast, but small Jan, 5, is finding it a bit harder. He can use the language spoken English before his arrival. Both children are in U. S. Grant public school.

Mrs. Nielsen's writings have been widely publicized abroad, and include everything from learned studies of the labor situation—she's considered an expert in this field; and her uncle, Eiler Jensen, is president of the Danish Federation of Labor—to women's page stories on food and fashions.

She did interviews with labor officers in Paris on "Fighting Communism," and, by the way, was favored with a hot blast from the Communist press on leaving Denmark. They accused her of giving misleading information and said that "America was just the place for her; she can't be trusted, but they can probably use her." Mrs. Nielsen is rather proud of the fact that she is hated in that particular quarter, because she knows she's made herself felt.

In Denmark there is one radio station, but it should not be considered state owned, because it is run by a board elected by the people. Mrs. Nielsen has interviewed innumerable people over its facilities, and is now sending tape recordings there.

She has worked for the past two years in the American embassy with Mrs. Eugenie Anderson, our ambassador, and tells us that Mrs. Anderson has been a great success in her position and is extremely popular with the Danes.

In comparing the Danish housewife and her problems with the American's, Mrs. Nielsen says that through Marshall Plan aid the shortage of needed and important items has been greatly alleviated. They have coffee at last after 14 years, and it is not rationed. They are allotted three pounds of sugar a month, which sounds like a lot to us, but remember the fondness of the Danes for pastry! For eight or 10 years there was no cotton for sheets, and that is now becoming available.

Denmark was occupied the same day as Norway on April 9, 1940, and the five years of German occupation brought about a great currency deficit. Today electrical appliances are so expensive, although increasingly available, that few families have refrigerators, for instance. It would take a skilled worker's salary for 2½ months to pay for one. And for the same worker to have a small radio it would take 150 hours, while it would take the American worker 18 hours and the Russian worker 275 hours! The figures are from the American embassy.

If you noticed a flaxen-haired and smartly suited young woman among the brisk reporters interviewing Eisenhower during his junket through the Southland, it was undoubtedly Heidi keeping up with last-minute news as usual. She knows a great deal about what makes America tick. And we hope she likes what she has

Reception for Capital Official

Dr. and Mrs. Fletcher Stewart were hosts at a reception Wednesday, five to seven o'clock at the Victor Hugo honoring Dr. Leonard Schele of Washington, D. C., Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service of the Federal Security Division. He has come west for some dedications and Hollywood broadcasts.

Dr. Stewart is the medical officer in charge of the Los Angeles area of the U. S. Public Health Service. Eighty invitations were extended.

SAI Autumn Events

A reception honoring unaffiliated members new to this area will be given by the Long Beach Alumnae Chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, national professional fraternity for women, Tuesday, at 8:00 p. m.

The reception will take place at the home of Mrs. F. E. Shattuck, 1718 E. Ocean Blvd. Mrs. Dorothy Sweetland will be co-hostess. Mrs. Shattuck and Mrs. Virginia Davison will provide informal organ music.

SAI's from all over California will gather together to celebrate the fraternity's golden anniversary at State Day, Nov. 8. State Day will be held at Immaculate Heart College, Western and Los Feliz in Hollywood, from 9:30 a. m. to 9:30 p. m.

Panhellenic Event

Panhellenic has planned a luncheon to be followed by bridge and canasta Wednesday at 12:15 p. m. at the Victor Hugo. Reservations may be made by contacting Mmes. William G. Riley, Kenneth Price or Edward Stoll. Gold and rust shades in chrysanthemums on the various tables will denote a Halloween theme.

Happy Gathering Sunday at Clyde Seymour Home

In the lovely patio-garden of their home at 147 Nieto Ave., and surrounded by their three daughters and three sons, and their children, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde J. Seymour observed their golden wedding anniversary last Sunday afternoon. Golden chrysanthemums in profusion decorated the interior of the home, and in the presence of a happy company of some 100 invited guests and relatives, the lovely bride of a half century ago and her husband cut the bridal cake, which was made by their daughter, Mrs. D. C. Dunsmoor, of Long Beach. The bride was Miss Genevieve MacNamara of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and her husband lived at Denison, Iowa.

The guests were served by the three daughters, Mrs. Dunsmoor, (Vivian) Mrs. C. P. Markland (Ronna) of Las Vegas, Nev., and Mrs. K. A. Goddard, (Jean) of Walnut Grove, California. The sons, Mack, of Leevining, Calif., Richard, of Long Beach, and John Gregory, of Covina, assisted their wives in receiving the guests and serving refreshments.

The Seymours have resided in Long Beach and other California towns more than 20 years, and from early manhood, Mr. Seymour has been engaged in construction work as civil engineer and contractor. The couple both natives of Iowa, was married at Emmetsburg, Iowa, October 7, 1902, and went to New Orleans to reside, where Mr. Seymour made his headquarters as a Civil Engineer on the Illinois Central Railroad. From there until now his work has taken them to far away places, but whenever possible they went together, and made their home in tent camps, cabins on sleighs and log cabins wherever great projects were under construction. Mississippi, Indiana, Texas, Missouri, Washington, Oregon, Massachusetts, British Columbia, New Mexico, Canadian Northwest territory, even to wintering in Whitehorse, Yukon Terr., within 50 miles of the Arctic Circle in weather as low as 70 degrees below zero, were in turn visited, although on the latter assignment he was not accompanied by his wife.

Mrs. Seymour laughingly observed in recounting her travel experiences that she could almost qualify as a civil engineer in railroad, mining, tunnel construction, great dams and aqueducts, oil fields, roads and government buildings, so many and diverse have been her husband's contacts and contracts.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Joyce, of Santa Monica, who were present at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour fifty years ago, were honored guests at the anniversary observance Sunday, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Seymour, brother of Mr. Seymour, came from Centralia, Wash., to be with them. On Tuesday morning, attended by members of their family Mr. and Mrs. Seymour were present at an anniversary mass at St. Bartholomew's, celebrated in their honor, and immediately afterwards left by automobile on an automobile trip that will take them to British Columbia, thence to points East, and home to Long Beach in about two months.

Compliment Bride-to-Be

Heralding Miss Barbara Martin, October bride-elect, Barbara Lee and Donna Marie Decker entertained at a luncheon and crystal shower in the Decker home at 4153 Cedar Ave. Their mother, Mrs. Elmer Decker, assisted during the day which also marked Barbara's birthday. Centering the table was an epergne filled with green and white spider chrysanthemums on a matching green cloth.

Guests were Mrs. C. Standlee Martin, mother of the bride-to-be; Mrs. Volney Earl McCutchan, mother of the prospective bridegroom; Mrs. John Guthrie, sister of the bridegroom-to-be; Mmes. Clare D. Hamman, Bob Ivey, Robert Avery, Fred Miller, Joseph Bishop, Joseph Rodgers, Gerald Houts, Ben K. Parks, L. E. Geary, Kelly Kirkwood, Lyle Wilcox, Art Hall, Art Holtz, John Hunter, Frende Combs, Misses Ann Avery, Joan Miller, Ann Bishop, Millicent Rodgers, Diane Houts, JoAnn Parks, Carolee Counts, Sharon Geary and Joan Hunter.

Guest Speaker

Dr. Hugh Pritchard, chairman of the Long Beach branch of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, will be guest speaker tomorrow night when the Long Beach Medical Assistants hold their October dinner meeting at the Lafayette Hotel. Dr. Pritchard will discuss the "Story of X-ray."

The officers, president Dorothy Wilson, Jane La Dage, Margaret Kaufman and Betty Mahoney, will serve as hostess for the evening.

Poetry Day Celebration Wednesday

To celebrate National Poetry Day, Wednesday, the Poetry Section of the Long Beach Writers' Club has arranged an interesting exhibit of published and unpublished original poetry by its members at the Municipal Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

The exhibit and program, open to the public, will begin at 1:00 p. m. with several compositions for voice and piano written by poets. Members of the club will be Vesta Nickerson Lukei of Redlands, well-known California poet and teacher whose work appears in Saturday Evening Post and other national magazines; Will Strong of San Gabriel, vice chairman of National Poetry Day Committee; and Mr. and Mrs. Rexford Sharp of Los Angeles, editors of the American Bard Poetry Quarterly, each of whom will give brief talks on poetry and its value.

Colorful Decor at Two Teas

Wild plum leaves, Nerine lilies, and Tokay grapes were arranged in the living room of the George L. Craig II home, 4203 Linden Ave., for two teas given Wednesday and Thursday by Mrs. Craig and her co-hostess, Mrs. Lewis Vail Casaday. One hundred and fifty invitations were extended for each fete.

Assisting the hostesses Wednesday were Mmes. John Craig II, Donley Bolinger, Fielder Jones, Sterling Pillsbury, Lester Lawson, Max Becker, Arthur Holtz, Charles Stratton, and Jack Evans. Thursday, Mmes. Harold Nicholson, Keith Enloe, H. Russell Mannex, Lawrence Updike, Leslie Geary, John Munholland, C. Standlee Martin, and George J. Waldvogel poured.

Visits Daughter

Down to the Long Beach environs visiting one day this last week was V. B. Blakey of Beverly Hills who came to see his son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. John W. Arnold, 4321 Sunfield Ave.

Jay Gould to Address Ebell; Club Sessions for Week Told

By RUTH REECE

Press-Telegram Club Editor

No reason—no reason at all why Long Beach clubwomen cannot be among the best informed citizens in town, when so many speakers on political, economic and industrial affairs are provided by program chairmen for club sessions. This is especially true of several programs for the coming week.

Ebell Club members will learn about oil and the middle east at tomorrow's meeting in Ebell auditorium, when Jay P. Gould presents his picture of this strategic part of the world in a talk entitled, "Current Position in Explosive Iran." Associated with the Iraq Petroleum Co., Ltd., since 1948, with operating headquarters in Lebanon, Gould was in complete charge of all drilling and production engineering for the 14 major operating units of this tremendous oil syndicate. The speaker will be introduced by Mrs. Will H. Winston, program chairman, and Mrs. Wilbur Lee Candy will preside.

Group O, Mrs. Frank M. Mead, chairman, will serve the luncheon at 12:15 p. m. in the dining room.

North Long Beach Women's Club will meet at noon Wednesday in Houghton Park club house, with a social hour and tea to follow. Mrs. Rodney E. Schlegel and her committee from Friendship Group One, who will be in charge of the tea, will carry out a patriotic theme suggestive of the approaching elections. Mrs. Kenneth McCafferty and committee will decorate both the tables and the stage.

Mrs. Earl F. Heise, program chairman, will present Dr. Maule Kinney who will speak on the topic, "Mrs. Clubwoman Wants to Know." Mrs. Vinton Pease will preside.

"Mannequin Magic" is the title of the fall fashion show to be presented at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in Municipal Art Center by the recent graduate section of University Women's Club. Anyone interested in becoming a member of this AAUW section who has been graduated from high school within ten years is invited to attend. Officers of the section will be introduced by Miss Beverly Malone, chairman, and a brief summary of future plans will be presented.

Models for the fashion show sponsored by Lillian's Style Shop will include the following club members: Misses Betty Allen, Mary Lou Brooks, DeDe Erickson, Mary Ann Riddick, Jo Ann Scott, Mary Emma Wright and Mrs. Logan Fleming. Narrator and master of ceremonies will be Mrs. Tom Comiskey.

Special guests of the evening will include Mrs. Frank J. Hardesty, club president; Mrs. Cyril E. Farrand, sponsor of the section; and Miss Io Petteys, club vice president.

Mrs. Edward Gizara, national vice president of Navy Wives Clubs of America Inc., and Mrs. G. R. Daggett, both members of Long Beach Navy Wives Club No. One, are motoring to Key West, Fla., to attend the 15th annual convention of the organization. Mrs. Daggett, a delegate from the Long Beach club, also will represent Long Beach clubs No. 18 and No. 92 and the Philippine Islands Club No. 111. The Long Beach delegates plan to tour Florida and to visit Havana, Cuba, and will return home by plane.

Western Shores Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be hostess chapter at a reciprocity luncheon at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday in the Mirror Room of Lafayette Hotel, with the regent, Miss Marguerite Patterson, presiding.

Assisting will be the other DAR chapters, Gaviota, Mrs. Arthur S. Phillips, regent; Los Corritos Chapter, Mrs. Robert MacGregor, regent; Long Beach Chapter, Miss Laura C. Moore, regent; and Hutchins-Grayson Chapter in Compton, Mrs. P. W. McGuire, regent.

Guests of honor will be the state regent, Mrs. Bruce Livingston Canaga of Berkeley; Mrs. Ruth Opperson Row of Los Angeles; Mrs. John Holland Kincaid of Dana Point, state librarian; Mrs. L. Byrd Mayfield of Los Angeles, assistant state chaplain; Mrs. Cecil W. Neff of San Diego, assistant state secretary; and Mrs. E. G. Buerkle, of Bakersfield, state historian.

The state regent will bring greetings, and a musical program and guest speaker will follow. The guest list will be limited to chapter members.

Mrs. Alice Ludlow will be hostess to the Guild of Women Composers for the first meeting of the new club year at 1 p. m. tomorrow in her home in Rolling Hills. The program will be given by the hostess, who will show colored moving pictures taken by her this summer while touring England, Holland, Belgium, France and Italy. She also will display art objects acquired in these countries. Gladys Comstock Smith will preside.

Mrs. Francis Heusel

Named Division Chairman

Named chairman of the Home Gifts Division of the Long Beach Chapter, American Red Cross, for the coming year is Mrs. Francis J. Heusel, prominent civic leader and popular member of Assistance League. An ardent Red Cross worker the past seven years, she has served both as a captain and a colonel in previous drives.

The announcement is being made today by Roland Robbins, Red Cross Chapter chairman.

In addition to volunteering her services with the Red Cross, Mrs. Heusel has worked with the Long Beach Heart Association the past year and the last two years at the Children's Heart Clinic as a volunteer. She is the wife of Dr. Francis J. Heusel. Their family home is at 4147 Country Club Dr.

Luncheon Hostess

Meeting with Mrs. Charles A. Whitchurch, 294 Granada Ave., for an afternoon of luncheon and bridge Wednesday were Mmes. Luther Benedict, Howard Taylor, Noel Guerdin, Lulia Cockrum, Gauss Loper, Stuart Lemon, Roy Brown; Mrs. P. H. Germain of Rolling Hills, Mrs. Richard Moore of South Gate, Pink, double hibiscus served as decor.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Terpstra

Reception for Terpstras

An open house this afternoon in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hedrick, 310 Termino Ave., will honor Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Terpstra on their golden wedding anniversary.

Married in Nampa, Id., Oct. 8, 1902, the couple lived in Colfax, Iowa, for 23 years before moving to Long Beach in 1927.

Among those planning to attend the three to five reception will be their sons-in-law and daughters, Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Spencer, Whittier; Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Griffin, Monrovia; Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Moore, Long Beach; a son and daughter-in-law; Mr. and Mrs. George N. Terpstra, Long Beach, and their 13 grandchildren.

Out-of-town guests will be Mrs. Lizzie Super of Portland, Ore., sister of Mrs. Terpstra, and Dr. and Mrs. Ray G. Newcomer, Santa Cruz, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Terpstra.

Home After Summer on Continent

Home after a summer in England and on the continent are Mrs. Whitney I. Gregory, 240 San Marco Dr., and her son, Anthony Michael, and just in time for Anthony to begin his kindergarten days at Naples Elementary School. Special reunions for Mrs. Whitney were the visits with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Avner of London, and with her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Shannon of Nottingham. Flying to Southern France she then made her headquarters at the Edenroc on the Riviera.

Travel treats for the five-year-old, for whom this was a second European trip, included seeing the trooping of the colors at Buckingham Palace, on the occasion of the Queen's birthday, and riding the camels in the London zoo.

After three and a half months, the Gregorys returned on the Queen Mary, stopping in New York at the Barbizon Plaza, visiting with friends, prior to returning to Long Beach.

Miss Aitcheson Rick Rackers October Bride Entertain

North Long Beach Methodist Church was the setting for the evening wedding of Miss Betty Jean Aitcheson, daughter of Mrs. Hazel M. Aitcheson, 1210 Maddox Ave., and Robert C. Renshaw, son of C. E. Renshaw of Pollock Pines.

Given in marriage by Adrian Mayer, the bride wore white satin and Chantilly lace. Her veil of illusion fell from a braided halo sprinkled with rhinestones. Her cascade bouquet of lilies of the valley was centered by a detachable white orchid corsage.

In the bridal party were Mrs. Harriet Lankford, Misses Cora Ewin, Caroline Collins, Frances Price, Barbara Drollinger, Orval Renshaw, Patrick Beach, Harry Renshaw, Allen Arnson, and Buff Winters.

Following a church reception the young people left on a motor trip North. The bride was graduated from Jordan High School this June; her husband attended Huntington Beach High School.

Board of directors of Rick Rackers with their husbands entertained members of their men's advisory committee and their wives at dinner Wednesday night at the University Club.

Following dinner, the Rick Rackers with their men's advisors, Messrs. John Ivey, Francis Heusel, Lester Callahan, William Clemo and Dr. George Paap, discussed ways and means and work projects for the coming year.

Those attending were Messrs. and Mmes. J. Stowe Carney, Heusel, Callahan, Clemo, Ivey, Dr. and Mrs. Paap; Messrs. and Mesdames Noble Millie, Philip Dowds, Ely Somerville, Samuel Cameron, Jack Marquette, Lawrence A. Collins Jr., Sidney Ellis Jr., Sherman Toft, John Taylor, William B. Eastman, Fred Tucker and Dr. and Mrs. John Arnold.

WILD WAVES ARE SAYING

Future Taxpayers Learn to Dance While Socialites Frolic

By IOLA MASTERSON

There are lots of nice things about this town of ours, as for instance, the throaty bass singing of foghorns on a winter night, the carefree "outer drive" feeling of Ocean Blvd., the jaunty crowds of sailors when their ships are in, seagulls circling, the smell of salt spray. Still other things, little in one sense, big in another.

Specifically, the many gay dance clubs parents have organized for the younger crowd. A new one met for the first time Friday. Senior Cottillon is the name, and members are ninth graders. Margaret McCullough, chairman, wisely aided and abetted by husband, Roy, Marian and Cal Garverick were in charge of the first shindig, held at the University Club. It was a football hop, complete with decorations of autumn leaves and chrysanthemums. Sponsors who watched as the kids learned a lively bit known as the "Huddle Hop" were Doris and B. J. Young, Ann and Sid Exley, and Norma and George Trammell. When the season changes the dance will probably be the "Basketball Bounce" but regardless of the step it's stimulating good fun as these youngsters grow up to gether in our town.

Admired that sparkling pic of Helen Fielding in the P.T. this week (she really sparkles like that, picture being taken or not!) Her newspaper portrait heralded the beginning of the "big push" for the home division of the Community Chest Drive, of which Helen is chairman.

Weak, but smiling, was Norm Durkin when we saw him at his Officers' Town Club Wednesday. The smile because he was "out" and the weak was because he had been "in"—the hospital, that is. Norm won't really be back to work for another month.

Treva and Karl Grassie left last week end for a two-week vacation trip. They started off by attending Kiwanis District convention in Sacramento and then planned to toddle on over to Carmel for a bit of easy living.

To Jim Hackleman there never was a sweeter sound than "Mister." Not that he wasn't proud to bear the title of "Captain" in the USMC. But there's something about being a civilian—Jim and his wife, Patricia, and their two boys, Jimmy and Chris, have returned to life in San Bernardino and have a new home in the foothills.

Excited butterflies in the midsection will be the undeniably pleasant sensation for Maurine Brown, Cheril Pospesil and Faye Clemer when next Saturday rolls around. They hold plane reservations for a flight to Mexico City on that day. This is a first trip to our southern neighbor's capital for the young ladies. They'll be gone two weeks and visit many other places, and the only one of these which we can spell is Acapulco! (Printer, be careful!)

Snow may fly before Ann and Murray Williams return from their monthlong vacation trip to Washington, D. C., where they have gone to visit his family.

Barbara and Bob La Monde of Hollywood TV and radio fame were peninsula house guests of Gloria and Claude Stroud of Long Beach fried chicken fame! Barbara and Gloria are twin sisters and were pretty famous show people themselves not so long ago.

Ruth Elliott is expecting husband Sid home this week end for keeps from business duties which have kept him in Eureka these many weeks, except for a few quickie trips home over week ends.

Colonel Henry and Esther Neusse, army stationed over there in the Azores, had to give up some glamorous plans for a tour of Europe this month, but they'll make up for their disappointment by an equally glamorous trip to North Africa in the spring.

Beachcomber dance attenders at the Virginia Country Club week ago last night are still laughing about how they all looked in their weird raiment. Good for an extra A-1 guffaw from any of 'em is mention of Dave Thomas' especially hilarious appearance!

Doris Olson should be home by today from her safari to the great open spaces around Saskatchewan, Saskatchewan, Canada. She and Mrs. Olson Sr. made the trip by plane to the former family home.

Over a cup of tea Friday at the home of Madelyn Roberts, ways and means chairman for the second annual exotic Head-dress Ball, secret plans were made for the affair that proved so fabulous last year. Such party makers as Thurlayne Waite, Emily Cottrell, Marian Groshong, Blanche Herley, Kay Inman and Virginia West would not tell us a thing about the big ball except to say "Save December 10." So, save it, we will and you better had, too!

Sojourn Over

Returned from a recent Mexican sojourn are Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Berry, 340 Obispo Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Mark F. Coleman, 3034 Caspian Ave. Their travel notes include attendance at the dedication of the new El Presidente Aleman Highway into Ensenada. While the men fished, and quite successfully, for white sea bass and barracuda, the ladies shopped along the way.

Brown Home Party Setting

Entertaining tomorrow at 12 o'clock luncheon is Mrs. J. Vernon Brown, 4350 Linden Ave. Flowers out of the hostess' garden to be used in the decor will include Hoover roses and Agnes Galt hibiscus in the dining room. Crimsen Lake bougainvillea and Etiele de Holland roses in the living room.

Invited is the membership committee of the Long Beach Women's City Club. Mrs. George Forster, chairman of the group, will assist Mrs. Brown.

Miss Shirley Ann Weir Attractive Autumn Bride

Berkeley will be the future home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Owen Beaty whose October wedding was at St. Bartholomew Catholic Church. They are now honeymooning at an undisclosed destination.

The attractive bride, Miss Shirley Ann Weir, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus L. Stalling of 2352 Cedar Ave. She is a graduate of St. Anthony's High and attended City College where she was a member of Ramayana, Kappa and Alpha and was a recipient of the Associated Women Students' five-jewel award for outstanding campus activities. At present she is a senior at UC, Berkeley.

Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Beaty of Connersville, Ind., attended Franklin College in Indiana, where he was a Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

He is now serving in the Air Force.

For her wedding the bride chose a traditional brocaded gown, accentuated with a stand-up collar, cap sleeves, a basque bodice and a full skirt over crinoline. She carried white orchids on a prayer book and wore a finger-length veil falling from a brocaded headpiece decorated with pearls.

In the bridal party were Mrs. Neal R. Gibson as her sister's matron of honor; Clarence Marble, best man; Mary Rose Cushman, bridesmaid; Neal Gibson and Gene Knott, ushers.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church hall.

Report on Conclave

High lights of a Kappa Alpha Theta Alumnae dessert meeting at the home of Mrs. John Byrne this month were the reports of the president, Mrs. LeRoy Zierott, official delegate, and Mrs. V. Vincent Lee, who attended the 40th biennial convention of Kappa Alpha Theta at Sun Valley, Idaho, this summer.

Delegates representing 76 undergraduate chapters, 140 alumnae clubs and 66 alumnae chapters attended. Now grand president elected is Mrs. James W. Hoftoad of Nashville, Tenn.

Long Beach alumnae received a life membership certificate in the Institute of Logopedics (for speech-handicapped children), Wichita, Kan., for their $1000 contribution to the institute and its work. Among other philanthropies the Long Beach chapter also has contributed to the national philanthropy, the Foster Parents plan, through which children in need or made destitute by war are supported, and also to the Exceptional Children's Foundation.

The "College and Its Fraternities," what fraternities (and sororities) can contribute to campus life today, discussed by G. Herbert Smith, president of Willamette University, was one of the convention's speech high lights. Mrs. Lee described the social side of the convention, particularly the barbecue, with its pioneer mining theme and the formal banquet of the last night's session.

Assisting the hostess at the Long Beach meeting were Mmes. John Ferguson, Shirley O'Connor and William Zantiny. Also present were Mmes. LeRoy Zierott, R. F. Sexton, A. L. Hansted, Mae Ballack, Elizabeth Maddock, La Vern Brinkman, Ora Lee Ridings, Laurence Updike, Ann Craig, W. P. Hicks II, L. E. Walton, Clifton G. Lowen, Norman Meager, Cameron Stafford, Audrey B. F. Brown, B. Vincent Lee, William Bigler, Margaret Woodward, Ray E. Astle, Fred McNair, L. Grant Crow, Roy Forbes, Dorothy Jennings, Herbert Fielding, D. D. Dunlap and Miss Ruth LaFrance.

Colorful Hawaiian Theme for Bosses' Night by Secretaries

By ANNE GILCHRIST

A handsome party and an enjoyable one, in every sense of the word, was the Queen Beach Chapter of National Secretaries festive Bosses' Night of Tuesday, held at Lakewood Country Club. Hawaiian in theme, the party featured decorations of flowers, palms, fruit and other items symbolic of the islands. President Madeleine Ferguson welcomed the large assemblage of "bosses" and their wives.

The club's 1952 scholarship awards were made to Siby Johnson of Poly, Helen Jean Harrison of Jordan and Ruth Osborn of Wilcox by Scholarship Committee Chairman Violet Coulter. Another high light of the evening, this one hilarious, was the novel "Hukilau Auction" conducted by Dr. M. M. Haskell. W. E. Trimmell (Bechtel Corp.) was winner with the "high bid." Hearty applause followed the hula danced by Queen Beach Chapter members Rita Dugan, Lillian Ober and Lola Lyons. Al MacIntire and his Hawaiian entertainers provided the professional entertainment. Program Chairman Terry Swanson was in charge of the evening's colorful arrangements.

October being the month set aside by the National Association of Insurance Women for the nation-wide annual membership drive, insurance women of Long Beach held an attractive fall festival at Scioto Hall to greet prospective members and guests. A number of members from the Los Angeles Club and San Gabriel Valley Club were special guests. In addition to a short business meeting the evening's activities included a white elephant sale, a bazaar and laugh-provoking games. According to President Marguerite Otto and Pauline Kincaid, welfare chairman, one of the local projects for the year, in which every member is urged to participate, will be the writing of letters and sending of Christmas gifts to men in Korea.

When Walter S. Hallanan, chairman of the National Petroleum Council and president of the Plymouth Oil Co., spoke to the first international convention of Desk and Derrick Associations in Houston, Texas, he painted a thrilling picture to the oil women of the industry in which they work, not only the dramatic present day meaning of oil to our country and the world, but of its vast potential. Frances Rodenfels, president of Long Beach Desk and Derrick, brought back an account of his speech.

Desk and Derrick was chartered only three and one-half years ago at a meeting held in New Orleans with 73 women present. There are now over 5000 members belonging to the 40 clubs in North America.

An organizational meeting of Osteopathic Medical Assistants will take place tomorrow night at Victor Hugo Restaurant, beginning at 6:30. Isabelle Earle (with Dr. F. W. Sturges) has been instrumental in planning the meeting. She says that, as far as is known, this will be the first such club for Osteopathic Assistants in the country. Purpose of the club will be to promote friendships through social functions, to participate in local philanthropies, and to assist each other professionally through knowledge shared.

a reception this afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crawford, 3401 E. Ocean Blvd. In addition to this social event, the members will give their annual reception following the student audition concert Jan. 23 in Concert Hall, Municipal Auditorium, honoring the young Southland musicians who appear with the orchestra that night. Mrs. Crawford is sponsor.—(Staff photo by H. S. Melvin.)

Courtesy for Mary Sievers

Continuing a parade of pre-nuptial courtesies for Miss Mary Sievers, bride-elect of Robert Lentz, was the fete given Friday by Mrs. John W. Brooks at her Orangewood Acres home. A bower of white flowers graced with satin ribbons in antique crystal bowls was featured in decorations.

A silver gift was presented to the honoree by guests, who were Mrs. William Sievers, mother of the bride-to-be; Mrs. J. Ernest Klein, mother of the prospective bridegroom; Mrs. William Sievers Sr. of Whittier, Miss Sievers' grandmother; Mrs. Velma Hair, Frieda Owens, Emilie Krick Gump, Curtis Cassill, William Abrams, Virgil Rothwell, Romaine Akers, Paul Barnes, W. W. Bush, Herbert Murphy, Harold Beckley, Houston Fairley, Walter Crawford, Thomas Taylor, John Schwamm, Barbara Thompson, Mrs. Wilbur Cox of Balboa and Mrs. Robert Cook of Anaheim.

Tri-Delta Supper

Mrs. Charles T. Smith will be hostess to members of Long Beach Alliance of Delta Delta Delta Tuesday evening at her home, 727 Cartagena Ave.

A buffet supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. and will be followed by a brief business session. Bridge and canasta will be played during the evening.

Assisting Mrs. Smith will be Mmes W. K. Stowe, L. J. Wood and L. W. Swigert. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Frank Cooksen, 3659 Albury St. Tri-Deltas visiting in Long Beach or new residents are invited.

Richardson Named in Capital Social News

By VIRGINIA WELDON KELLY
Press-Telegram Washington Correspondent

The former commander-in-chief of the U. S. Fleet, Adm. J. O. Richardson, and Mrs. Richardson, who lived for a number of years in Long Beach, returned a few days ago from an extensive motor trip throughout New England.

Soon after Christmas, Adm. and Mrs. Richardson plan to motor by way of Texas to California, where they will visit their son and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Richardson, in Beverly Hills. While in California they expect to visit Long Beach, La Jolla, Coronado and San Francisco.

On Sunday evening, Adm. and Mrs. Richardson were the ranking guests at a dinner party given at the Chevy Chase Country Club by Mrs. Francis Cogswell, widow of Capt. Cogswell, USN, who was the commanding officer of the original cruiser Houston, which was based at Long Beach and on which President Roosevelt made several cruises.

At the party, reminiscences of Long Beach were in order for all the guests had been stationed there. The company included Rear Adm. and Mrs. E. J. Foy, Capt. and Mrs. A. G. Mumma, Capt. and Mrs. Frank H. Brumby, Arthur Rice of the State Department, formerly of Pasadena; Rear Adm. T. J.

Kelly, USN, ret., and Mrs. S. M. Weldon.

A famous editor once defined news as when a man bites a dog. In a more agreeable and romantic vein, it is certainly newsworthy when a father and mother take a honeymoon instead of their newly married children. This happened when Rear Adm. and Mrs. Roland Smoot turned over their Alexandria apartment to their recently married son and daughter-in-law, R. N. Smoot Jr. and Mrs. Smoot. The senior Smoots then went on a trip to Jacksonville, Fla., to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Lt. and Mrs. E. H. Lofton.

Roland Jr. (Bud) and his bride, the former Jean Williams of Pomona, now have an apartment of their own very near the Roland Srs.

An attractive and clever young couple, Bud and Jean have made nearly all the furniture in their apartment. Their leisure time is limited, too. Bud is attending Georgetown University Law School. Jean is employed as secretary to Jack Evans, Asiatic Petroleum Co. executive.

Philosophical Unit to Meet Tonight

The timely topic of "Freedom and Control in Economic and Political Life" will be discussed at a meeting of the Long Beach Philosophical Society at 8 p. m. tonight in the home of Mrs. Ruita Hawkins, 1113 Glendora Ave. Dr. Stephen C. Tornay will conduct the discussion. Guests are welcome.

Miss Olson Is Bride

In a gown of white chiffon velvet with a Chantilly lace jacket and a four-yard train of velvet edged in wide lace bands, Miss Dorothy Mae Olson approached the altar of St. Matthew's Catholic Church Saturday at 11 a. m. to become the bride of Buddy Leo Daley.

The bridal veil was of illusion net caught to a Juliet cap, and the bride's flowers were white cattleya orchids, fleurs d'amour and stephanotis, arranged on a prayer book.

In the bridal entourage were Miss Barbara Grubb, maid of honor; Misses Joy Marsh, Marganne Daley and June Beavis, bridesmaids; Patricia Daley, flower girl; William Bouley, best man; Vernon Highfield, Walter Babcock and Arthur Clark, ushers, and Paul Michels, ring bearer. The nuptial mass was performed by Rev. Fred Fischer, and Robert and Arthur Daley were altar boys.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey W. Sadler of 1401 E. Ocean Blvd., the bridegroom attended Wilson High. He has just signed a baseball contract with the Cleveland Indians after being elected CIF player of the year and receiving the Helms Athletic Award. His bride, daughter of Mrs. Ruby I. Olson of 4131 E. Fifth St., attended Wilson High where she was a Phi Gamma Chi and City College.

After a honeymoon to an undisclosed destination the pair will be at home Oct. 20 at 925 Termino Ave.

The 350 guests attended a reception after the ceremony in the South American Room of Town Hall.

Mrs. Gaylord H. Ellefritz

Mrs. Gene E. Depew

Wed by Candlelight

Miss Carol Jean Harrington became the bride of Gaylord H. Ellefritz Saturday evening in a candlelight ceremony at Grace Methodist Church. Rev. Claude W. Young officiated at the nuptial service.

The bride wore a white satin gown with a nylon tulle skirt and a cathedral-length veil of princess-duck lace fell from a Juliet cap. She carried a bouquet of carnations centered with a white orchid with stephanotis and satin streamers. Miss Harrington was escorted down the aisle by her father, Verl D. Keiser.

Members of the bridal party were Miss Kristine J. Kruger, maid of honor; Mrs. John M. Harrington, Miss Deanna Keiser and Mrs. R. Eugene Crowder, bridesmaids; Don Hook of Phoenix, Ariz., best man; J. M. Harrington, Dean Keiser and Wayz Middough, ushers; Helen Keiser, flower girl; Frankie Keiser, ring-bearer; Miss Mary Lee Holmes of Reno, Nev., and Miss Janice Ratts of Phoenix, Ariz., candlelighters.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Swartz, with Mrs. Elmer W. Kruger of Oakland, Mrs. Laurence B. Updyke and Mrs. Bertha Jones as hostesses.

Mrs. Ellefritz was graduated from Wilson High School and attended Stephens College in Missouri. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Ellefritz of Phoenix and attended schools there.

After a honeymoon in Arizona the young couple will make their home in Hawaii, where the bridegroom is stationed.

Northern Trip After Vows at St. Barnabas

Now honeymooning in Northern California are Mr. and Mrs. Gene E. Depew, who were wed at an afternoon ceremony in St. Barnabas Catholic Church a few days ago. The couple will be at home Oct. 19 in Wilmington.

Daughter of Mrs. Mathilda Thiel of Glen Ullin, N. D., the former Miss Clara M. Thiel, 3913 Olive Ave., was attired in a gown with a Chantilly lace bodice and a bouffant skirt of tulle over satin styled entrain. Her nylon illusion veil was held in place by clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a white orchid on a white prayer book.

Officiating at the double-ring service was Rev. Charles Cranham. Attending as matron of honor was Mrs. Mathilda Reaff, and bridesmaids were Marilyn Feser, Dorothy Thiel and Roxalyn Einwalter. Charles N. Depew Jr. was best man, and guests were shown to their places by Hubert L. McCague, Richard E. Smith and Vernie Van Duzer. Barbara Jean Depew was flower girl.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Nick Waleri of Garden Grove.

The bride attended high school in Glen Ullin, N. D., and the bridegroom, son of Mrs. Angelina Depew of Wilmington, attended Banning High in Wilmington.

A LATE FALL wedding is being planned by Miss Jacqueline DePreker and Andrew J. Demaria with the announcement of their engagement today by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter DePreker of 3509 Charlemagne Ave. Miss DePreker, a graduate of Los Angeles County Hospital School of Nursing, is continuing her studies at Los Angeles State College. Her fiancé, son of Mrs. Joseph Baran of San Pedro, is a junior at USC, where he is majoring in foreign trade.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM J. LELASH of Huntington Beach are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Clara, to Lt. Richard L. Raymond, USAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Raymond of Bristol, Conn. She is a graduate of Huntington Beach High School. Her fiancé is a graduate of Jet School at Williams Air Force Base, Arizona, and recently returned from Korea. Plans are being made for a November wedding. He is now jet instructor at Big Spring, Texas.

HONEYMOONING in Mexico City today are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Korngute, who were married last week in Colonial Room of Ambassador Hotel. The former Barbara Blum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Blum of 361 Park Ave., is a model and actress. Rabbi Edgar Magnin who officiated, 24 years ago married the bride's parents. The bridegroom is a business executive in Los Angeles. When they return from their honeymoon, the couple will reside on Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles.

Mrs. Robert Haislett

Mrs. William McDaniel

Honeymooning in Arizona

The Church of Christ served as the setting for the marriage of Miss Edna Louise Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Parsons of 16909 Hayter Ave., Lakewood Gardens, and William E. McDaniel of Springerville, Ariz.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Mary Parsons as maid of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were the Misses Gale Blazevich, Marilyn Williams, Phyllis Zimmerman and Mary Mercuris. Flower girl was Gwen Short. The bridegroom was attended by Neal Goza, best man. Ushers were Norman Parsons, Jack Childress, Henry Ruppe and Joe Artzer. Hostesses at a reception in the church following the ceremony were Misses Nona Garrison, Thelma Leehman and Hilda Crowe.

The couple is now on a wedding trip to Arizona.

Pair Reside in Lakewood

Making their home in Lakewood following a honeymoon at Big Bear Lake are the newly married Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lynn Haislett, who were wed in Bethany Lutheran Church. Rev. N. C. Mueller officiated at the double ring service.

The bride is the former Alberta May Moreno, daughter of Mrs. Maurice Winer of Bellflower and Joseph Moreno of San Francisco. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Haislett of 4542 Ostrom Ave., Lakewood.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length dress of white organza over satin. Her fingertip-length veil of illusion net fell from a matching headress trimmed with pearls. She carried three white orchids surrounded by white carnations. Miss Mary Herrera served as maid of honor, while Charles Powers attended the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were William Haislett and Dewey Black.

The bride is a graduate of Jordan High School, where she was affiliated with the Xi Delta sorority. Her husband is a graduate of Excelsior High School.

Service Set Buzzes With Talk of Coast Guard Wives' Fall Fete

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

With much activity and excitement Coast Guard Officers Wives Club members are planning their first meeting of the season which will be at the Officers Club, Allen Center, at noon, Oct. 21, with senior hostess for the day being Mrs. E. D. Bartlett, assisted by Mrs. J. L. Sutherland.

An autumn luncheon party has been planned and arrangements are going ahead for tables for those who wish to remain following the business meeting for bridge or canasta.

Newly elected officers of the club are: President, Mrs. Herbert E. Peters; honorary president, Mrs. John Trobes; first vice president, Mrs. H. H. Carter; second vice president, Mrs. J. K. Cross; third vice president, Mrs. E. A. Delaney; recording secretary, Mrs. E. A. Peabody; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. Carlson Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. W. J. Edwards; assistant treasurer, Mrs. R. H. Coleman; and parliamentarian, Mrs. R. L. Sanderson.

Chairman of entertainment is Mrs. E. D. Bartlett, and chairman of ways and means is Mrs. D. G. Rafter. In charge of publicity is Mrs. W. L. Russell Jr.

Friday morning at the coffee hour a group met at the home of Capt. and Mrs. John Trobes honoring Mrs. M. O'Neill, wife of Vice Adm. O'Neill of Washington, D. C., and among many guests presented to greet the distinguished visitor were members of the Coast Guard Officers Wives Club.

Lt. and Mrs. William Paulick had as their recent house guests from New Jersey Mr. and George Duff, whom they entertained with a group of friends at a dinner party at the Officers Club, Allen Center.

Mrs. Ira Swift, wife of the commanding general of the Third Corps at Ft. MacArthur, and Mrs. Theodore W. Parker, wife of the commanding officer of the Third Corps Artillery, were guests of honor at the luncheon meeting of the Women's Club at Ft. MacArthur Officers' Mess recently.

Mrs. Virginia Masters, wife of Col. George C. Masters, sang a group of songs in French, German and English.

Hostesses were Mrs. Mitchell Phillips, Gilbert I. Lane, James J. O'Brien, Donald McK Ashton and Ed Bewie.

Lt. Clark Estel who recently reported to Ft. MacArthur from Korea, is now residing with Mrs. Estel in Compton.

Enjoyed by a group of the sail boat and lollypop crowd was Bobbie Oliver's second birthday party last Friday given at the home of his grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oliver of 682 Santiago Ave.

Mrs. Frank Quinn and boys enjoyed a few days in San Diego as the guests of Mrs. James Quinn and Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Wynne, and their sons, Clifford and Jeffery, came home with the Quinns and have been visiting here last week. Mrs. Quinn entertained her house guests last Tuesday at a dinner and tour of Knott's Berry Farm.

Capt. and Mrs. F. C. Stelter of Coronado entertained at a delightful event at the cocktail hour recently honoring Adm. and Mrs. Harry Sanders, and presented were many of the officers attached to the St. Paul and their wives, who drove down to the border city for the party.

The newly reorganized Navy Thrift Shop will have its grand opening ceremonies on Oct. 20 at 10 p. m. in the shop's new location at Bldg. 44 aboard the Long Beach Naval Station.

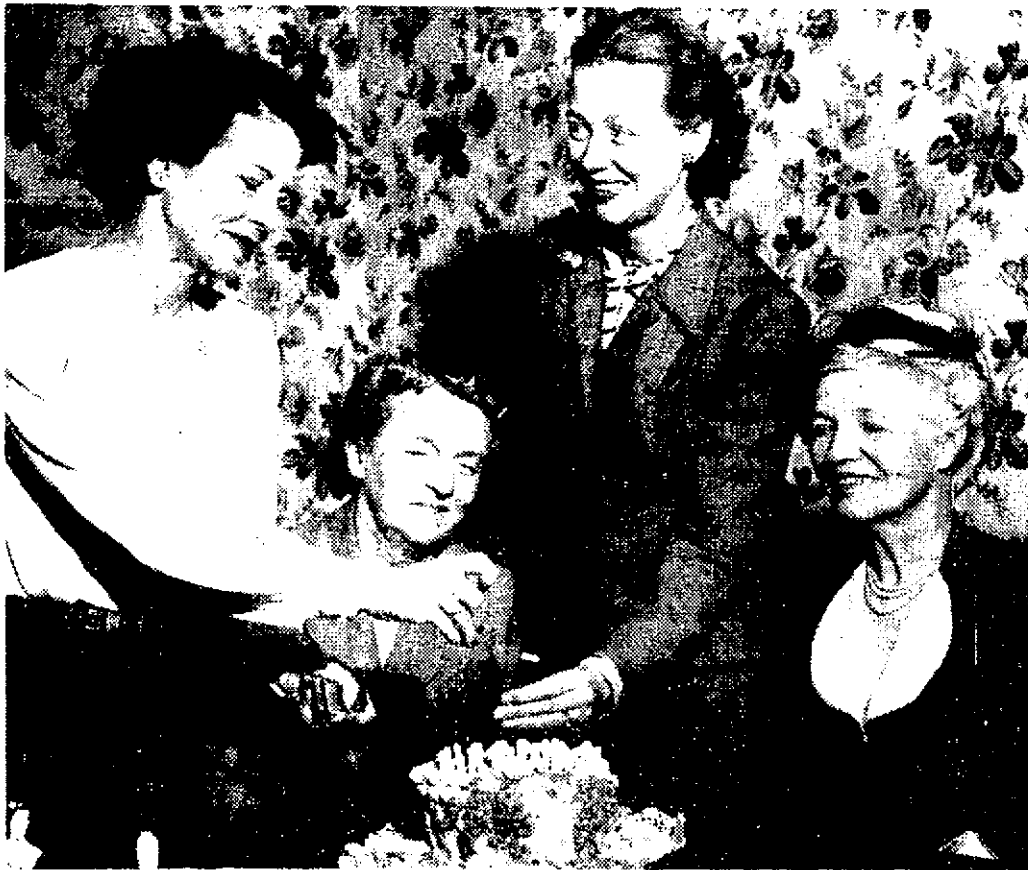

"All hands" are reminded if they have anything saleable in the way of clothing or furniture to please bring it aboard during the week of Oct. 13 to 17.

The shop is open to active and retired members of the Navy and their families. And officers and enlisted members wives who can donate some time to the shop, especially in the sales department are urged to volunteer. The shop will be open for business every Monday and Thursday from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Wives of officers attached to the USS Helena are planning an exciting dinner party for the group on the evening of Oct. 22 at the Apply Valley Steak House and reservations must be made by Oct. 18. Those interested should call Mrs. R. Scholes of 1022 E. San Antonio Dr., or Mrs. B. Livas of 72 Granada Ave.

Capt. Frederick W. Brining, commanding officer of the USS Platte, has returned home from the Far East, and the family is at home to friends here at 3746 Lewis Ave. The sons, Bob and Bill, flew out from New York last year with their cat to join their grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harmon Wolfers, here, and were joined later by their mother who flew out with the family dog.

Prior to living in New York the family resided in this city. Sorry to report that Mrs. McKinney, wife of Capt. J. R. McKinney, is at present a patient in the Naval Hospital at Ocean side.

Corsair Club Events Noted

A predicted log race ended the Corsair Yacht Club's cruising season, with Mill Marsh's Polly Ann V taking first place with an error of 21 seconds, and Ed Drum's Daystar coming in second, with an error of 40 seconds. A number of previously mentioned entries were obliged to drop out at the last minute because of the heavy fog that settled over the starting point.

Open house boat of the day was the Glad Andy, owned by Rear Commodore and Mrs. Andy Anderson.

Seventy-five members and guests attended the last official meeting of the year, dining in the banquet room of the Catalina Country Club, Commodore Don H. Smith announced the November Commodore dinner dance installation meeting at which time Vice Commodore Ken Eckenrode will succeed him.

Couturiere Touches

PATTERN A504 by Helen Charelle

Helen Charelle is the American designer who dresses many of the country's most distinguished women. Pattern A504 is a beautifully simple style with lines subtly molded to give the shorter, fuller figure a more willowy look. Note the couturier touch in the sunburst tucking above the applied bows. In the original, the contrast is satin against wool—dramatic, indeed! "I can see this design in wool with velvet trim . . . or crepe with taffeta or satin," Miss Charelle says. And she advises you: "Home dressmakers will have no alteration problems here—this is a half-size design, so it fits you perfectly through the shoulders, waist, hips." Have your Prominent Designer creation in black or navy, and you'll be wearing the season's smartest silhouette for important afternoons and evenings.

Pattern A504 is available in Half Sizes 14½, 16½, 18½, 20½, 22½ and 24½. See your pattern for required yardage.

Send 50 cents (in coins) for Pattern A504 to Press-Telegram Pattern Department, P. O. Box 59, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N. Y. Please print plainly your name, address with zone, style number and size.

HEAR YE! HEAR YE! Are, no doubt, the words exclaimed by his family when they discovered Judge Joe Maltby posing as Chef of the Week and presiding over the breakfast bacon. Starting his law office in Long Beach in 1920, he has risen to a judgeship on the Superior Court bench via the Municipal Court. (Photo by Jasper Nutter).

CHEF OF THE WEEK

From Bench to Bacon Is Fate Today for Judge

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

He's the only member of the Bar Association who also holds membership in the Legal Secretaries. He made the grade by some exceptional exception to the rules.

The stork derailed Chef of the Week Judge Joseph Maltby at a little whistle-stop down in Mizzouree—Burlington Junction, that is, but he joined his family on a trip to Long Beach in 1907 and stayed forever after. A great sports fan, he both executes and enjoys them. Swims every day the year 'round... fishes in the surf... attends wrestling matches in person (not via TV)... reads mystery stories for relaxation, and can join the tenor contingent in song at the drop of the hat.

Having covered most of France in World War I, Judge Maltby is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion. A Kiwanian, he has served as its past president, a position which he also held with the Long Beach Bar Association. He is active in both the Los Angeles and the American Bar Association, too.

He usually detours around the Maltby kitchen, but today the unusual has happened, and he's presiding over the breakfast bacon. He does it this way:

PAN-FRIED BACON

Arrange slices of bacon in a large, cold frying pan and cook until the edges begin to curl. Turn each slice separately. Continue cooking till fat part of bacon begins to turn a faint light brown; remove to absorbent paper to drain excess fat. Pour off excess fat from pan as it accumulates. The secret of pan-frying bacon is to do it slowly over moderate heat and to remove it before it is the degree of brownness you wish, since the bacon continues cooking after it has been removed from the heat.

Teach Responsibility in Early Childhood

By ANGELO PATRI

"We have a son, a big handsome, healthy boy of fifteen in the second year in high school. He does well in school, gets good marks and is well liked by his teachers. He is on the ball teams and spends all his free time playing—practicing, he calls it.

"His mother is not very well. The housework is difficult for her and she can't get him to do anything about the house. If he is asked to take out the ashes, or tie up the newspapers, he makes a terrible fuss. He never hangs anything up nor puts anything he uses back in its place. Nothing we say helps."

When a child reaches the age of fifteen or so, without learning that he is part of an organization in which he is vitally concerned as a partner, there is little hope of his understanding his share in the maintenance of home. For fifteen or sixteen years he has been waited on, has had everything done for him, while all he did was accept what came and ask for more. It is unreasonable, then, to expect that, on the day he reaches a certain age, weight and height, he takes on an altogether different view of his position in the family. Only about ten years later will he see that the whole idea was wrong from start to finish.

It is the start that we should attend to if we want the end to be cooperation and friendliness and not individualism and antagonism. It is so easy to fall into the habit of serving children. Their helplessness is so winning, so flattering to ourselves. Their smile of gratification is so endearing that we enjoy seeing it day after day. So, day after day, we weave the habit that is going to make life miserable for both parents and children.

It is not easy to stand by and watch a child struggle to do what we could do with a gesture. It is downright hard to watch a child mess up a task that we could finish in a quarter of the time, without waste of material. It is very hard on the temper and patience and the affections, until we stop to think, to look ahead ten years and see the helpless, ignorant adolescent we shall have reared. That thought will give any parent pause, strengthen his will and his patience. It will enable him to take the time and to spend the energy necessary to teach the child to help himself and to help the other members of the family.

What one creates by his own effort, one loves. When a child creates a place for himself in his home, when he gives of himself to maintain the home, he loves it and those in it. Otherwise, how can he?

Adolescence is rather late to recondition a child. Start early and work late to accustom him to cooperation.

Promenade Schedules First Dance

Invitations to join Promenade of Long Beach have been extended to juniors and seniors of local high schools. The first party of the season is the "Hello Hop," a supper dance, to take place at Town Hall Saturday evening. A hello tag will be one of the several novelty dances planned to carry out the evening's theme. A high light of the evening will be instruction in the tango.

Mrs. Donald C. Ringler, chairman of Promenade of Long Beach, is in charge of the evening's plans.

Junior hostesses and hosts will be Barbara Binger, Mary Calderwood, Marilyn Enlow, Diane Harbert, Jo Ann Johnson, Doris Satchell, Valeria Sneed, Susan Upson, Dalton Borden, John Clements, Lawrence Creasey, Bill Powers, Rodney Rumble, Ted Schofield, Charles Streigel and Robert Thompson.

Kappa Alumnae

Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae Association of Long Beach will celebrate Founders' Day with a banquet Monday evening at 7 p. m. in the Huntington Hotel. All Kappas in the area are invited. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Edward Ingle.

Education Study Group Has Conclave

About 40 Long Beach members of the California Association for Childhood Education attended a session of the southern section study conference a few days ago in Glendale.

Miss Hilda Peterson, president of the southern section and a Long Beach elementary school teacher, presided over the general session, after which study groups met for discussion.

Among speakers were Normal Hayhurst, superintendent of Glendale schools; Mrs. Jane Hood, assistant to the superintendent of the Department of Education for California; Miss Neva Hagman, elementary supervisor of Long Beach schools; Miss Isabel Connor, assistant supervisor of art in Long Beach schools.

The next state study conference will be in March at San Diego.

Political Theme for Hadassah Get-Together

Long Beach Chapter of Hadassah will have a luncheon meeting Wednesday at Temple Sinai. Highlighting the meeting will be Hadassah's American affairs project. The Long Beach chapter will present Mrs. David Sievers of the League of Women Voters, who will give an unbiased view of the major issues that face the American voters in the November election. Mrs. Jack Jacobs, American affairs chairman, is in charge of the meeting.

Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p. m. Hadassah members and their friends are invited. Mrs. Edward Rhodes, chapter president, will be in charge.

House Guests

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hedrick, 310 Termino Ave., for the week end were Mrs. Lizzie Super of Portland, Ore., and Miss Donna Jean Shainholtz of Berkeley. They were here for the 50th wedding anniversary Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Terpstra in the Hedrick home.

Fall Conclave for Pilots

Pilot Club International members of the southern section of district 18, representing the cities of Beverly Hills, Glendale, Pasadena, Long Beach, Los Angeles, San Diego and Santa Monica, will gather this morning at the Lafayette Hotel here for their fall conclave. The meeting will begin at 10 a. m. and will conclude at approximately 3 p. m. this afternoon.

Gov. Lou Haak of San Diego will preside and will be assisted by Lt. Gov. Eleanor Dall of Oakland. The purpose of the fall conclave is to provide a get-together where the presidents of the various clubs will give a resume of the first half year's activities and, sharing ideas, make plans for the final months of the club year.

Mrs. Mildred Morris, president of the Long Beach club, is one of the day's speakers and will discuss "Our International Project." Mrs. Eleanor Boyd, first vice president, will welcome the guests at a 1 o'clock luncheon. During the luncheon Marion Darlington Pratt (a member of Long Beach Pilot) and husband, Don Pratt, will entertain with musical numbers. Mrs. Mildred Robinson, second vice president, is in charge of reservations and arrangements.

'Favorite Song' Dance Theme

The second in a series of dances for members of Third Nighters Dance Club will take place Saturday at Recreation Park Clubhouse, with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Morath and Comdr. and Mrs. Robert L. Sanderson as hosts. Assisting will be Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lewis and Dr. and Mrs. P. E. Sheehan of Huntington Beach.

Theme for Saturday's dance is "Your Favorite Song," and members and guests will attend in costumes suggestive of the chosen theme. Edward Sheehan is president of this dance club which is celebrating its 15th birthday this year.

Lecture Series

The first in a lecture series being sponsored by Taoleon Club at 9:30 a. m. Sunday, Oct. 19, at Linden Hall, Annah Laurie House, speaker, has chosen as her topic, "Windows Not Mirrors." The public is invited.

The Glove Is Smart Fashion

Currently big fashion in Hollywood is just what you have on hand. The glove is that important. Bright gloves, polka-dotted gloves, striped gloves, furred gloves, jeweled gloves—all are in every knowing actress' wardrobe for fall and winter.

Betty Hutton took six pairs of snow crystal gloves to England for her stay during her sensational Palladium engagement. They're gloves embroidered in black with snow crystal patterns, and come in every color. Betty wears them with matching scarves. Her evening snow crystal gauntlets are particularly memorable—white with the black embroidery, and buttoned with tiny, diamond-set snow crystal buttons.

Arlene Dahl has copied with the rise of the glove in a very thrifty way. She slit the cuffs of a pair of 14-button-length black cotton gloves to permit a ribbon to be threaded through. Then she bought ribbons to match all her hats—and switched ribbons in the gloves with every costume. For very elegant occasions she adds little bands of mink to her gloves and pins them tight with tiny diamond brilliant pins.

Mrs. Rouben Mamoulian's broadtail evening gauntlets are the most effective addition to cocktail suits seen here in years. They are narrow and long—stopping just short of the elbow—and Mrs. Mamoulian crushes them down like suede, wears her diamond-and-ruby bracelets over them.

The gayest gloves of the season undoubtedly belong to Dorothy Lamour. They're red with black coin dots, and each finger detaches and can be reversed to show a different color!

THERE is romance with an international flavor since the marriage of the former Miss Eleene Wollard of Long Beach and Ervin Jechel of Yugoslavia. Married in Las Vegas, Nev., early this fall, they are pictured above at the recent reception in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Wollard, 5317 Village Rd. The bride is a graduate of Wilson High School and attended LBCC. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Jechel, formerly of Rikoka, Yugoslavia, and now of Naples, Italy, was educated in Europe. They are now at home to their friends in Lakewood Village.

Flexible Plan Is Best Before Start of Play

By OSWALD JACOBY

When you begin to play a hand, you make some sort of plan; and, when the hand is not a lay-down, you probably have to hope that a certain opponent holds a key card or that a certain suit breaks in a particular way.

The point is illustrated in the hand shown today, played by Larry Hirsch, who would be a famous bridge expert if he didn't waste so much time attending to his business as a dress manufacturer.

Larry began by hoping that East held the king of clubs and that the suit would break 3-2. After a few plays he didn't care about the break of the clubs, but just hoped that East held the king. And after a few more plays he didn't care how the suit broke nor who held the king.

West opened the three of diamonds, and declarer ruffed. It was at this moment that he wanted East to have two or three clubs headed by the king.

Instead of barging ahead blindly on this assumption, Hirsch drew two rounds of trumps, cashed the top spades, and ruffed a spade in the dummy. This set up the 10 of spades, so that declarer no longer needed a club break; he just needed two club tricks.

Declarer returned to his hand by ruffing dummy's remaining diamond and cashed the 10 of spades, discarding a low club from dummy. And now it didn't matter who held the king of clubs, since declarer could be sure that East held a singleton club at most.

West had opened the three of diamonds. Hirsch remembered, which meant that West might have started with either four or five diamonds. (The lead was obviously fourth-best, and West might or might not have the deuce of diamonds as a fifth card in the suit.) Hence East had started with the rest of the diamond suit, either six or seven of them.

East had already followed to four spades and two trumps. Hence there was room in his hand for one club if he had only six diamonds; and for no clubs at all if he held seven diamonds.

After working this out, Hirsch led a low club from his hand, prepared to play low from the dummy. If East won the trick, he would have to give declarer a ruff and a discard. If West won the trick, he would then have to lead away from his king of clubs and give declarer a free finesse for the rest of the tricks.

FALL GARDEN NUMBER

It's harvest time in orchard and garden and Alison Law, a pert little miss from the Oak Glen apple country, typifies the spirit of the season. For fall harvest and garden articles see Pages 2, 8 and 9.

Vegetables in 18 varieties can be grown in the Long Beach area in fall and winter. Thin lettuce seedlings.

Camellias, dormant in late fall and winter, can be set out with advantageous results at this time of year.

Fall Is a Good Garden Season

By Bob Gilmore

RESIDENTS FROM out-of-state as well as many natives fail to realize that fall is the ideal planting season in the Long Beach area for many shrubs, bulbs and transplants and for starting many varieties of plants grown from seeds. The idea that spring is the only planting season here is a false impression; actually, the Southland has no closed season for growing either ornamentals or vegetables in the strict sense of the word. Growing conditions during the next few months offer certain advantages that do not exist during the spring months. One of the main benefits of fall planting is the decreased competition from weeds and many garden pests. Plants started now will find their ancient foes . . . crab grass, devil grass and other comparable pests . . . on the decline. They are either tending towards a dormant stage or dying out entirely. Then, too, dozens of familiar garden enemies . . . worms, spiders, beetles and their associates in crime . . . are less active as the temperature drops. Seeds germinate easily during the fall. This is due to the more even temperatures prevailing; there tends to be a smaller change in temperature between day and night. The sun's rays are slanted and are not so lethal a factor; young seedlings are not in danger of burning up in the hot sun; wilting is also reduced. Flowers in the open garden hold their color longer because of more favorable growing conditions. Also the color should be deeper and more radiant. Fall gardening may prove more economical than in the (Continued on Page 8, Col. 6.)

Calla lilies are graceful garden beauties. They can be set out now. Colors are white, yellow, pink and black.

Clooney Swoons to 'Longhair'

Copyright, 1952, Paramount Pictures Corp.

Songstress Rosemary Clooney selects a "longhair" record, "Ports of Call," as her all-time favorite.

By Art Wilde

A POPULAR SINGER who owes her entire success to a bouncy, jivey, catchy sort of a swing tune, Rosemary Clooney proves herself a traitor to her own bread and butter. Her choice for the best recording of all time is strictly long-hair. Rosemary finally put herself on the record about records and, although her name will be mud to her fellow singers and bandleaders in the popular field of music, chose Ibert's "Ports of Call" as recorded by Pierre Monteaux conducting the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, for her No. 1 record of all time. "It's not just a single record—it's a whole album," said the pert, blonde songstress on the set of Paramount's "The Stars Are Singing." "It's mood music with a sort of smell of tar and spices that hangs over a big city's harbor. It's for me." Her second choice is Frank Sinatra's recording of "April in Paris." "I'm one of Frankie's original bobby soxers," the 24-year-old songstress explained. Third on the list is Ella Fitzgerald's "Stairway to the Stars." "First comes Ella, then every other popular girl singer," says Rosemary. Another classical composition is in fourth position. "Darius Milhaud's 'L' Creation du Monde' will really run the thrills up your spine," she declares. "It was an inspiration for George Gershwin and that's good enough for me." Fifth is Nat (King) Cole's "Lush Life." "His phrasing is magnificent," says Rosemary. What Rosemary calls the greatest band record of all time, Tommy Dorsey's recording of "Sunny Side of the Street," is her sixth choice. An avid ballet fan, Rosemary picks Ravel's "Daphnes and Cloe, Suites No. 1 and No. 2" as one of her prized recordings. An interested sidelight on the popular singer's classical music tastes is that she admits not being able to read a single note of music. Bing Crosby, who has been quoted as saying that Rosemary is the best girl singer in the entertainment business, only rates a belated eighth. "I'm sure Bing will understand about my choices," she says. "I think his best is 'Que Sas'." Again Rosemary's preference for classical music influences her selections for the best 10. No. 9 is Arturo Toscanini's recording of "Beethoven's 9th," which she first heard at Carnegie Hall and then rushed out to buy, and Percy Faith's "Invitation" completes the list as No. 10.

This view of the stained glass window reproduction of "The Last Supper" shows Judas Iscariot as fourth figure from the left. This portion of the window broke five times in the making before piece was finally executed successfully.

Judas Still Making Trouble

By Mabel Gerken

JUDAS was broken five times in the firing, and the celebrated stained glass reproduction of Leonardo da Vinci's "The Last Supper" almost was not completed. Few persons enjoying the beauty of the stained glass masterpiece, considered one of the art treasures of the world, in the Memorial Court of Honor in Forest Lawn at Glendale, know the genesis of the window. Or how nearly it was abandoned before completion. Five times Judas cracked. All Italy was aroused and watchfully speculating. Why Judas? Why not some other part of the window? Dr. Hubert Eaton, chairman of the board of Forest Lawn, located the Caselli Moretti studio in Perugia. There he found that the secret of stained glass had been handed down from generation to generation until Rosa Caselli Moretti is the last to know the secret. When asked if she could make "The Last Supper" window for Forest Lawn, she replied, "I would give my soul to do that." She obtained the original sketches of Leonardo da Vinci's famed painting from the museums of Europe so that her work might be authentic. Several years later, in 1930, Dr. Eaton received the word that Judas had been broken five times in the making. Miss Moretti said, "I know not whether the good God intends that I shall not finish 'The Last Supper,' or whether He is simply emphasizing again the fact that one of His own betrayed Him. I have prayed. I shall try once more and if Judas breaks again in the furnace, I shall not finish 'The Last Supper.'"

Dr. Eaton said, "You can imagine our anxiety. The suspense was terrific. Then one day across the water came the glad news. 'The Last Supper' was finished. THE FIGURES are twice life size. On the day set for its exhibition in Perugia, artists, diplomats, generals and others came to pay homage to the artistry of Miss Moretti. To be appreciated this great piece of art should be viewed again and again at different hours of the day as sunlight that illuminates the figures varies in intensity; therefore they are continually changing.

The Kid Who Got an 'A'

By Jane Lindemuth

HENRY McCANN JR., 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. McCann, 1025 12th St., Huntington Beach, wrote a letter to Burrus Jenkins Jr., newspaper editorial cartoonist, asking the noted artist what type of papers and materials he used in his profession. The cartoonist replied with a letter containing advice not only in cartooning but also in other art fields. Said the letter, "First, Henry, I want to thank you for writing to me." That happened when Henry was still a student at Huntington Beach High School where he benefited from the instruction of John Bestall. Says Henry of Bestall: "He was more like a friend than a teacher." Now a student in architectural design at the University of Southern California, McCann concentrates on pictures of houses rather than of people. "The houses help me to earn my schooling by giving me a position as a draughtsman during the summer," says Henry. "But it seems that my cartoons and portraits bring the greatest notoriety," Henry says, grinning and unconsciously dropping into the comic expression that caused a Life magazine photographer to snap his picture for use in a story concerning college football—"which I have nothing to do with except as a spectator." When Henry made a portrait of Korla Pandit, the entertainer displayed the drawing on one of his television programs. A SKETCH of Stan Kenton has brought Henry his greatest notoriety thus far. While taking music appreciation at USC, Henry, along with the rest of the class, was assigned to write a biographical paper concerning some great personality in the music world. Other students went to the library to check out volumes on Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms. When it became evident that no books and few articles had been written about Stan Kenton, Henry's biographical choice, Henry asked for and immediately received an interview with Kenton, himself. The resulting paper won Henry an "A" in the music appreciation class, although the instructor could not resist a hopeful wish that Henry would become as interested in the classics as he is in Kenton. Henry insists, however, that Kenton is a "classic" in both the art and music fields. In staging his contemporary music "concerts," Kenton uses as much lighting and art works as many a producer for the Broadway stage, Henry declares. In appreciation for Kenton's personal help on his study project, Henry sketched his portrait. The original now hangs on the wall in Kenton's Hollywood office. Another is being considered by Life magazine for use with a "Life of Kenton" story. Kenton offered Henry a position as drummer with his band. But Henry, desiring to complete his work toward a degree in architecture and already employed by an architectural firm, declined his offer. When Henry spent a two-week vacation in Cleveland last summer, Kenton was playing there. Kenton took Henry to dinner, introduced him to the band members, and planned a vacation frolic for the "kid who got an 'A' by writing about me."

Branding a Deepsea Fighter

Above, Goodwill at Guadalupe. Party sailed there from Newport in 30 hours. Claude Kreider, Long Beach, was aboard, took photos on this page.

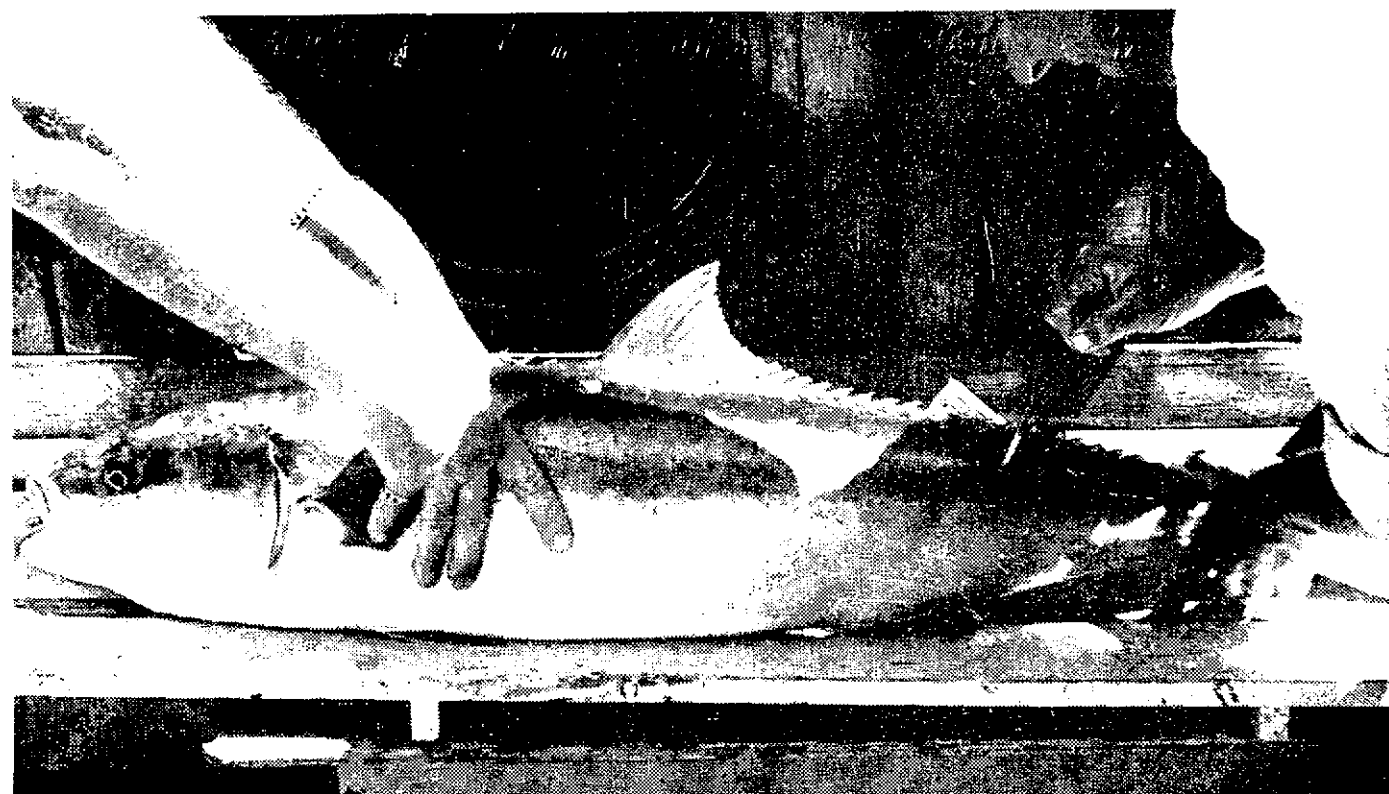

Seeking data on the life and activities of a great game fish—the yellowtail found off Southern California and at other points in the Pacific—a party of 13 men went to Guadalupe Island, off the Baja California coast, last September, to catch, tag with plastic discs and release 100 yellowtail. The large sailing yacht, Goodwill, owned and skippered by Ralph Larrabee of Newport, was used by the party, led by Robert Collyer, a biologist with State Fish & Game Laboratory on Terminal Island.

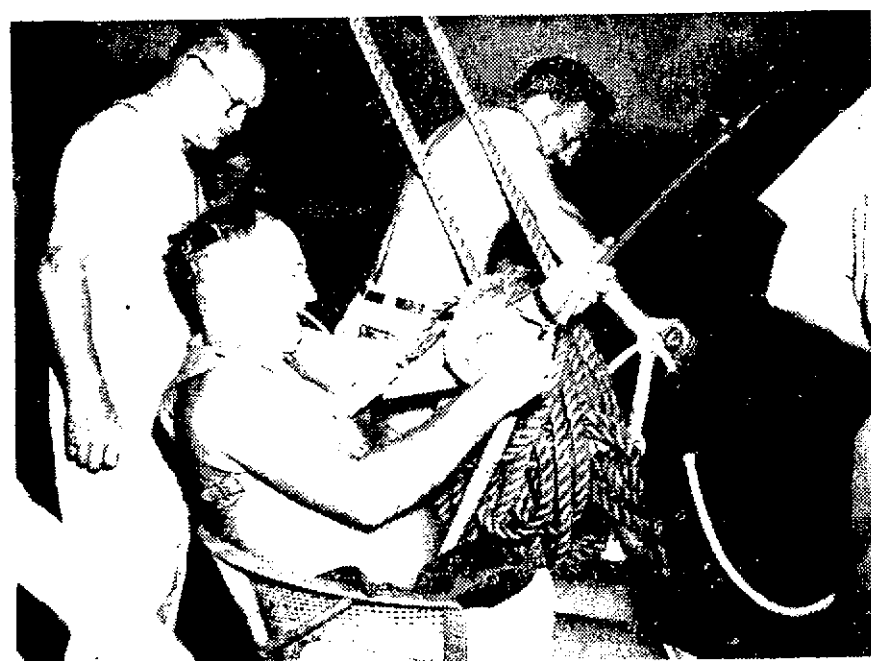

Big yellowtail is played by Earl Wilson of Huntington Park. A large net was used to bring fish aboard, preventing injury. Fish must be decked, tagged and released quickly if it is to survive.

Once fish is on deck, hook must be removed quickly and gingerly. Largest yellowtail taken was a 47-pounder taken by Larrabee who took to a skiff to bring him in when fish kept circling yacht.

On the "operating table," the gasping fish gets tags, fore and aft. Markers bear coded data with which fish can be identified. Anglers taking tagged fish are asked to report them to researchers.

Whoa Nellie! Skipper Larrabee hooks something bigger than yellowtail. It turned out to be a 490-pound bramble shark.

The expedition was part of an extensive program by which it is hoped to establish policies leading toward better fishing.

Whoops! Flip of shark's tail sends deckhand sprawling. Party included Fred Lorenz, Costa Mesa; J. R. Jahraus, Laguna.

Country Living on a City Lot

By Margaret
Pitcairn Strachan

A patio at rear of the house has a barbecue, using the same chimney structure as the living room fireplace.

Combed plywood was used for a decorative sideboard and shelves in the Millers' dining room. Furniture is modern gray and chairs have red leather upholstery.

City comforts combine with many of the advantages of country living at the Larry D. Miller home. Miller finds time for extensive gardening activities.

any other hen that falls down on production! There's no way of escaping the fact, for the eggs roll out of the cage the minute they are laid into a small cubicle in front of each cage. First thing in the morning Miller is out to see how the hens are doing.

The Millers' bedroom is furnished in lined oak with twin beds, a double bureau with a large mirror, brown chenille spreads, brown drapes with a block print design of coral and green, and Japanese prints on the wall.

FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD MARY Lou has her bedroom at the other end of the hall. Mrs. Miller made drapes of green plastic, which are practical because they are easily wiped off, easing housekeeping tasks.

The maple furniture is simple and dainty and the spread is of a rose design. The dressing table and the stool in front of it are covered with skirts of the same green plastic as the drapes. Mary Lou's hobby is raising goldfish and she has a large aquarium. Her bedroom walls are of sunlight yellow and there are green scatter rugs on the floor.

The Millers' bathroom is rose pink tile with a maroon border. The long Pullman washstand has one end built into a dressing table. Ample linen closets are built into each end of the hall.

The house has 1650 square feet of floor space, including a service porch where a large deep freeze is installed, a necessity when a person has his own vegetables and sometimes wants to freeze chickens that have decided not to lay! There's a half-bath off the service porch and a breezeway between the house and garage. The garage itself has huge storage closets.

THE MILLERS moved into their home about a year ago. They chose light gray (called dawn) for their living room walls and gray carpeting. Pink nylon curtains are at the windows with gray padre cloth overdrapes. Mrs. Miller selected a blue sectional piece and co-coa colored upholstered chairs, and a brown leather chair and matching ottoman. Her coffee table is mahogany. The fireplace is of Arizona limestone with a gray tone. Brass fixtures and mesh screen are used. A large brass oval plate hangs above the mantel and there are matching brass planters. French doors on either side of the fireplace lead to the patio which has a barbecue (by using the same chimney as that of the living room fireplace).

The bedroom wing of the house is beyond the living room while the dining room and kitchen are on the opposite side. The center hall. A combination den and bedroom for Larry Miller Jr. (when he is home from V. M. I.) opens from the living room behind the center hall. This room is done in combed plywood and is equipped with a built-in wall bed.

Miller divided off the rear portion of his lot with a grapevine fence; grows tomatoes there 20-feet high!

THE LARRY D. MILLERS, 1535 E. 68th St., are living in a city house, but farming on a miniature scale is Miller's hobby. He drew his plans for his home, took them to a draftsman and had them drawn to scale. The house is of pale green stucco and Arizona limestone with a rose-cast to it and natural redwood trim—even to attractive redwood shutters. A big bay window at the left of the entrance is set in the limestone and there are evergreen trees, poplars and tree-roses making an attractive landscape effect.

Miller's lot is only 100 by 135 feet, but behind the house he has built a redwood fence to enclose his flower beds and dichondra lawn and behind this fence he carries on his farming. He has his own well which pumps 350 gallons a minute and this solves the expense of his sprinkling system.

In the vegetable patch Miller grows vegetables in a wide variety, and a picking of tomatoes fills a wheelbarrow! In fact, his tomatoes are practically phenomenal. Several of the vines grew to such height Miller built a scaffolding for them to climb. They are 20 feet high!

Then of course Miller planted fruit trees: Peach, plum, apricot and avocado. But his true love on his miniature farm are his chickens. He has raised them in wire-bottomed cages which never need cleaning, as the droppings fall through the cages and fertilize that portion of the garden. Each Rhode Island Red is in her own cage which has her name on the door, along with a record of her laying ability. Woe betide Cecilia, Delores, Irene, Ruth or

WHAT YOUR DOG is, usually is what you make him. "Like master, like dog" is no idle adage; dogs are imitative and beyond certain instinctive developments and traits of particular breeds, owe much of their characteristics to environment and training. Your dog wants to be the kind of dog you want him to be, so give him the kind of training that corresponds to your idea of a dog.

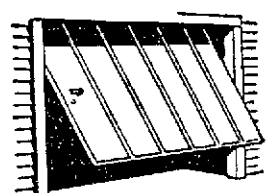

Be kindly but, when you correct your dog, be firm. Don't be always shouting "No!" at your dog but once you have used the word, insist that the dog conform. A dog soon learns when his master can be imposed upon—when "no" is only pretense.

Out-of-Doors Living Emphasized

By Elizabeth Knight

A brick barbecue in the patio of the Earl Bensons' home on Fleethaven Road is planned for entertaining large groups. Beyond the barbecue is a built-in sink.

Barbecue at the Walter Meng home in Rolling Hills is installed in a special room Meng added to garage himself. Table on wheels rolls out of doors easily.

HALF THE FUN of having a home in Southern California is derived from the out-of-doors area of the property. This portion of every man's castle is often considered more important than many of the rooms in the building itself. Dyed-in-the-wool gardeners wouldn't consider buying a place they couldn't turn into a veritable bower of flowers and even those persons who never before worked with a trowel suddenly become fanatics at planting geranium slips as soon as they have moved in.

Of course it's the climate, with its warm days of sunshine when other states are having snowstorms. Such remarks as "We had our first Thanksgiving dinner in California in the patio," are not unusual from newcomers.

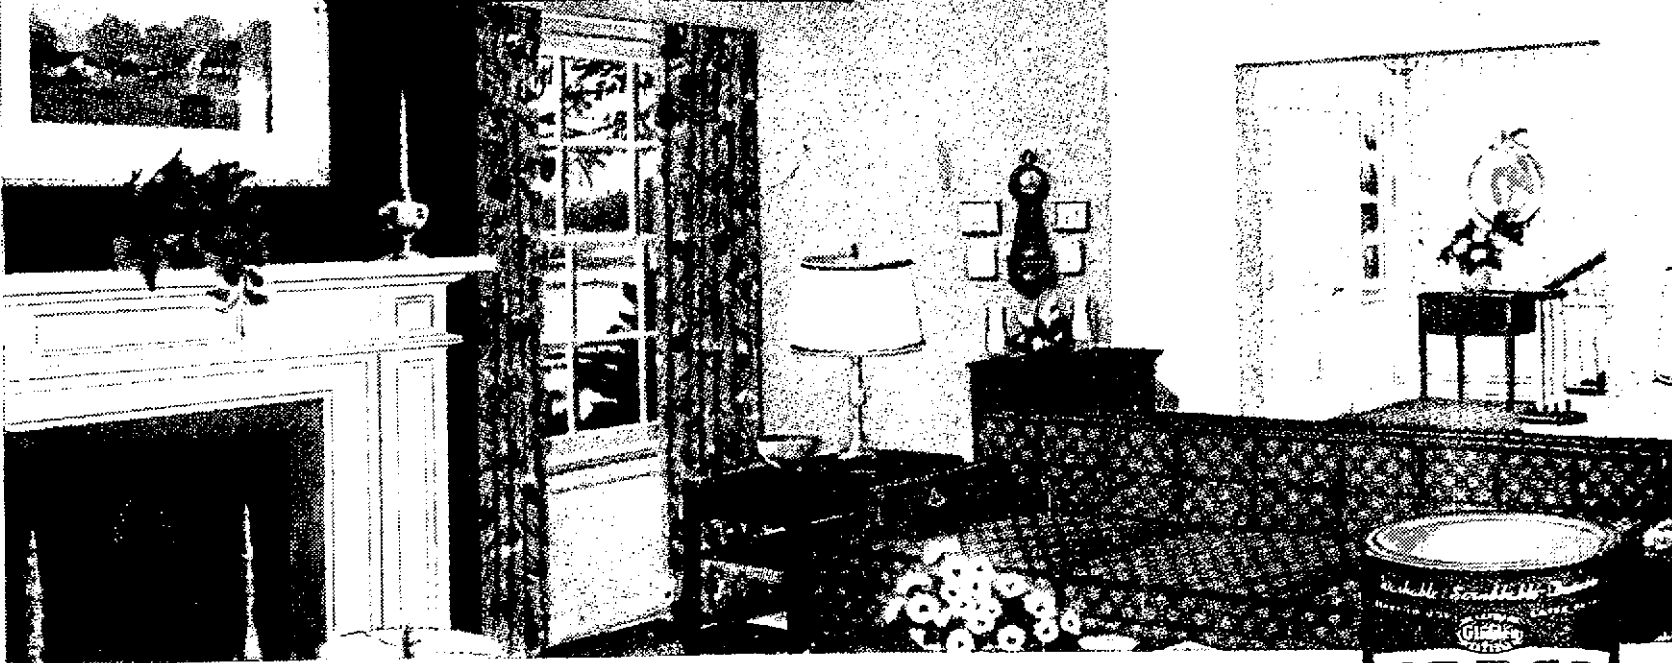

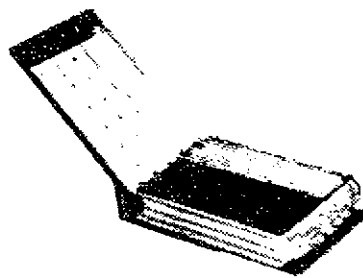

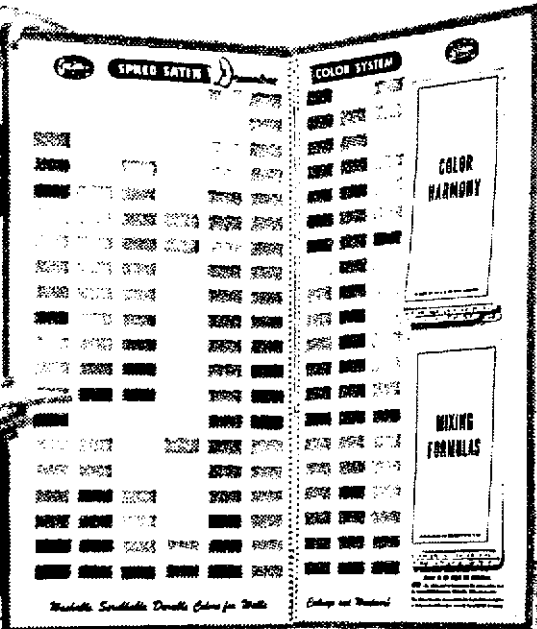

For patios and barbecues go hand in hand with the sunny days and here indeed is a land of paradise for the outdoor furniture manufacturer! Gay umbrellas shading redwood tables, comfortable lounge chairs, gliders and barbecue equipment are as necessary in furnishing a house as living room furniture.

Make-Believe Room

HAVING children to work and plan for is a joy and an inspiration. Keeping their rooms attractive by inexpensive changes can be a tax on the imagination rather than the pocketbook! Aside from the practical viewpoint of money and work involved there will be the special thrill of personality expressed within your own little Southland home! The supreme reward will be the ecstatic expression on the youngsters' faces as they find themselves transported to the wonderful land of "Make Believe."

A combination of ingenuity, scraps of wallpaper, a kettle of paste, and an animal picture cut from a magazine or a child's picture book will be the basic materials. Odds and ends of wallpaper stored in attic or garage or purchased at a store selling wallpaper remnants can be used. And an animal picture cut from a magazine or a child's picture book, will accomplish miracles.

A VERITABLE "Alice-In-Wonderland" room can be accomplished with less than two rolls of paper. If your little "Alice" has a bed without foot or headboards it will be ideal for a starter. Place it in a convenient and attractive place with the head of the bed against the wall; measure the exact width of the bed, then pull the bed out of the way and begin decorating. Paper of knotty pine design is nice for this idea. Paste it on the wall in the shape of a headboard. Scallop the top of it if you wish. From some flowered wallpaper cut out appliques of blossoms and leaves. Paste these on the wall as though they were growing and twining about the headboard. It will give it a gay and colorful finish.

Next, on the opposite wall, paste the knotty pine paper in a wainscoting style; have the top of each "board" cut rounding (or in points) to give it the effect of a picket fence. Cut out more flowers and foliage and paste them to represent a garden growing back of the wall with the flowers peeping over the fence. Cut out the picture of a bird or two in flight and paste them above the flowers, maybe an applique of a butterfly can hover in anticipation over one blossom. You can always find the birds and butterflies in magazines. Last, but not least in the eyes of your little girl, cut a jagged hole to represent a broken board at the foot of the picket fence. Paste pictures of grass stems and a tiny blossom or so on the wall exposed by the "broken board," then—half in and half out of the hole in the fence, paste your animal picture.

IF YOU HAVE a son—a prospective young cowboy, who is showing every intention of "out-Hopalonging" Cassidy!—a purely western room will make him happy.

The materials needed are approximately 20 feet of 1/2-inch Manila rope, two circular pieces of board for the size picture appropriate to your room. (If you are handy with a coping saw you can cut these disks from a pine board, otherwise, buy a couple of wooden cake boards at the dime store). You will need a box of staples, also from the dime store, the electrician's insulated staples will do; a wood-burning set, in lieu of this, an old-fashioned electric curling iron will do, or even an electric heated redhot over the kitchen gas jet and the tip bent to form a smooth running curve.

First: Using the hot iron, burn brands in the wood door facing all around the door. If you do not want to mar the wood permanently, a brown crayon, slightly warmed to make it adhere to the wood, will serve to make a "burned in" looking brand.

SECOND: When the border of brands has been completed, outline the door casing with a rope. Bind the end of the rope with piano wire or even twine to keep it from unraveling. Begin at the lower left hand corner of the outside edge of the door frame. Stretch the rope tightly as you go along, fit it neatly and snugly into the corner formed by the casing. Staple it in place as you fit it in. When you have finished you will have a complete frame around the doorway. The windows can be treated the same way if you like.

Third: With a brace and bit, bore holes around the edges of your disks. With the wire (or string) lace a length of the rope around the disk for a frame. Against the rustic board background, place a large cowboy picture decal, or glue on a picture cut from a magazine, and your "wild west" pictures are ready to hang up on the wall. One or two of your young Hoppy's guns will be an effective wall decoration, also.

NOW THAT the summer and early fall snapshooting season is just about at an end, where are all those nice pictures you took—on the week-end trip to a state park, at the family reunion picnic and on all those other occasions that were so much fun?

I'm not a crystal ball reader, but I can shut my eyes and see them now. The black-and-white and color snapshots are pretty widely scattered. Some of them are in various family wallets . . . others have been enclosed in letters and you don't have a print for yourself . . . there are prints in the envelopes just as they were received from the photofinisher. Some are in desk drawers, others have been used as book marks, in fact, they are scattered all over the house. The color slides are probably still in the boxes in which they were returned from processing. And these boxes aren't even all together.

The moral of all this is no doubt obvious—I'm leading up to saying that now is the time to gather these wonderful snapshots all together and put them in some semblance of order before they are lost or cracked or crumpled.

Of course, you should keep your snapshots in albums. What kind of album or albums is up to you. Some people like to have a number of small ones, each of which is devoted to a special subject or event while others prefer to have one large one and put all of their pictures in it in chronological order.

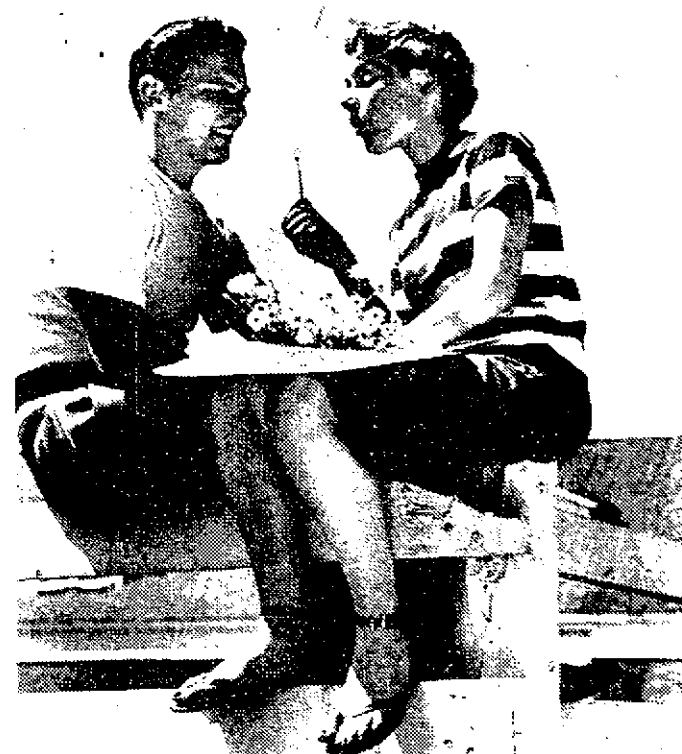

For greatest convenience and smoothness of your show when you project your slides, you should certainly organize them according to subject, location, or whatever element is the key to continuity. There are special file boxes made for exact fit and easy handling that are inexpensive and offer good protection for your special shots.

The purpose of today's column, as you see, was simply to remind you to find a good home for your snapshots so that you can enjoy them whenever you wish.

$5 Horse Makes Million

By Lewis Bellmore Sage

A DOWN-AT-HEEL man once approached a St. Louis horse trader named Dan Honig with an offer to sell his horse, sight unseen, for five dollars. Expecting only a plug, Honig bought the horse out of charity. In just a few years that horse made him a million dollars, and he retired with his fortune! Here's how.

When Honig and his son got the horse, they found a spirited, well-formed animal instead of the spavined creature they had been expecting. Honig was convinced that there was something wrong with the horse, but his son insisted that they give it the best of care and attention for a few days and see what developed. After a week, the horse looked better than ever; nothing had developed, and, if anything was wrong, it never did.

Honig and his son became curious about just what the horse could do. They entered him in a fair grounds race. They decided on the name "All-Black," and his chances of winning that first race were quoted at 100 to one. Nobody bet on him, except Honig and his son, who placed a few dollars on his chances. "All-Black" won his race by 20 lengths.

But the fair grounds horses were very slow travelers, and winning one race was no proof that "All-Black" was a great horse. Honig entered his $5 horse at the Guttenberg track, where the going was faster. The bettors knew nothing of "All-Black," and were not impressed. They offered 500-to-1 against him. Honig and his son had more confidence, and they placed about $100 in various small amounts. "All-Black" won, and the Honigs were $50,000 richer!

That started it. "All-Black" won 18 races. His earnings paid for more horses which Honig bought. With them he won more races, more money. Shortly after, Honig opened his own track, a course called Gloucester. He continued to prosper. In two years he had cleared a million dollars.

Then Honig retired. He took his cash and departed. He was a millionaire. He owed it all to the horse he bought for five dollars!

Out-of-Doors Living

Houghtons, 109 Via Alameda. The Houghtons' home is French Provincial and the greater part of their garden is enclosed by a high white wall. The patio is of flagstone, surrounded by Roman brick planters. Wrought-iron furniture and a bright green umbrella are installed there.

Vines climb the stucco walls—there is a yellow-flowering one called Guinea Gold, or Golden Hiberia. A white one is very attractive, and one of Mrs. Houghton's favorites is Cup of Gold, or Copa de Ora. It is flanked by star jasmine. At the end of the garden near the entrance gate is a primrose jasmine.

A San Diego red Bougainvillea grows there and, beneath a bedroom window, are tuberous begonias and camellias. Azaleas blossom profusely and at the end of one bed is a fern pine or Podocarpus. Above the wall is a Satschedera vine. An evergreen elm and a Koeleria Paniculata add to the effect of secluded peace with their soft green branches.

THE EARL BENSONS at 4213 Flathaven Road have a very different garden from the Houghtons, but exactly the sort which suits their home and their taste. Gardens are like people and houses and immediately resemble their owners. Benson comes from a large family, and so, in building his patio, he planned on being able to entertain on a large scale at one time in this spot. He built a large brick barbecue and a sink next to it, handy for the women of the family for cleaning up after picnics. His long table will seat more than a dozen persons.

The Walter Mengs on Hackamoor Road in Rolling Hills wanted a barbecue and recreation room combination, so Meng built an addition to his garage and installed his barbecue at one end of the room. It has a real spit and to augment the barbecue there is a gas unit for cooking such foods as French fries.

"We have a special set of dishes for out here," Mrs. Meng pointed out, "so that we don't have to be carrying things continually from the house."

The dishes are a gay pottery set and go perfectly with the red curtains edged with green and yellow. Cream-colored cabinets have red knobs and the redwood table and benches are of the trellis type. They are on wheels and thus easily moved outside. Indirect lighting gives a soft effect and the Mengs call this room La Casa Nita.

Meng did all the construction of his barbecue room himself. The exterior is of brick and redwood, and there is a view of the rolling hills, the canyon, and the distant view ranges from Santa Monica to Long Beach.

IT IS NATURAL that in such a country, women's clubs sponsor such projects as home-and-garden tours. These usually are held in the springtime, but this year the Palos Verdes Women's Club has decided to change to an autumn tour. The week end of Oct. 25 and 26 has been set for the affair. The homes and gardens open to the public at that time will be those of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Robbins, Rincon Lane; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Starkweather, 133 Palos Verdes Dr. W.; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Higgins, 520 Pasco Delmar; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Steinko, 401 Via Media, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Armstrong, 812 Via Conejo—all in Palos Verdes Estates.

Fireside boxes had many uses in the early American home. The tall one illustrated at the left held extra pipes for visitors and paper napkins used for matches. The candle box will hold a carton of cigarettes and a box of kitchen matches just fits the other one. Pattern 363 gives authentic sizes and tracing diagrams for those who wish to make these boxes. # Sunday Breakfast Coffee Cake Cheese spoonbread, ladled from the casserole, topped with butter and syrup, is a Sunday breakfast treat.

By Mildred K. Flanary

WHEN SUNDAY rolls around, then it is time for a leisurely breakfast after the too-frequent, catch-as-catch-can, work-day meals. It's a pity indeed that more planning and a little more time isn't given every day to this important first meal of the daily three.

But Sunday is the morning when it's fun to slip tall glasses of fruit juice over the "fannies" at the Latham Brightman home, 199 Prospect Ave., with the tantalizing fragrance of Helen Brightman's coffee cake coming from the kitchen.

Complementing the coffee cake you'd probably be served scrambled eggs, baked sausages, with milk for those young misses, and piping hot coffee for the grown-ups.

Mrs. Brightman has an unique idea for scrambling the eggs, too. She breaks about half a dozen eggs in a bowl, adds salt and pepper to taste, some seasoning salt and about an egg-shell of half-and-half. She places these ingredients in a pan in which has been placed a bit of butter, then she whips the eggs till they're light and fluffy. She cooks them slowly, being sure to remove them when just done and not too dry. Her recipe for coffee cake will be found elsewhere on this page, boxed and convenient for clipping.

Another favorite breakfast menu consists of cheese spoonbread, scrambled eggs with butter, browned rounds of Canadian bacon, apricot halves with a spoonful of currant jelly in their middles and popped under the broiler for a few minutes and a hot beverage.

Cheese spoonbread is a sort of soufflé, temperamental only if you do not follow directions—and if it can't be eaten the minute it comes from the oven. Allowed to linger, it collapses.

But it's worth the fuss, and don't stop with Sunday morning breakfast. It will add "oomph" to a fried chicken dinner that will surprise you—as well as to many an otherwise prosy dinner. Here's the recipe:

Cheese Spoonbread
2 cups milk
1 cup corn meal
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter
4 egg yolks
4 egg whites
1½ cups shredded American cheddar cheese, natural or process

Heat milk in double boiler. When steaming hot, slowly add the corn meal (white or yellow—it doesn't matter for results,

Mrs. Brightman's Coffee Cake:

1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
Pinch salt
Mix flour, sugar, spices together. Chop in shortening as in pie pastry. Take out one cup of crumbs.
To the rest add milk in which egg has been thoroughly beaten. Put in greased or oiled pan part of the crumb mixture. Then add batter and top with balance of crumbs. Bake 40 minutes in 350° oven. Let cool in pan.

though we like the color results from the yellow meal). Stir constantly until the mixture is thickened and smooth.

Remove from over the hot water. Add salt, butter, cheese and beaten egg yolks and quickly mix well. (No, there isn't any flour in this bread.) The use of a good nippy cheddar cheese adds flavor.

Beat the egg whites (room temperature) until they will hold a peak. Carefully fold into the cornmeal mixture. Pour mixture into a well-buttered 2-quart casserole and bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) for 35 to 40 minutes. Serve immediately, spooning a serving onto each plate (a berry spoon is fine for this). To eat, top with plenty of butter. Good too with honey or maple syrup. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Warm Honey Butter
Heat together over hot water ½ butter and ½ honey. When butter is melted, mix well. Use to serve over spoonbread, pancakes, waffles or French toast.
Proteins and breakfast go hand-in-hand, too—and there's no better protein food than cheese. It's a grand pepper-upper, also, for many breakfast

Kitchen Tip:

Mrs. Latham Brightman's kitchen tip . . . To have breakfast sausage done just right, place in iron skillet in bottom of oven and bake 20 minutes at 400 degrees. Turn a couple of times.

Desert Glass

By Ruth Reece

HERE is the story of purple glass, or amethystine, as it is also called, a material as beautiful as it is unique.

Goldfield, Nevada, was the center of a gold rush around the turn of the century, and food for the miners had to be shipped to them across the broiling desert in cans and bottles. The miners would fling the empty, worthless bottles onto the hot Nevada sand, and there they remained, their usefulness over, apparently.

But not so; for here the hot rays of the gleaming sun changed the story completely.

For the glass bottles caught the sunbeams and imprisoned them, and after lying unnoticed for many years, beaten by the elements, the bottles, made of nothing more than common glass, had acquired a royal purple and were beautiful.

Travelers began to notice these thousands of bottles, thrown away by the miners, and how colorful they were. Only in the desert regions where the sun shines daily with extreme brilliance can this purple glass be found, and because it cannot be created by any known artificial method, it is becoming rarer and more valuable every day.

Mrs. Roy Harmon Wolfers of 3635 Elm Ave. is the proud possessor of an amethystine lamp which was found by an old prospector near a deserted cabin, located at an altitude of 9000 feet on the slope of 11,000-ft. Mt. Rose, in Inyo County. How long the lamp had lain there, forgotten and unwanted, no one knows. It was presented to Mrs. Wolfers by a friend at Stove Pipe Wells in Death Valley while she was vacationing there last year. Mrs. Wolfers had it wired for electricity, added a shade, and uses it as a reading lamp.

Mrs. Wolfers has noticed that the purple hue never fades but instead, becomes deeper and more beautiful as time goes on. Collectors of this purple glass have originated many uses for it, both decorative and practical. The old bottles have been cut down, the edges rounded and polished, to make lovely goblets. Clever salt and pepper shakers have been made from the necks of the bottles, with silver bases added.

Today diligent search is required to find these amethystine bottles, according to Mrs. Wolfers. Best places are around the ruins of old homes of miners and homesteaders, or where the early communities formerly disposed of their old bottles, tin cans and other unwanted articles.

LAWN renovating time is here. And this is a good time to sow new lawns. The weather is cool, and we are past the summer danger season for weed infestation.

To encourage grass seed to germinate faster, spread a top dressing of Red Star Steer Manure, one sack per 200 square feet of lawn. This furnishes humus, light feedings and conserves moisture by preventing soil from crusting.

Do this for new Dichondra lawns, too. And feed established dichondra lawns Red Star Dichondra-Gro.

Plant Now for Greener Lawns

By Beverly Taylor

If grass is heavy, use a catcher when mowing; otherwise clippings will shut off sunlight and cause mold.

GROWING conditions are now excellent for starting a new lawn, re-seeding an old one or just patching up small areas that have become worn. Turf experts will tell you that October in particular and the fall months in general are better for grass culture than any other time of the year. The knowledge of why this is so should help you care for your lawn not only now but also when the growing gets tougher.

The comparatively cool temperatures prevailing during the fall months are more congenial to grass plants than summer heat or winter cold. Kentucky blue grass which is the dominant variety in all top quality grass seed mixtures thrives in fall. It also does well in spring but the young seedlings take time to become established and usually are not ready for summer heat. From all viewpoints, the fall planting season offers advantages for grasses that simply do not exist during other months of the year.

For the record it must be said that Bermuda grass is a notable exception. This variety tends to go dormant as soon as cool weather approaches; the seed will not germinate when the temperature drops and established plants stop growing and turn an ugly gray. In Southern California, however, Bermuda grass is more of a pest than an ornamental, a fact that accounts for it being called devil grass by the local gardening citizenry.

Grass growth is naturally encouraged by rainfall and you can expect a fair amount of this during the next few months. Lawns certainly seem to look greener after a heavy rain than after a regular watering and this type of moisture application certainly saves wear and tear on your pocketbook. Further, it takes the pressure off the average gardener who always has plenty of excuses for not watering his lawn.

AMATEUR gardeners are often unable to understand the difficulty in starting new lawns in hot weather. They argue, and within certain limits they are right, that plants grow more rapidly as the weather warms up. They also point out that heat is one of the most important factors concerned with plant growth, all of which is true. Then why, they ask, should the fall of the year be better for sowing grass seeds than summer.

Actually, it is true that warmth aids materially in producing rapid germination. But the damage occurs after germination when starting summer lawns. After the seed germinates, its tiny roots must have constant moisture. The seedling from top to bottom is like a thin little hair. It has practically no resistance to heat. That is why the soil surface must be kept damp at all times. But this is a difficult problem when the temperature hovers above 90; as soon as the surface dries out it also heats up—and the tiny grass seedling is cooked alive.

COMPETITION from weeds is also at a comparative minimum during the next few months. Most of our more common weeds start their aggressive activity during the spring months and really get a stranglehold in summer. That is when they make the deepest inroads on our garden plants. But now they are tending to become dormant, a condition that certainly encourages easier growing for grass seedlings.

If you have an average lawn, chances are it will require a certain amount of renovation this fall. For a complete job it would be best to have a commercial gardener handle the job as special equipment is needed. But small plots can easily be handled by any enthusiastic gardener.

Where Bermuda grass has taken over in small areas you may be satisfied to do just a makeshift operation. At least this will keep the area green during that time of the year when Bermuda becomes dormant. Cut the lawn as short as possible. Then sow rye grass over this area. Cover with about one inch of steer or American peat and water lightly but regularly enough to keep the surface moist until the seedlings are established. This is a quick but effective treatment.

Autumn Claims the Garden Scene

IT'S FALL — and time to think about spring flowers!

What amateur gardener doesn't look longingly at his neighbors' crocuses, daffodils and hyacinths in the spring, and vow to raise them himself the next year?

They should be planted in the fall.

Daffodils, tulips, freesias and ranunculus should be planted in October, say those who should know; hyacinths, snowdrops and crocuses in November; lilies-of-the-valley in December.

Thanks to research of bulb experts and the Southern California climate, continuous blooms are possible through the long spring season, which means from late winter to early summer. And the annual floral pageant makes one feel like Luther Burbank, the second!

First on the bill: Snowdrops. These wee heralds of spring show up each year ahead of other flowers and satisfy a yearning for winter's end. For best results, gardeners say it is a good idea to plant them near fences or other places where they are not likely to be disturbed and thus can thrive for several seasons.

Clumps of Dutch crocuses, either in gay yellow or in shades from pure white to deep Bishop's purple, are perfect for rock gardens and for brightening other gardens.

Next to come in on cue in the spring are tulips, hyacinths and daffodils. Small tulips bloom before the larger varieties.

Don't forget hyacinths, because their rich scent perfumes

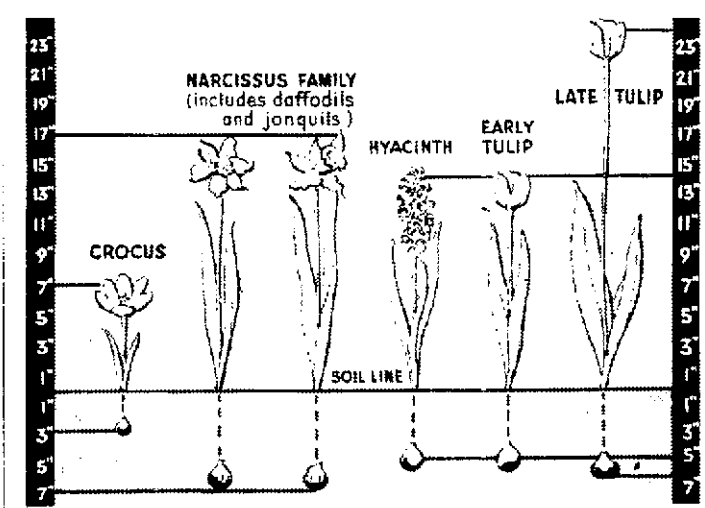

Fall planting will bring spring tulips to your garden. Use different varieties and have two months of blooms.

the entire garden. Blooming during the cool days of April, hyacinths often last several weeks.

HOLLAND'S bulb growers, with 300 years of experience, pass on these rules for bulb flower gardening:

1. Remove topsoil to a depth of about six inches for tulips, daffodils and hyacinths. Three inches is enough for minor bulbs such as snowdrops, crocus, grape hyacinth. Four inches is right for species tulips and scilla.
2. Insert bulbs in their respective beds with pointed ends up. Press the base of each bulb firmly against the bottom of the hole in which it rests. Plant tulips and daffodils at least six inches apart to allow for spread of foliage.
3. Push the soil back over each bulb until the last one is covered, then smooth off the bed and your planting is done.
4. If you're really ambitious you can cover the soil with a layer of mulch or leaves or straw, just after the surface is frozen, removing this in the early spring.
5. Sit back, relax and wait for spring to arrive, with the pleasure of seeing your handiwork blooming—your own private flower show!

Dutch bulbs planted this fall will give you a varied spring flower show. Let chart help you in planting.

spring. At least some rainfall may be expected; it may be heavy or it may be light. But some from the skies is a definite assurance. Natural rainfall tends to cool the surface, satisfy the thirst of plants and perhaps save you a little money and also some time. Dame Nature is thus on your side, rather than against you.

Planting bulbs is of course synonymous with the fall planting season. It is looked forward to with perhaps greater eagerness than any other comparable gardening routine. This is possibly due to the fact that some of the bulbs... notably tulips and hyacinths... are imported from Holland with a certain amount of romance attached to their background.

FALL IS AN excellent time for sowing lawn grass seed. This is true for starting a new lawn, re-seeding an old one or just filling in patches that have turned bare. For general re-seeding you should match the blend of grasses with your original lawn. If a new lawn is contemplated be sure to obtain seed of one of the better grade mixtures.

There are 18 separate varieties of vegetables that will grow successfully in Southern California during the fall and winter season. A few of the better known among them are beets, carrots, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, lettuce, onions, radishes, spinach and peas.

Planting winter annuals at this time is another gardening practice relatively restricted to the Southland. One of the most exciting varieties is the winter flowering strain of sweet pea. It is interesting to note that more sweet peas are grown in the fall in Southern California than for all the rest of the year. But you must plant the winter or early flowering strain. Otherwise, your plants will make vegetative growth but flowers will not appear until the weather warms up next spring.

OTHER POSSIBILITIES among the winter flowering annuals include pansies, snapdragons, stocks, primulas, larkspur, verbenas, African

Looking Ahead to Spring Blooms

By Beverly Taylor

Ranunculus rank among the earliest bulbous subjects to blossom in spring; they want sun, lots of water.

In Oak Glenn It's Apple Time

By Vera Williams

CALIFORNIANS and California visitors are more inclined to think of oranges than of apples in connection with this state.

But they don't know Oak Glen and its annual apple harvest which lasts from September through December, and right now is at its October peak.

Oak Glen, one mile high, with 400 acres of orchards on the winding highways out of Beaumont and Yucaipa, provides one of the most beautiful fall scenic displays of Southern California—scarlet and gold autumn leaves, brilliant flowers, giant pines, big spreading live oaks, the backdrop of San Geronimo's tallest peaks... and apples!

These apples—mellow, crisp, tangy, sweet, diversified enough to please the most exact apple gourmet, run the gamut of Rome Beauty, Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, Pearmain, Winesap, Stamen Winesap and Arkansas Black.

Delighted apple-fanciers may buy tree-fresh apples at the orchards. And at the orchards, the towns and at roadside stands they may drink fresh pure cider just pressed from the Oak Glen apples. Farmer-to-consumer prices are offered.

In addition visitors, whether they be individuals or families or large groups, are invited to picnic in the shade of giant oaks or beside rushing mountain streams. And the air is fresh and clear and sparkling—not a hint of smog.

APPLE EXPERTS say that the Oak Glen 1952 harvest will be a bumper crop, approximately as good as last year, which means 150,000 boxes (roughly, a box is a bushel). In addition, Oak Glen cider production has been stepped up, with something like 20,000 gallons expected to be sold at the orchards.

Last year 25,000 cars brought persons to the apple festival, and these visitors bought 38 per cent of the crop at the groves.

The preliminary east coast survey of the National Apple Week of Washington, D. C., indicates a drop in eastern and northern production, which will focus attention on California apples.

Oak Glen produces more than

ANEMONE and ranunculus corms often bewilder the amateur gardener. They are small, dried out, shriveled up, appearing almost lifeless. Yet the corms of these popular spring-flowering plants will produce some of the most beautiful tones in the plant kingdom.

Ranunculus and anemones are often referred to as the "twin flowers," the reason being that they look alike, grow alike and perform as well indoors as cut flowers as they do in the outdoor garden. They are among the first flowers grown from bulbs or corms that bloom in the spring. For a succession of flowers you should plant at intervals of every few weeks. The blooming period starts about 10 weeks after planting the corms. Seed is also available but is not recommended for amateur growers.

It is advisable to soak the corms before planting. This treatment causes them to swell up to several times their regular size and also encourages more rapid sprouting. Placing the corms in water for a period of not more than perhaps two or three hours will suffice; prolonged submersion may damage the corms.

Anemone corms are cone-shaped and should be planted with the tips pointing downwards, the flat end being on top. Ranunculus corms should be started with the tiny claws pointing downwards. Set them from two to three inches deep, depending on their size as well as the texture of the soil. Large corms and light soils require the deepest planting. Allow about six inches between plants.

Both ranunculus and anemones require lots of water throughout the growing season. Natural rainfall will not be sufficient to keep the plants from going thirsty. It is best to irrigate ranunculus and anemones by building small catch basins for water around each plant. Or an irrigation ditch of small size may be erected, running parallel to the plant rows. This encourages deep saturation and gets the moisture down to the roots. Surface sprinkling is a mistake at all times but especially so with both ranunculus and anemones.

BOTH the Giant French and St. Brigid strains of anemones will be available this fall. The Giant French include separate shades of blue, red and white. The St. Brigid anemones are sold only in mixture, containing both double and semi-doubles. The color range includes shades of white, rose, red, lavender and blue.

Ranunculus corms are usually sold in mixtures containing the following shades: Red, orange, pink, gold and white. Separate shades can be obtained but at a slightly higher price. The better, and perhaps more expensive, strains are almost 100 per cent double.

You are assured of success with both ranunculus and anemones. Practically all of the corms sold annually in the United States are grown in Southern California... many millions of them. This area is the best producing region and consequently the plants will grow just as successfully in your garden as for the bulb growers.

New soil conditioners—several brands—are available to help the home gardener make problem soil friable.

News in Garden Circles

By Walter Finch

MANY new gardening products and practices are relatively unknown, due largely to a lack of adequate publicity. Garden supply dealers, unfortunately, are often too busy to display new merchandise properly. So here is your opportunity to take a quick look at what's new in gardening circles.

Coated dichondra seed is a relative newcomer to the garden trade in Southern California. As a matter of fact, dichondra itself has attained prominence in this area only during the past few years. The seed is coated with a product known as montmorillonite which offers several definite factors to both amateur and professional gardener alike.

In the first place... and this is true of all coated seeds... the coating makes the seed larger and consequently easier to handle. The coating tends to act as a fungicide which brings about a more even stand. The coating acts as a wick in dry soils, drawing moisture to the seed; in overly damp soils the coating may hinder rotting. The coating on dichondra seed is green and the seed is first treated to more readily absorb moisture, thus bringing about faster germination.

For years, dozens... possibly hundreds... of enthusiastic amateur gardeners have complained that it is impossible to grow top quality tulips in Southern California. But they have been wrong; it can be done. The secret consists of planting the bulbs late, after the soil has turned cold. Tulips must have a cool starting soil. In addition, you must get the bulbs down deep. Practice these fundamentals and you will have prize-winning tulips in your garden next spring.

Weed control is no longer a gardening chore. New, highly effective weedicides make it possible to combat weeds easily and at low cost. The back-breaking part of getting rid of weeds no longer exists. Lawn weeds, especially crab grass, can now be treated with a specific type of weed control... the weeds are killed, the grass is not. In addition, you can keep Bermuda and other pest-like forms of vegetation out of your parking lot; you can actually sterilize the soil where so desired.

How and when to water is a problem that for years has puzzled Southland gardeners. The next time you visit your neighborhood nursery, examine the various type of watering equipment. A canvas hose allows the water to drop softly on the soil, thus being a splendid device for lawn watering during windy days. The spray is not blown onto your neighbor's property. Some sprinklers will throw the water out in a square pattern; others can be regulated to water from five feet to 30 or 40 feet.

The new soil conditioners are almost revolutionary. Practically overnight, they will turn a difficult, hard-to-work adobe or lay soil into a friable loam. But they are of little value, actually no value, in improving the texture of sandy soils.

POWER lawn mowers are now coming into their own. The demand for this type of equipment is surprising even the manufacturers. A power lawn mower allows you to mow your lawn in a fraction of the time it formerly took; and with practically no effort on your part. It thus frees your time for other and more interesting gardening adventures.

The secret of successful tulip growing in Long Beach is deep planting. Get bulbs down five or six inches.

Oak Glen's apple harvest yearly draws many Long Beach folk for a sip of cider and a supply of apples.

50 per cent of all apples grown in Southern California. Best of all, Oak Glen is easily accessible by car—74 miles from Long Beach, 82 miles from Los Angeles, 66 miles from Santa Ana, 28 miles from San Bernardino, 32 miles from Riverside, 10 miles from Beaumont.

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING tips for the week... Some of the lesser known bulbs will produce a lot of color in your garden. A few that are recommended for this area include: leucocoryne, sparaxis, tritonia, lycoris, sprekelia, habania, snowdrops and pink and black callas.

Certain hedge plants, if trimmed now, will not require cutting until next spring. Those falling in this class include: Eugenia, privet, cypress, myrtle. This is also a good time to remove the seed pods from flowering eucalyptus.

California native shrubs may be started from seed now. The fall rains will prove helpful in getting them started. Being natives of this area they will thrive with very little help from the caretaker.

Basin of Amazon Land of Wonders

THE AMAZING AMAZON. by Willard Price. 206 pp. New York: The John Day Co. $4.

By Lew Allison

IF THE AMERICAN colonists in the early 19th Century had possessed bulldozers, airplanes and the other tools of modern civilization, their history might have paralleled the development of a vast area of South America, going on today. But Amazonia—that great sprawling basin of the mightiest of all rivers, where nature goes all out—is possessed of even more resources, still virtually untouched, than the United States ever had.

HAROLD T. GLENN

L. B. Teacher Writes Book

"EXPLORING AUTO-MECHANICS," a new and modern guide to auto-mechanics, has been written by Harold T. Glenn, industrial arts instructor in the Long Beach Public Schools, and published by Charles A. Bennett ($3.97). Glenn's book provides full coverage of all types of cars from late prewar to 1952 models, including power-steering, dual range automatic drive, and the new "power-dome" engine. It contains a complete set of teaching tools covering the five major areas of automotive training: driver education, consumer education, engines, electrics, and chassis.

The author imposes upon each student for some part of the classwork by first learning his part thoroughly and then supervising the work of other members of the class, as well as being responsible for keeping the equipment in condition. Such interaction between students, it is pointed out, provides an opportunity for social adjustment not easily accomplished in other types of classroom organization.

Books for the Children

A GARDEN WE PLANTED TOGETHER. Prepared by the U. S. Department of the Interior. New York: McGraw-Hill Book Co. $2.

A BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED, simple story of how children decide to plant a garden. When trouble arises, the children gather and settle it. Then the comparison is continued to show how the nations of the world are trying to work out their problems. Children of any age should enjoy and profit from this clear explanation of what must be to them a confused issue.—E. G.

New at the Library

NEW APPEALS to the literary palate arrived at the Long Beach Public Library last week in "The Complete American-Jewish Cook Book," by Anne London; "Coast to Coast Cookery," edited by Marlan Tracy and "Vegetable Cookery," by Florence La Ganche Harris.

New fiction: "Imagination Unlimited," edited by Everett F. Bleiler; "Helen Templeton's Daughter," by Louise (Eskridge) Crump; "The Pilgrim Soul," by Anne Miller Downes, and "Ghost Gun," by Tom West.

Literature: "How to Talk with People," by Irving J. Lee; "The Seventeen Reader," by Bryna Ivens; "Rebirth," by Lin Price; "State Flower and State Birds," by Robert S. Walker.

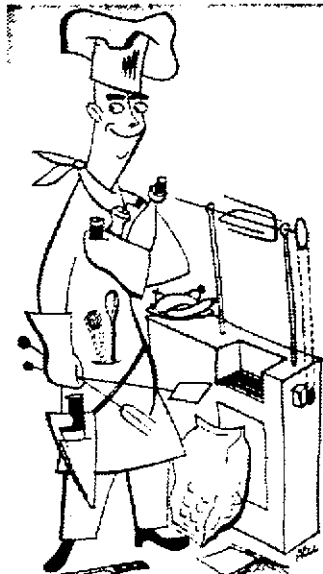

Travel and history: "The Shoals of Capricorn," by F. D. Ommanney; "Satan's Paradise," by Agnes M. Cleveland; "The Western Gate," by Joseph H. Jackson.

Biography: "The Big Top," by Fred Bradna; "Sam Clemens of Hannibal," by Dixon Weeter; "Her Royal Highness the Princess Margaret 21st Birthday Album," compiled by Gwen Robyns.

Fine arts: "Potter's Portfolio," by Bernard Leach; "Figure Indication," by Harry Dreve Schorr.

Science and useful arts: "Hammond's Nature Atlas of America," by Hammond; "Field Guide to Mammals," by W. H. Burt; "Oars, Sails and Steam," by Edwin Tunis; "The Economics of Poultry Management," by Harold E. Botsford; "Elements of Clothing Construction," by Jessie Lambert Fielding and "How to Make Objects of Wood," by K. T. Bassett.

Public affairs: "The American Record in the Far East, 1945-1951," by Kenneth Scott Latourette; "The United States and International Organizations," edited by Robert E. Summers; "The Cry is Peace," by Louis Budenz.

"At home on the range" might be caption for this illustration from the new cook book for men, "Trader Vic's Kitchen Kibitzer." See review below.

Cook Books Still Rolling

AMERICA'S COOK BOOK, compiled by The Herald Tribune Home Institute, 1154 pp. New York: Scribner, $7.95. HELEN BROWN'S HOLIDAY COOK BOOK, 240 pp. Boston: Little, Brown, $2.

TRADER VIC'S KITCHEN KIBBITZER: The Cook Book for Men, by Victor J. Kibitzer, 222 pp. Garden City: D. Van Nostrand, $2.50. A BOOK OF MEDITERRANEAN FOOD, by Elizabeth David, 191 pp. New York: Horizon Press, $2.50. BE YOUR OWN GUEST: One-Week-Cooking, by Hal Muhlstein, 175 pp. Boston: Houghton Mifflin, $2.50. THE ART OF MAKING ITALIAN DESSERTS, by Maria La Dama, 222 pp. Garden City: D. Van Nostrand, $2.50.

AND STILL they roll off the presses, cook books with recipes for every appetite, for every occasion.

The Herald Tribune has completely revised the popular "America's Cook Book" to make it one of the most complete and up-to-date on the market. It contains 3500 recipes and much new material, including everything needed to know about home freezing of foods, and is replete with charts, hints and photos.

"Holiday" is Helen Brown's seventh cook book and in it the Pasadena author records 34 commonly-observed holidays, offers seasonal but "different" recipes to make each a gala occasion. Her last previous work is the popular "Helen Brown's West Coast Cook Book."

"Trader Vic's Kitchen Kibitzer" is a man's cook book (and for the women who want to make a hit with men). In robust language the author gives males the lowdown on cooking, from a backyard barbecue to advice for kibitzers. And he even offers some of his favorite beverage recipes.

In her "Book of Mediterranean Food," Miss David includes a large collection of recipes made while she traveled in Egypt, Corsica, the Greek Islands, Italy and France. All ingredients are easily obtainable. Some are very ordinary, indeed, but cooks will find they are treated in some unusual ways.

The theme of "Be Your Own Guest" is that of doing an entire week's cooking in a single day, thus leaving the remaining six days for entertaining or work. All of which should appeal to many busy Long Beach women.

People who have visited Italy will say that meals served in the quaint restaurants there are divine. "The Art of Making Italian Desserts" lists 250 recipes, not only for some of the most wonderful desserts popular with Italians, but also such taste provokers as Italian candies, confections, liquors and the like. A book that will make a reader hungry.

Chicago at Turn of Century

CHICAGO, MEDIUM RARE, by Robert Casey. 192 pp. Indianapolis: Bobbs-Merrill Co. $3.50.

By James Phelan

CITIES are like women; you can pass a hundred of them and never turn your head and then a certain one comes along and you're a gone guy. For some men it's New York, or San Francisco, or New Orleans, and I once knew a fellow who was moon-struck over Potosi, Mo. But Bob Casey—and a lot of other good men—lost his heart to the bold hussy on the shores of Lake Michigan.

There are some who say she isn't the gal she used to be, that the slums are eating the heart out of the city, that she is all paint and perfume and facade. Her swains will answer that critics have been writing her off as all washed up for a hundred years, but that argument is irrelevant. Casey's book is about Chicago at the turn of the century, when she was a lusty wench who had a bounce in her walk—and no arthritis.

Here are a swatch of fantastic characters to whom Chicago—no! Gotham—is the No. 1 city. There is Heine Gebauer, who parlayed the technique of the inquisition into a fabulously popular saloon; old Cap Streeter, who set up his own nation in the heart of Chicago; Bathhouse John Coughlin, machine-politician and part-time poet; and scores of others.

And there is a whole way of life, before the subway supplanted the horse car and the television aerial muscled aside the gas lamp. Casey loved it all and recounts it like the good story-teller he is. Read it and dream.

A Volume of Beauty

By Joseph Joel Keith

RANDOM HOUSE has published a volume of such exquisite beauty, size, variety and high quality that is sure to be treasured by the most discriminating lovers of rare volumes, and especially by the Christmas shoppers who are looking for something that is different and that will certainly brighten the eyes and widen the mind. Every host's visitor is bound to be a prospective purchaser.

"FLAIR," Annual 1953, contains many high lights; lack of space permits only a mention of a few. These are a reproduction of "The Tower of Babel," rediscovered five years ago in the sale of a 19th Century Brooklyn art collection; "Rilke in Translation," a fine contribution to the wide study today; "The Flower of Flowers," by Katherine Anne Porter; "Flair Visits in California," that will interest Southlanders; "New York: The City," by Saul Steinberg; "The Human Geography of Chile," by Gabriela Mistral, the simple, amazing Nobel Prize winner whom I once introduced to an international P.E.N. Club audience, and whose poems I read, as Senorita Mistral did not at the Warm coloring characterizes this imaginative study titled "Strelitzias," by Harold V. (Cy) Young. Painting is in fall showing of Long Beach Spectrum Club, at 225 E. Third St.

Unusual Books

WOMEN, a much discussed subject whenever men gather, is the theme of 33 razor-edged short stories and articles in "The Girls from Esquire" (Random House, $3.95). These pieces originally were published in Esquire, a magazine for men, and among authors represented are John Steinbeck, James Jones, John Dos Passos, F. Scott Fitzgerald and Elliott Paul. Complementing the text are 30 full-page, eye-catching cartoons which have helped no little to sharpen past issues of Esquire.

ANOTHER wonderful anthology is "The Best Short Stories of 1952" (Houghton Mifflin, $1). Martha Foley again is editor of this annual publication and, as in the past, she has gleaned some rich prizes from a memorable harvest of short fiction, largely from magazines of limited circulation. Among better-known authors are William Saroyan, Wallace Stegner, Mark Van Doren, Hilary Hamamoto and Marjorie Gellhorn, though many of the 30 pieces come from new talent.

ONE OF THE few books to be written about modern China, from the viewpoint of the wealthy class is "Daughter of Confucius" by Wong Su-Ling and Earl Herbert Cressy (Farrar, $3.75). The account is a true one and the Chinese names have been changed for various reasons, chief among them being that "Wong Su-Ling" is now a resident of the United States. But her birth and life in the cloister of the Chinese class family is a true picture of the past period. The story of Su-Ling's schooling and romance during the Japanese occupation is as exciting as fiction.

WALTER WINCHELL is also discussed in "The Public Life of Walter Winchell," and while this piece strikes the lowest level in the volume, it has its good points too. Not for those who find Winchell the country's most successful and raucous bore.

PLEUR COWLES, a lady of rich taste, says in the Editor's Note that she may make the annual a yearly publishing effort. It deserves a very wide success, for it should be a proud possession in every citizen's home.

FRANZ KAFKA, one of the world's brilliant minds, became famous after death, and Philip Rahv has written a most illuminating introduction to this latest Modern Library book, "Selected Short Stories of Franz Kafka." Original, exciting, controlled are these tales—some are sure to endure. At only $1.25, it is a Random House bargain of bargains.

Poetry Day to Be Noted

By Mary Alden Campbell

WITH a special program and manuscript exhibit in the Municipal Art Center on Wednesday, the poetry section of the Long Beach Writers' Club is bringing Long Beach, for the first time, into line with the Poetry Day movement which is sweeping the United States.

The special meeting will be held from 1 to 3:30 p. m. There will be a threefold exhibit of members' poems and music will be original compositions by members of the poetry group. Speakers will be Will Strong, San Gabriel, vice chairman of the National Poetry Day committee; Rexford Sharp, Los Angeles, editor of The American Bard; Mrs. Sharp, associate editor; and Mrs. Vesta Lukel, Redlands, Southland poet and poetry teacher.

Starting in Ohio in 1938 the Poetry Day movement was to dedicate one day a year to poets and poetry; other states followed Ohio's lead until 1950 when 30 states and Alaska were observing such a day. In that year the United States Senate established Oct. 15 as the official date and by 1951 45 of the 48 states were participating.

The work is supervised by a national committee, seven regional directors and a chairman from each member state. Its purpose is "to stimulate interest in poetry through the schools, clubs, churches, libraries, press and radio in the belief that through its inspiration it can lead the way to man's peace of mind and world harmony."

Lecture Series Will Open Oct. 21

By Lilian Haislip

ARE YOU CURIOUS about modern developments in all the arts? Are you intrigued by the modern trends in painting, in architecture, in industrial design and in advertising illustrations? The Art Center will attempt to throw a little light on the subject in a free series of four lectures supplemented by four optional workshop sessions as an introduction to contemporary art.

Discussions will cover leading ideas in contemporary painting, photography, sculpture and mobile design. The workshops will include experimentation with materials and processes in collage, painting, sculpture and mobile design. The course is intended for those who have no background of special art skills.

Schedule for the series to be given on Tuesday afternoons from 2 to 4 p. m., with one exception, beginning Oct. 21, under the direction of Samuel W. Heavenrich, municipal art director, assisted by Robert Clark, follows:

Oct. 21, "Trends in Painting"; Oct. 28, workshop, collage; Nov. 6 (Thursday), "Color and Composition"; Nov. 13, workshop, modern painting; Nov. 18, "Trends in Sculpture"; Nov. 25, workshop, hard sculpture; Dec. 2, "Mobile Design" and Dec. 9, workshop, mobile design.

"QUAINT and amusing" are the terms one observer used to describe the one-man show of Al Kramer, of Beverly Hills, nationally known cover design artist, at the Lafayette Hotel gallery. Kramer is best known for his primitives with gay '30s subjects predominating. His scenes are quaint and colorful. The artist is a member of the California Water Color Society.

THE WALTER GROPIUS architecture exhibit, which opened Sept. 21, at the Art Center, will be shown through Oct. 20. It has been said that Gropius, along with Le Corbusier in France and Mies van der Rohe in Germany, created in international style of contemporary architecture which has spread over the world, so that a modern building looks much the same in Scandinavia, Brazil or Japan.

Record Album

Wyman, Bing Sing

JANE WYMAN and BING CROSBY merge their considerable vocal talents in a new Decca album, "Just for You," featuring songs from their new movie musical of the same name.

Jane's acting has obscured the fact that she first made a name for herself as a singer of hot jazz, blues and swing, but this album shows she has lost none of her technique. Bing, of course, is his usual suave, relaxed self.

Jane's best solo number is the provocative "Checkin' My Heart" and she also does well with Bing in the duet, "Zing a Little Zong." Bing's songs run from the ballad, "Just for You," to the novelties, "On the 10:10 from Ten-Tennessee" and "I'll Sisi Ya in Bahia," the latter with the Andrews Sisters.

Russ Morgan and his orchestra offer music for dancing in another new Decca album, "Everybody Dance." The program comprises three fox trots, two waltzes, a rumba, a samba and a tango, all in the silky "Morgan manner."

On the singles, Ralph Flanagan and his orchestra do a fine job on the rhythmic instrumental, "Tippin' In," backed by the ballad, "I Should Care" (Victory). . . . Ziggy Elman's trumpet is featured with the George Gates orchestra on "Babalu" while on the flip-over Gates provides a musical background for Marvin Wright's piano on "Carmen's Boogie," a boogie-woogie version of the tenebrous song from "Carmen" (Coral). Pianist Jan August joins Jerry Munard's Harmoniconics for a pleasant arrangement of "Wish You Were Here," backed by "Meet Mister Callaghan" (Mercury). . . . Two more arrangements of "The Girls Are Marching," a song for our women soldiers, have appeared. One by Mercury features Vic Damone, now a soldier himself, with "Come Hell or High Water on the reverse side. The other, on Decca, is by Sy Oliver, with "Slick Chick" on the other side.

POETRY AND DRAMA enthusiasts will welcome the new recordings at the Long Beach Public Library. Three collections from the Library of Congress include the poets E. E. Cummings, Robinson Jeffers, Archibald MacLeish, Elizabeth Bishop, Muriel Rukeyser and Howard Baker reading their own poems. These are recorded at regular playing speed. A longplaying edition of Shakespeare's "Othello" was also added to the lending collection.

The opera season has already begun with library patrons, judging from the top requests of the week for Puccini, "La Boheme" and "La Tosca"; Verdi, "La Traviata" and "Aida" and Wagner, "Parsifal."

Greek Series Issued

TO COMEMORATE its heroic fight against the forces of communism, Greece has issued a special set of four new stamps. The 1000 drachma blue depicts a priest invoking his blessing on Greek troops before they enter battle. The 1700 dr green pictures an angel carrying wreaths of peace over the Greek mountains. The 2700 dr brown shows Greek troops in trenches during a battle. The 7000 dr green illustrates soldiers in battle formation with an angel watching over them.

STAMP NOTES . . . Hungary has issued a set of two stamps to honor "Railwaymen's Day" in that country. The 60 filler brown shows a train leaving a terminal. The 1 forint olive green depicts railway construction. . . . The fourth annual National Postage Stamp Show sponsored by the American Stamp Dealers' Association will be held Nov. 21, 22, 23 in New York City. The show coincides with National Stamp Collecting Week (Nov. 17-23). . . . ## Abrams Sells Two Triplexes

TWO ULTRA-MODERN triplexes at 40 and 60 Quincy Ave. were recently bought by Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Stoppel from Building Contractor Robert E. Lewis for a reported sum of $60,000, it was disclosed today by Bert Abrams, income property specialist who handled the transaction.

Another recent deal handled by Abrams was the Irma Del Apartments at 1149 E. First St. Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Chapman were the sellers and Mr. and Mrs. Chloe Norcross the buyer at a consideration of $103,000. Abrams represented both parties.

"Long Beach is not only destined to become the world's greatest seaport, but this community will also see its greatest real estate boom in the years to come," declared Abrams. The veteran broker was instrumental in influencing William Wrigley Sr. to develop the Wrigley Tract in 1927. He then became sales manager for Wrigley in the selling of the original tract — between 20th and Hill Streets between Magnolia and Chestnut Avenues.

"I've never seen anything like the change which is occurring to this community," he continued. It's well on the way to becoming one of the greatest cities in the United States. He asserted that "the only thing which is detrimental to the growth of downtown Long Beach at the present time is the restrictions on building materials."

Abrams returned to Long Beach after having been employed by the Army Engineers on several construction projects. At the time of Pearl Harbor, he was in charge of government work at Seward, Alaska. He has been in the real estate business here since 1920.

Barbara Moss, executive director of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, is shown above as she poses with the giant trophy board members presented to her "in appreciation of 20 years of faithful and outstanding service to the local organization." Ceremonies took place at the Wilton Hotel recently upon the occasion of the board's annual meeting.

Voters Pass Bond Issue of $1,000,000

A MARKED upsurge in home building and industrialization was forecast yesterday by the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce as a result of overwhelming passage by the city's voters of a $1,000,000 bond issue to expand Anaheim's water and power system.

"We are now in a position," a spokesman declared, "to augment our housing promotion campaign and, in addition, to provide additional security for our fast-growing population by opening another 300 acres of valuable industrial land."

Besides providing facilities for new industries and employment opportunities, it was noted, half the bond issue will pay for extension of water and power services into areas recently annexed, or to be annexed, spurring new activity in residential subdivisions.

Already the industrial and citriculture center of Orange County, the spokesman pointed out, Anaheim soon will develop a new area for incoming industries along the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific Railroads and adjacent to the Santa Ana Freeway in the south end of the community.

Revised Terms on Loans

NEW DOWN payment requirements now apply to all real estate transactions involving GI loans. L. C. Chapman, Los Angeles regional office manager, said today. The revised terms became effective October 2. The down payment, determined by the sales price, shows the following:

1. Where the sales price is $2500 or less, no down payment is required.
2. Where the sales price is $2501 to $8000 the minimum down payment is limited to the amount of the closing costs or 4 per cent of the sales price, whichever is lesser.
3. Where the sales price is $8001 to $8400 the minimum down payment is 5 per cent of the sales price.

The purchaser is not required to pay closing costs in addition to the stipulated percentage down payment. These costs may be paid out of the down payment, Chapman stated.

Wood Derricks Banned by City

FOR MANY years the Long Beach Department of Building and Safety has been concerned with wooden oil derricks because of the hazard from fire and structural failure. Edward O'Connor, superintendent, pointed out today. Constant policing has kept these hazards to a minimum but the many structural failures occurring in the Torrance field in 1951 made it evident that removal of these structures was the only answer to the problem.

The department, together with the Fire Prevention Bureau, immediately increased efforts to secure demolition of individual derricks and was enabled, through the co-operation of a number of owners, to broaden the study of structural elements and connections. It soon became obvious that surface inspections were misleading. Nails were found to be so corroded as to render them useless with no visual evidence that their area had been reduced. Termite and dry rot damage is often completely concealed until the derrick collapses or is demolished.

Even major oil companies, though engaged in removing their derricks because of the economic aspect, were not entirely aware of the progressive and unseen deterioration taking place.

The independent operators, much less likely to have periodic maintenance programs, had little understanding of the structural hazard represented by these derricks. A structural analysis of a typical wooden derrick made by the Department of Building and Safety revealed derrick legs to be 800 per cent overstressed under the minimum wind load stipulated by law, even with the assumption of first-class material and adequate connections. Slow-motion moving pictures of derricks being demolished indicated clearly that the derrick sides had failed as trusses due to connection deterioration.

Many owners and operators, shown the unmistakable evidence of structural instability, have co-operated and some 20 per cent of the derricks have now been demolished. Only one producer of any size has any wooden derricks left in Long Beach. Many of the major companies do not replace any derricks where the well can possibly be serviced with a portable rig. The small independent operators, many working only two or three marginal producers, have a somewhat more difficult problem from an economic standpoint but nonetheless several are using oil well service companies portable rigs rather than erect a steel derrick.

No further permits are being issued for repair of wooden derricks. Structures in very hazardous locations are being given first priority as to removal and where the owners and/or operators refuse to co-operate, the derricks will be condemned. Condemnation is, however, a time-consuming and expensive procedure, both to the owner, and all possible effort is made to avoid such a course of action. In the interim, however, all owners of wooden derricks have been placed on notice that their structures are more than ordinarily dangerous and that failure to demolish them will result in condemnation.

HOME OWNERS in Long Beach and over 40 other cities are being gypped into expensive renovation jobs by the "model home" trick used by certain unscrupulous operators.

A survey made by the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Company through the co-operation of Better Business Bureaus from coast to coast, finds slick salesmen using the "model" scheme to get home owners' signatures on contracts for imitation stone and imitation brick siding, asbestos siding and roofing, "mastic" paints, basement waterproofing, patio work, water softeners and dishwashers, as well as complete renovation jobs.

With this scheme the salesman or sales crew offers the home owner what is represented to be a special low price if he will agree to allow the completed job to be shown to other prospective customers, and on television, in newspaper advertisements, etc. Usually he is promised a commission on all sales which result from showing his "model job"; these commissions, he is often told, will pay the entire cost of his own job, or even show him a profit.

Actually the victim is merely "suckered" into signing a standard contract for the work, and in many cases is charged double what an honest contractor would bill him for the job. In most cases, no prospects are ever brought to see his "model home"; no commissions are paid to him. Often he gets substandard materials and workmanship besides.

Though fought by Better Business Bureaus the Federal Housing Administration, and by local authorities, the "model home" racket springs up like poison ivy in one locality after being halted or slowed down in another. The swindle has been especially virulent on the Pacific Coast from Portland, Ore., to Long Beach.

Exposure through publicity, often combined with legal action by local authorities, has slowed down the racket after numerous complaints by disillusioned home owners. It is going strong in Sacramento, Stockton, Santa Barbara, San Jose and Long Beach, though vigorously fought.

Various combinations of methods have been used in fighting the racket. A radio series, "Hello Sucker!", and newspaper publicity exposed the racket and a sharp decrease in its prevalence occurred.

Jim Maragos, manager of Long Beach City Realty at 123 East 7th St., has moved his residence to Belmont Shore.

After eight years in sunny California, Bert Barber, associate of Realtor Glen Crabtree, has moved to Boston. When he decided to leave, it only took him four days to sell his house, furniture and car.

Marie Fleming has joined the staff of Town and Country Realtors, 3122 East Anaheim, according to Clive Graham, Board of Realtors president, who owns the firm. Marie formerly was employed by the Independent. In her new position she replaced Josephine Emery as secretary-bookkeeper, following Jo's move to Omaha, Neb.

Ray Mills Realty staff has been increased to 12, with new applicants being processed daily, as well as additional sites. Gordon Leatherby, manager of the newly opened downtown office, reports a sales total to date of $130,000. This includes property located at 2142-2158 Cedar Ave., plus ten new units at 396-398 Carroll Park East.

Ray Westcott will speak on the subject: "Synopsis of the Real Estate Law and Its Effect Upon You" at the Fundamentals Course on Real Estate being sponsored by the Board of Realtors each Wednesday night at Polytechnic High School, according to John Bohan, educational chairman.

Bee Rusche, Realtor, now has a second office at 8642 Garden Grove Blvd., facing the Imperial Restaurant in Garden Grove. She specializes in ranches, trades, TGI homes, multiple listing service of Long Beach and Santa Ana. An experienced and well-staffed organization will continue to better serve the community.

Winter Good For Porches

THIS fall season may be the best time to build that porch you dreamed about during those hot humid days of a few weeks ago. Build it now, while the weather is cool, so that you will be able to relax and enjoy it during next summer's heat.

Here are a few easy-to-follow rules for planning a porch that will serve as a popular outdoor living area for the entire family:

First: Select a site that will give you a combination of privacy and beautiful scenery. If you plan to use your porch for outdoor dining, locate it so that the kitchen is easily accessible.

Second: Install a weather-proof floor that is attractive and colorful, yet easy to maintain. Random flagstone or clay tile will fill these requirements. They may be applied over wood or concrete subfloors. To resist shrinkage and temperature changes, place a good reinforcing like metal lath in the mortar setting bed for these enduring floors.

Third: Mosquitoes and bugs are unwelcome guests. For full satisfaction, completely screen the porch. There are several types of rustproof insect screens made of copper, bronze, aluminum and even plastic.

Publishers and editors of the nation's free press were honored when more than 3500 Realtors converged on San Francisco last week to take part in the California Real Estate Association's 48th annual convention. Members of the Long Beach Board of Realtors are pictured here as they arrived home Saturday aboard a Western Airlines carrier.

Sunshine Valuable

Sunshine in homes and gardens is as valuable as on the beach; and a surprising amount of it is available to those who seek it. Avoid overplanting with tall plants that shade the home grounds unduly, especially in planting near the house.

New Homes 'Solid'

"A SOLID HOUSE" is the phrase used by the sales firm of Walker & Lee, Inc., to describe the MacBright homes in the Lloyd S. Whaley Los Altos Village development.

They point to the fact that curtain wall and pier foundations are used in all the homes, topped with a two-inch tongue and groove sub-flooring, with beautiful hardwood floors that are extremely attractive.

"All you have to do is walk through these homes to see just how well built they are, and this solid feeling has been one of the most important factors in the sale of these homes," said DeWitt Lee.

Another factor that will undoubtedly influence sales beginning this week-end is the newly announced terms for veterans of only $450 down, plus costs, which is a new low for homes in this development. Monthly payments, which include everything, principal, interest, taxes and insurance, are now down to but $58 per month on their outstanding two bedroom home stylings.

"Sales have been extremely high for the past two months, and I feel that with the terms now in effect that we will have the biggest rush period in our history as many people have been waiting for this announcement," Lee added.

Other features which have proved attractive to buyers in Los Altos Village are the sparkling and unusual interiors designed for comfortable, convenient living. Large kitchens, wood paneling, colorful painted walls, electric heaters in the bedrooms, fully wall furnaces, garbage disposals and a large number of other attractive and quality extras all combine to give the home buyer real value for his money, the builders and sales agents report.

Eight model homes are open every day until 5 p. m. and can be reached by driving seven

Downey Building Sees Sept. Hike

BUILDING activities in Downey continued to boom during September, Herbert P. Winger, resident engineer at the local County Department of Building and Safety, disclosed as he recorded the month's valuation of 480 permits issued at $4,150,000.

This figure has been exceeded during the current year only by the August record of $4,300,700 when one permit for a police hospital at Rancho Los Amigos, totaled $1,106,000.

An overwhelming majority of the permits issued during the past month were for residential construction, Winger said.

Plumbers Get Housewife Tips

FOUR thousand master plumbers from coast to coast spent an entire afternoon at the recent 70th annual convention of Master Plumbers in Atlantic City getting the housewife's slant on plumbers from five editors of national women's magazines.

Master plumbers were advised always to keep their appointments; to be prompt; do their work quickly; check all installations to be sure that the equipment is functioning properly; to leave a permanent record including name, address and telephone number on all equipment installed; to send clear, explanatory bills; and to instruct their journeymen to be clean and neat when doing work in a house.

New Ideas

TWO time-honored practices now considered outmoded are the sowing of sweet peas and the planting of asparagus roots in trenches.

Sweet peas planted two inches deep have proved to yield as well as those planted six inches down; while they have less trouble with fungus disease. The fashion for green asparagus, cut above the surface, disposes of any need to plant asparagus roots six inches deep.

Paint Wrinkles

Paint wrinkles are caused usually by applying too thick a coat, advises the National Association of Home Builders. The surface dries quickly, leaving an undried portion underneath. As the under part dries and contracts, the top surface wrinkles.

To avoid this add thinner to overthick paint (about 1/2 pint to one gallon) or by brushing out the paint to avoid thick films.

Lakewood Plaza's new State College Unit features this home among its 471, each with three bedrooms and two baths. The homes are rising a half block from the proposed $20,000,000 State College. Four furnished models are on display north of east Spring St. between Studebaker Rd. and Palo Verde Ave.

Home Builders See Boom in Business Future Here

By Newt Todd
Realty and Building Editor

HOME BUILDERS expect their booming business to go right on booming for years to come, housing officials declare.

They see a demand for at least 1,000,000 new homes a year next year and in 1954. After that they think business may even get better.

Only the unexpected could upset their plans—an all-out war or an economic depression. Other problems they expect to take in stride. Building materials are no longer scarce and all-important. Copper is now plentiful again.

One serious problem that looms for the builders' 1953 plans is a reluctance by banks to finance mortgages at the low rates of interest on home loans backed by the Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Agency.

But the builders are hopeful that problem will take care of itself.

Another problem worrying the builders is the threat of a scarcity of improved building lots. Some experts feared a shortage in improved lots might prove a "significant factor" in cutting the volume of home building.

This fear was recently expressed by Norman Strunk, executive vice-president of the U. S. Savings and Loan League, and Dr. Arthur M. Weimer, dean of Indiana University's school of business, in the league's quarterly letter.

They pointed out that many builders after World War II were considerably aided by relatively easy terms of financing. When financing grew more difficult many builders started using lots previously improved.

Strunk and Weimer said this has pushed up the market price of these sites. They added that it would pay builders to increase the supply of these improved building lots in many cities.

But Leonard G. Haeger, research director of the National Association of Home Builders, recently expressed the industry's optimism when he told a conference of builders and home-equipment makers their future looks very bright.

Haeger said demand for new homes should run roughly 1,000,000 a year for 1953 and 1954 and should stay at about that level through 1960. After that, he said, the new home market should be even stronger because of the big crop of war babies coming of age in the 1960s.

Haeger discounted pessimistic predictions that the home builders are in for a slump because of record-breaking production in the past four years. The peak was reached in 1950 with 1,400,000 new homes.

"In spite of the greatest boom in the house building history from 1948 through 1951," he told the closed conference, "there is still a tremendous potential for new houses, a demand that is sufficient to make possible the production of 1,000,000 houses a year for an almost indefinite period."

But Haeger said his forecast was based on the assumption that the present good general business conditions would continue. He emphasized that a recession or a depression traditionally cuts marriage and birth rates and forces many new families to "double up" with their relatives instead of buying their own homes.

But barring an economic crisis, Haeger said, such factors as new families, replacing homes lost through fire and other natural disasters and replacing obsolete homes add up to a long-term demand for 1,000,000 or more homes a year. One reason for some pessimism about the industry's immediate future is that now the "depression babies" are coming of age. They were fewer than babies of the boom prosperity of the 1920s or the war prosperity of the 1940s.

The census bureau calculates that in the next five years there will be about 775,000 less women in the marriageable 20-24-year-old age group than in 1950. This is the result of the sharp fall in the birth rate in the depression days of the early 1930s.

Lakewood Plaza's Sales Volume Heavy

SALES VOLUME has soared to $2,844,000 in Lakewood Plaza's new State College Unit since it was formally opened just two weeks ago. It was announced yesterday by the Aldon Construction Company, developers.

The new unit of 471 three-bedroom, two-bath homes is going up a half block from the proposed $20,000,000 institution of higher learning.

The heavy sales volume reflects strong public interest in the progress of the new college, whose first group of permanent buildings is scheduled to get under way this fall. At present, 2115 students are enrolled in temporary buildings. First group of permanent buildings is due to be ready next September.

Model Ginni Bari looks approvingly at the well planned kitchen designed to save hundreds of steps every day. Natural wood finish cabinets accent the charm of the kitchens. This is only one of the many features attracting buyers to Los Altos Village.

Brookhurst Sets Previews Today

ONE of the most significant developments in home construction made in recent years are the new Brookhurst electric award homes which will open for a preview showing today from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. Many new model homes are near completion in Brookhurst Park near Garden Grove.

Electric award homes are unique in that 42 luxury features are incorporated in these moderately priced homes which start at $15,750 under FHA terms. These spacious dwellings offer three bedrooms, two baths, and a two-car garage, with living area ranging from 1350 square feet to 1450 square feet, exclusive of garage.

They are designed and constructed by Henry C. Cox and affiliated companies, builders of Brookhurst Park Estates.

Among the wealth of electrical innovations are the radio-controlled garage door, which opens and closes automatically without the homeowner ever getting out of the car. Also for convenience in entering or leaving the home are ample flood lights. Electric house numbers identify the home for the convenience of guests. Other quality features in the electrical field include the seal of adequate wiring, PCEA, touchplate control, with a master control panel, 220 volt wiring for dryer, range and water heater and weather-proof exterior outlets.

THE housewife will find the built-in Thermador electric range and oven, work and time-saving features, whose flush surfaces make maintenance easy. Other convenient electric equipment includes the summer air fan, electric exhaust fans in both kitchen and baths, and electric heaters in both. There are lights in all closets and wardrobes.

These new Brookhurst electric award homes feature such value-increasing luxuries as solid Philippine mahogany exterior siding, and painted exteriors with cedar shake roofs, all homes individually designed from five work-saving floor plans. Terraces are concrete covered for year 'round outdoor play and recreation. Green lawns, shrubs and trees make an effective setting for these unusual new homes.

Built to last, the homes are insulated and weatherstripped. Screens are bronze and aluminum for durability. Interiors are oil painted for beauty and long lasting satisfaction.

Philippine mahogany has been lavishly used in interior wall paneling, presenting a most effective contrast with ultra-modern sliding glass walls. All electric award homes have fireplaces and barbecues, while large mirrors, and both interior and exterior planters add grace and charm.

Homes feature two baths, both with pastel-colored fixtures. Bathrooms have Pullman lavatories and glass-enclosed showers. Walls are tiled. Cove base linoleum has been used in both the baths and kitchen for ease of maintenance.

Majority of Homes Sold

THE new community of Orange Gardens is a sight to see these days. Situated at the southeast edge of Garden Grove, most of the 72 new two and three-bedroom homes here are now occupied and new families are moving in every day. Fewer than 20 remain unsold.

Although the site of this suburban home development was an orange grove just a few weeks ago, it already has acquired a bustling, lived-in atmosphere with its gaily painted houses on green lawns and with bearing orange trees in many back yards.

Realtors to Hear Dr. W. H. Moore

DR. WALLACE H. MOORE, chairman of the Division of Education and Psychology at Long Beach State College, will be guest speaker at the Board of Realtors Breakfast Forum Tuesday morning in the Wilton Hotel. It was announced yesterday by Clive Graham, president.

Dr. Moore, whose parents were missionaries in Japan, spent the greater part of his early life in this country and later toured the world before settling in Long Beach. He taught at Takamatsu College of Commerce in Japan, served as an Army colonel during World War II and now serves periodically as a consultant for the State Department on Far Eastern affairs.

Control Ban Builders' Exchange Helps Sales

VETERANS can now buy a home in College Square for only $550 down and $55.55 a month following the lifting of Regulation X, according to the W. H. Beck Realty Co.

The new subdivision is located one block west of Long Beach Blvd. on Artesia Blvd. Model home is called the Forcaster and it is completely furnished by Frank Bros., 2400 American Ave.

Luxury features at College Square include the following:

Wood-burning fireplaces (also piped for gas), entry hall, beautiful hardwood floors, coved linoleum, lots of real tile, some stall showers with glass doors, wood paneling, electric bathroom heaters, thermostatic heat control, garbage disposals and large landscaped lots.

For information call NEWmark 2-6992 or Logan 8-3405. Evenings call NEVada 6-5332.

Builders' Exchange

ROSS HALL, charter member and one of the first officers of Builders' Exchange of Long Beach, will be guest speaker at the monthly dinner meeting of that organization Oct. 20, at Lafayette Hotel, according to President Lowell Clarke.

Hall will show colored slides of Mexico and Guatemala that he took on his recent trip "south of the border." Included are shots of new subdivisions being built in Mexico City.

Clarke will announce plans for the state convention in Bakersfield Nov. 6-8 following Hall's discussion.

Plans and specifications for the following jobs are now on file at the Builders' Exchange office, 1435 Walnut Ave., according to Jess B. Farmer, manager:

Repairing roofs and buildings A0-16 and 1-1 at the Naval Ammunition and Net Depot in Seal Beach, 11 a. m., Oct. 15; building animal shelter at 3001 E. Willow St., for the city of Long Beach, 2 p. m., Oct. 24.

Engineers Will Install Latham as '53 President

ROBERT E. LATHAM, engineer with the Long Beach Department of Building and Safety, will be installed president of the American Association of Engineers, Long Beach Chapter, at a dinner-dance Friday night at the Lafayette Hotel's University Club, according to Henry Simmons, newly elected secretary.

Other officers include Norbert W. Dean, vice president, and John Morton, re-elected treasurer.

Localite Arthur Adams will preside as grand installer and deliver the main address concerned with the future of the Long Beach organization.

Prizes Won by Realty Board

LONG BEACH Board of Realtors received recognition at the California Real Estate Association's 48th Annual Convention held in San Francisco last week when they won the Arthur H. Delano "Board Service to Members" trophy as well as an honorable mention testimonial award, according to President Clive Graham, who accepted on behalf of the local organization.

Max Livoni, Realtor and Long Beach city councilman, acted as chairman of the Achievement Contest and presented an award to the North Hollywood board.

Honorable mention testimonial awards were also won by boards from Compton-Lynwood, Newport Harbor, Hawthorne, San Pedro and Anaheim.

Economical

When installing a floor furnace, costly excavation, concrete pits, water pans and construction difficulties are eliminated when a shallow furnace is used, points out the research department, Holly Manufacturing Co. The bottom six inches of the furnace, which should not exceed 25 inches in overall depth, should be water-tight and sealed.

Construction work has been started in Costa Mesa on this proposed factory for House and Garden to be located on a 1 1/2-acre site on Placentia St. between 19th and 20th Sts. It is designed to double production of the firm's line of rattan and wrought iron furniture. The company's output of functional furniture is sold only through its retail stores in Newport Beach, Santa Ana and Long Beach.

September Building Shows Slight Decline

THE city building department last month issued 1549 permits for $2,455,965 worth of new construction, repairs and minor alterations. Supt. Edward M. O'Connor reported.

September building fell slightly short of the mark set in the same month last year when 1211 permits covered $2,909,845. September, 1949, was higher than both figures with 1587 permits amounting to $3,545,110.

September residential construction comprised 87 permits for 150 new dwelling units aggregating $1,097,470.

The dollar value of single-family dwelling construction was $755,055 last month against $951,570 a year ago. Multiple-unit building totals were over 13 times greater in September this year against the same month in 1950. The former total was $249,535, and the latter was $19,000.

SCHOOL projects accounted for $652,500 worth of building permit valuations in September, 1950, and none this same month this year. The department authorized 43 signs, sheds and miscellaneous small structures amounting to $24,570. Repairs and minor alterations, involving 1311 permits, aggregated $829,590. Oil derrick permits totaled five with a value of $50,000.

Demands for private garages at existing homes resulted in issuance of $67,895 worth of permits for 83 jobs.

Total valuation of building permits for the year as of Oct. 7 is $30,047,445 against $28,173,965 as of Oct. 7, 1951.

Permits for all new construction last month totaled 238 with an aggregate value of $1,625,375. This was $558,085 less than the figure last year at this time, which came to $2,184,460 and 241 permits.

Nine two-family dwellings for $92,880, one motel for $5000, one day nursery for $14,000, one private school for $100,000, one church for $14,000, 12 stores and offices for $238,440, one public garage for $10,000, one commercial building for $1000 and two warehouses for $4000.

Sales Total $413,500

ERNEST H. LOCKWOOD, real estate broker at 4252 Atlantic Ave., reports that transactions totaling $413,500 have personally been handled by him in the past 60 days. He pointed out that at this rate, he expects to rack up a total of $1,250,000 in transactions by year's end.

Deals are as follows:

The southeast corner of Atlantic Ave. and Carson Blvd., sold for $125,000, B. H. Honeywell, buyer, and F. Smith, seller; southeast corner of Atlantic and Beck Avenues, sold for $125,000, T. W. Rowan, buyer; Bobfor Inc., seller; 3848 Atlantic Ave. sold for $70,000, G. E. Glover, buyer, R. D. Elliott, seller; 4218 Atlantic Ave., sold for $50,000, C. Layana, buyer, N. S. Harris, seller; one vacant income lot south of 4238 Atlantic Ave. sold for $17,500, O. Jacobs, buyer, G. W. Brundage, seller; a house at 5209 Vista Hermosa, sold for $26,000, E. H. Knaff, buyer, C. Cooper, seller (sold in conjunction with the Charles Wright Agency).

▲ Slotkin, a six-footer, dwarfs his prize purchase. He hasn't fully translated instructions (right). But they indicate few families buy Pobedas. (See story).

Would You Buy This Car?

A LOS ANGELES, Calif. BUSINESSMAN here says he owns the only 1952 Russian-made car in the U.S. It's a Pobeda (pronounced Po-vay-da). The Pobeda was brought here by Stanley Slotkin, an auto fancier and president of a surgical supply business.

Slotkin said he got it in Finland where Pobedas are used by a Russian-owned taxicab company. They are not on sale anywhere outside of Russia. To get it, Slotkin says he traded his own car.

Though the Pobeda is billed as a "family car," the evidence, according to Slotkin, is that not many families, even inside Russia, can get one. The price is about $2,500.

- But a better tip-off is the language of the Russian instruction booklet in the car. It says "organizations" owning the car may get replacement of broken parts by sending them back to the factory.

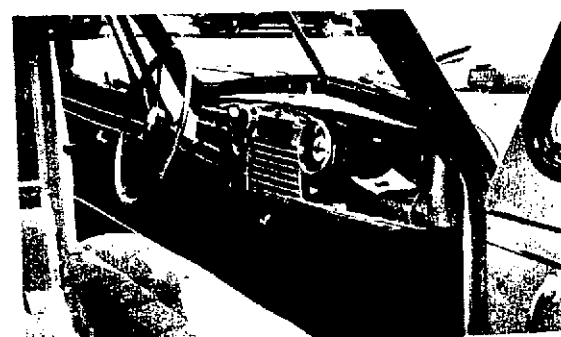

- The reason Russian families have a hard time getting cars is obvious. Estimate of Russian production of autos in 1950 is 65,600 units, compared to 6,665,628 in the U.S.

20 Miles Per Gallon

BUT, suppose you're a Russian "organization," here's what you'd get for your $2,500, according to Slotkin—

A 97-inch, four-cylinder, 50-horsepower, 3,200-pound car that looks like an "old Ford" in back and a "little foreign" in front. The car has good pickup, a top speed of 78 miles an hour and gets fair gas mileage (20 miles at 35 m.p.h.).

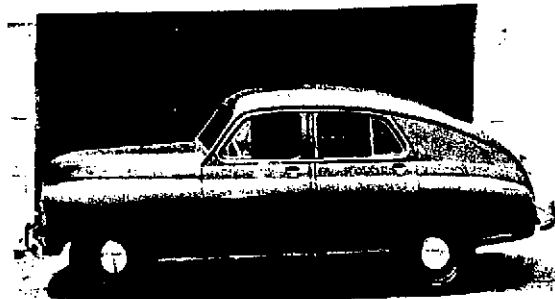

What's the most interesting thing about the Pobeda? The dashboard clock (says Slotkin) really works—so far!

INSIDE is roomy, says Slotkin, and the upholstery seems quite good. So far, gadgets like the clock work well.

SO FAR Slotkin has been able to find American parts to fit this engine! Souvenir hunters stole a few.

POBEDA DRAWS crowds at displays for charitable causes. But people scarcely notice it in ordinary driving.

The Turning Point

JAMES RUSSELL CALDWELL: "If I have to make it myself . . ."

Gold in a Dustpan

WOOSTER, Ohio.

ATEN-MILLION-DOLLAR idea in a kitchen!

That's what James Russell Caldwell had — back in the 30's when he was a struggling chemist.

One spring evening, he was watching his wife, Madeleine, clean up the kitchen. As she swept the linoleum, the dust flew under, instead of into, the bent edges of her dustpan. When she straightened up and hung the dustpan on a nail, a sharp edge made an ugly scratch on the new wallpaper.

Caldwell grabbed the dustpan and tossed it into a wastebasket.

"The next dustpan to come into this house will be made of rubber," he said, "if I have to make it myself!"

Rubber for the Kitchen

He nearly did. Within a week, he had the design for a rubber dustpan that would cling to the floor, leave both hands free and not scratch walls. But the rubber company that took the contract could only turn out the dustpans untrimmed and unfinished.

Caldwell, his wife and their two small daughters finished them up in the family basement.

- The first sales were made door-to-door in their own neighborhood. When stores hesitated about stocking the new item, the Caldwells brought along a bag of sawdust and a broom and put on a clean-sweep demonstration that fascinated customers. Those demonstrations paid off.

- Today, Caldwell's business is in the ten-million-dollar a year bracket. It produces dozens of household items ranging from dish drainers to plate scrapers.

- "But it all began with that dustpan!" recalls Caldwell.

At the First Sign of a COLD

Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a full glass of water...

and feel better FAST!

HERE'S ADVICE about colds that we think your own doctor will tell you is sound and effective.

No matter how you try to stop or shorten a cold, the first thing to do—before you do anything else—is to take genuine Bayer Aspirin.

You should do this because a cold is almost invariably accompanied by muscular aches and pains—and a headachy, feverish feeling. And for your own good, you need a medication that will relieve these distressing symptoms—relieve them quickly.

One reason why Bayer Aspirin tablets bring you this important relief—and do it with amazing speed—is that they start disintegrating almost the instant you take them.

This Bayer way of feeling better fast—tested and proved by millions—is now being used by more men, women and children than ever before.

So don't experiment with a cold. Use Bayer Aspirin. And for sore throats due to colds, gargle three times daily with 3 Bayer Aspirin tablets dissolved in  $\frac{1}{2}$  of a glass of water. When you buy, be sure you ask for Bayer Aspirin.

Now! FLAVORED Children's Size Bayer Aspirin! Provides all the advantages for which genuine Bayer Aspirin is famous—and tastes so good children willingly chew it, drink it dissolved in water or mix it with their food. Low price saves you money, too. 24 tablets cost only 15¢.

Because no other pain reliever can match its record of use by millions of normal people without ill effect, one thing you can take with complete confidence is genuine

Fire sleuths track the men who commit . . .

Murder with a Match

A 10-year scientific study reveals a way to curb this growing menace

BY A. E. HOTCHNER

THE 19-YEAR-OLD son of a distinguished doctor, a youth of fine reputation, left his room one evening carrying a deadly weapon in his coat pocket. The weapon? A box of matches.

He walked along for a few blocks and then, suddenly responding to an overwhelming urge, he began to go in and out of buildings, setting fires. He burned down two hotels, three churches, his own rooming house, two warehouses, three doctors' offices, the library, the city hall, a drug store and police headquarters.

► This is the way of the firebug, member of the most peculiar criminal set in the United States. He has been described as a potential murderer with amnesia. He has no apparent motive for what he does. He is a bafflement to the police. He has no guilt.

► He knows that he should not sneak into that hallway and set fire to that baby carriage. He even realizes that people in the building may be burned to death. But he cannot help himself, he must set the fire.

► Some 10 years ago the National Board of Fire Underwriters was faced with the fact that arson (malicious burning, usually for insurance money) had greatly diminished, but that pyromania (the firebug's disease) had increased to alarming proportions.

► Millions of dollars had been spent to teach American communities fire control and safety. More millions had been spent to track down and convict arson rings, but the firebug was undoing all the good work. Insurance losses were as high as ever. Deaths from fires had increased.

In desperation the Fire Underwriters went to Columbia University's brilliant psychiatrist, Dr. Nolan D. C. Lewis, head of the New York State Psychiatric Institute and Hospital, and described the problem.

"This alarming rise in pyromania," Dr. Lewis told them, "parallels the general rise in all mental disorders. But to date no one has made a comprehensive study of it in the United States."

The Underwriters agreed to finance such a study by Dr. Lewis. Now the results have been announced. For the first time the eerie workings of the firebug's mind have been laid bare. To understand the pyromaniac we first have to understand what fire means to all of us. Dr. Lewis points out that without fire there would be no life on earth, that fire seems to be an embodiment of the entire life force—as well as the force of destruction.

Dr. Helen Yarnell, also of Columbia who worked with Dr. Lewis, explains it this way: "Everyone loves a fire. Normal people satisfy their interest with a camp fire or a fire in the fireplace, by burning leaves in the fall, or with candles on the birthday cake.

Fire "Satisfies" Him

HOWEVER, there is something in the pyro's make-up which keeps him from handling frustrations like a normal person or even a neurotic. Since fire can be so completely destructive, it is an excellent means of carrying out aggressive acts of hatred or violence. In striving for an outlet, the pyro's emotions undergo a change so complete that he is unaware he is committing violence. The fire itself becomes complete satisfaction. It doesn't matter what or how much it destroys."

► Thomas Brophy, recently retired New York Fire Marshal, who is considered the country's outstanding arson detective (he has investigated 100,000 fires), points out that arson detectives in each city know many of the most dangerous of firesetters. They know where they live, where they work, whom they see.

► But fire marshals can do very little about it. To convict the firebug under our present arson laws, it is almost necessary to catch him at the precise moment he sets a fire. ► When he does get convicted, most states keep him in prison only a short time, then turn him loose again.

► And yet one firebug can destroy a community. The son of a wealthy Philadelphian set 31 fires that burned down most of a four-mile area.

The Hartford Tragedy

OR TAKE the case of a volunteer fireman in the Midwest who burned out a 40-square-mile area with these results: 30 families lost their homes; 12 persons were killed; $3,000,000 worth of government timber was destroyed; and a score of firefighters were injured.

And the holocaust in the big top of the Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Circus at Hartford, Conn., in 1944 was attributed to a firebug, although nobody was convicted. The fire killed 168 persons.

► A typical firebug, a 24-year-old who set 17 fires that caused $200,000 in property losses, said: "It seems that the moment I was seized of that particular craving my mind, intelligence, courage and will power were all overpowered and, losing complete control over myself, I yielded to the impulse.

► "The best I can explain it is that my heart beat much faster and I felt as if all my blood had rushed to my head. I was dizzy and trembled like a leaf. I must have been like a wolf going after its prey.

► "Then against my will, I entered the cellar of one of the houses and set fire to loose straw there.

► "The desire to set other fires was always in me and, having no control over myself,

• Raging fires like this set by thri

I set another fire that afternoon. Later on I returned home to meet my loving wife. I tried to forget the things on my mind, but I could concentrate on no other thought than repeating what I had done."

"Probably the most frightening aspect about pyromaniacs," Dr. Lewis says, "is that to the casual observer they appear rational. In fact they seem so normal they attract little attention. In their confessions they invariably describe themselves as Dr. Jekylls and Mr. Hydes."

► When asked to describe a typical firebug, Dr. Yarnell says, "That's as hard as describing a typical murderer, but there are some salient characteristics that might be mentioned. He is probably a male between the ages of 16 and 21 with a little below normal intelligence. He may well have some real or imaginary slight physical defect, and he comes from a broken or very unhappy home, or from an institution or orphanage. He is unaggressive, tending toward meekness, and he is unemployed or bored with his job. ► "Chances are that he has a sexual problem of some sort. He may be stimulated by a drink or two but he does not get drunk. He is likely to have a history of bed-wetting as a child. He has a criminal record that is usually limited to petty crimes."

An Irrational Crime

FIREBUGGING is the perfect example of the irrational crime that is committed for sensual satisfaction and no material profit. All the experts point out that for many pyromaniacs, fire setting has a definite sexual connotation.

For example, a young man named Kenneth, who was the son of the dean of a large university, had a regular pattern of starting a small fire, calling for his girl, and then returning to the fire to watch it with her.

It may surprise you to learn that compulsive firebugs are sometimes found among volunteer firemen turned firebug who are often sons of important members of the community — doctors, judges, bank executives, police chiefs and the like.

It is commonly believed that women never set fires, but this is not so.

"Women are sometimes dangerous and quite often dramatic firesetters," Dr. Yarnell says. "They may do it for revenge or to attract attention or for excitement or to relieve tension."

The female pyro burns only property that has emotional meaning for her — her own house, her neighbor's house or perhaps the church.

Today, psychiatrists often are able to restore the pyro to his community with his deadly fire complex rendered "safe".

Courts and prisons seem less and less able to cope with this rising menace.

► A check on 1071 convicted firebugs gave the following results: 162 in penitentiaries; 42 in reform schools; 260 in mental institutions and hospitals; 138 received treatment and have made "adequate community adjustment" and 469 cannot be traced and are presumed to be at large. This means that these 469 firebugs have been sent back to their communities with the same warped obsessions that drove them to set fires in the past.

► What, then, is wrong with our laws?

In most states the courts apply this time-worn measuring stick to the confessed pyromaniac: does he appreciate the nature of his act? If he does, then he is adjudged guilty and sent to prison. For how long de-

FIGHT YOUR OWN BULL

LISBON, Portugal.

FOR 15c you can be a bullfighter. Just go to the Lisbon Fair. For that price, you get a cape, a wooden sword and a bull (with padded horns so you won't get hurt).

First, an experienced bullfighter tires the bull. Then you're invited into the ring.

Instead of killing the bull (illegal in Portugal), you go through a series of bullfighting poses. Then you try to wrestle the bull to the ground.

Incidentally, these are young bulls—just practicing for the big-time.

JOAN BONAR blasts away with a he-man's gun, a .45 automatic.

MEN LAUGHED

... when Joan Bonar got ready to shoot

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex.

ON THE NAVY's pistol range one day a little blue-eyed Wave from Ohio asked for a chance to shoot.

Male eyebrows were raised, but a scoffing sailor handed her a pistol.

"Bam!"

Blonde Joan Bonar, of Little Hocking, O., stepped up to the firing line, squeezed the trigger. There was a big round hole in the center of the target.

"Bam!"

Another hole.

● Calmly, Joan blasted out a professional score: 399 out of a possible 500.

● It was an accident, everybody agreed. So next day she was invited back, and since she owned no gun someone lent her a fine .22.

"Bam!" Bullseye.

● This time Joan fired a 460! But skeptics were not convinced. A freak, they said.

"I'll soon tell you if she's REALLY any good," growled a gunner's mate from Kansas. He hauled out a blunderbuss of a .45. It was no gun for a lady to use.

"Now," he told Joan, "back off to 50 yards and see if you can hit anything at all!"

"Bam! Bam! Bam!"

The gun kicked like a mule, practically lifting Joan off the ground.

... They Looked

THEN THEY looked at the target.

Out of a possible 200, Joan had scored 170. At 50 yards few men can do as well.

That's why all Texas—which loves winners particularly when they're women—loves Joan Bonar... even though she's gone on, in meet after meet, to steal prizes from Texas' best men shots!

What they don't know is: her father taught her to shoot when she was five!

New Hope for Sleepless Millions

No Drugs... No Sedatives!

LAATEST MEDICAL FINDINGS REVEALED . . . If you have trouble sleeping—can't seem to get to sleep or get a good night's rest—here's real hope for you. News that promises more refreshing sleep tonight and a brighter, more sparkling day tomorrow.

Recent medical studies indicate that a certain vital substance in your bloodstream may have a lot to do with how well you sleep at night. This substance, known medically as blood sugar, is one of the most important sources of nourishment for the brain. When your body lacks sufficient blood sugar, your brain is literally starved for its vital "sleep food."

At bedtime, and especially during the long nighttime hours without food, your supply of blood sugar may be at its lowest point. Thus, at the very time when you want to get sound, refreshing sleep—your brain and nervous system are suffering from insufficient "sleep food." You may feel too nervous and tired to go to sleep . . . too restless to sleep well.

Neither drugs nor sleeping pills can supply necessary "sleep food." And sweet, sugary foods and drinks provide only a quick jet of sugar into the blood that is too quickly burned up. But here is a way—a delicious, drugless way—to help your body get the "sleep food" it needs.

This sleep-aid is a POSTUM "NIGHTCAP"—a delicious drink made with Instant Postum and hot milk, taken shortly before retiring.

Your Postum "Nightcap" is good-tasting and safe—contains no drugs to harm you. Moreover, your Postum milk drink gives you easily digested nourishment that is slowly converted into blood sugar. Thus, it helps assure the slow, steady flow of vital "sleep-food" to your brain that fosters a calmer nervous system. That's why a Postum "Nightcap" helps you get sound, refreshing sleep—the kind that leaves you greatly rested, looking and feeling like new!

So safe, so easy—why not try it?

If you want to stop worrying and start sleeping, get yourself a jar of Instant Postum. Every night before you retire, fix yourself a Postum "Nightcap." It's easy and quick—just add a rounded teaspoon of Instant Postum to a cup of hot milk, and stir. Do this for just 10 days —then take stock! See if you don't find that you've been sleeping better—that you're feeling fresher, more energetic—that you're looking like a new person! Get some Instant Postum now—and start the 10-day test tonight!

Are Postum "Nightcaps" really effective?

Doctors have always known that a warm milk drink is an effective aid to sleep. And the recent blood sugar studies offer additional reason why this is true. In fact, as your own doctor can tell you, the Postum "Nightcap" is ideal in every way: it is not only a warm, soothing drink that helps your body relax—but it tastes good . . . and, of course, Postum contains no caffeine, no drugs of any kind. See if your doctor doesn't recommend the Postum "Nightcap" for you!

Postum is an ideal mealtime beverage, too. For it contains no caffeine—no drugs of any kind—no chance for "coffee nerves."

The "SLEEP-FOOD" Nightcap for sleepless Millions!

5-year-olds learn foreign tongues

BY ED ENGLEADOW

EL PASO, Texas.

WITH NO blaring of trumpets, a trend is snowballing in American schools.

Children as young as five are being taught foreign languages.

From Seattle to New Britain, Conn., the "start-'em-early" idea is spreading.

Educators' major objective: to broaden children's understanding of foreign nations in today's new world.

In years of experiments, teachers in cities like Cleveland and San Diego have proved that it can be done.

The one traditional stumbling block: how to fit languages into an already jammed elementary teaching program. But careful planning is knocking out that problem.

• In Washington, D. C., St. Louis, Lawrence, Kans., Chicago, Los Angeles and other cities, youngsters start (sometimes in kindergarten) learning a second tongue (usually French or Spanish).

• "There is more interest today than ever before in the language programs" according to Dr. Marjorie C. Johnston, division of international education, U.S. Office of Education.

How are youngsters taught a language? Turn to page 16 to find out.

It's Fun to Learn

MOCK MEALS are used by Rivera to teach children names of foods and table language. He believes new vocabulary must be practical.

TEACHING Spanish to 6-year-olds isn't a snap.

When El Paso started its program, school officials picked Carlos Rivera to teach first graders.

- Rivera, ordinarily a high school teacher, soon learned that it helped to do a little acting.

- "The first few days weren't easy," he says.

- His class was told that Rivera (holder of an advanced degree from the University of Texas) could speak no English.

"He understands a little, but he can't talk it," the youngsters were told.

So, his first stunt was walking in and out of class repeating "good day" ("buenos dias") in Spanish.

Then, he would ask over and over again, "How are you?"

"I said those phrases with motions, smiles, gestures, anything until they caught on to what I was asking," he says.

"Then, it was more pantomime and repetition till they learned that they should answer, 'Fine, thank you,' in Spanish."

Learn Useful Words

AND so, little by little, Rivera built up a vocabulary for his students.

His object: to teach them 300 practical words and phrases every year.

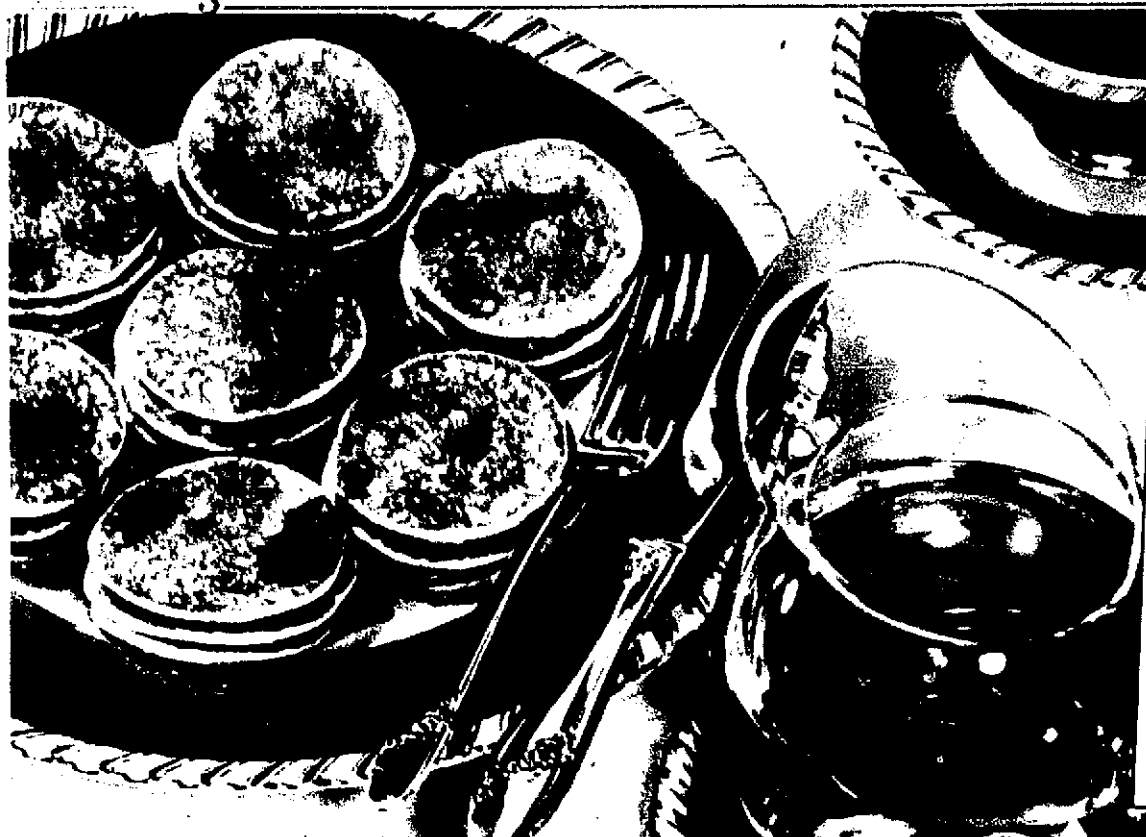

To help, Rivera uses pictures, sets up a kitchen table to serve a meal and the children go through the motions of eating and talking about it in Spanish.

SILVER DOLLAR PANCAKES

MAKE THEM WITH BISQUICK...TOP THEM WITH GOOD GOLDEN KARO SYRUP

JUST ADD MILK TO BISQUICK

... maybe a leettle more than usual to make the batter thin. Then spoon out the batter a tablespoon at a time to fill your griddle with these tiny, dainty mouthfuls of Bisquick "silver dollar" pancakes. Whether you make 'em huge, big, middle-size or dollar-size... reach for the Bisquick. One teasing bite'll tell you ... for feeding the family you can't beat Bisquick!

DOUBLE RICH AND DEEP-DOWN DELICIOUS!

Yes—rich in wonderful flavor—and rich in food energy—that's Karo—America's favorite table Syrup.

Cakes and Karo just naturally go together—to make a hearty, zestful, nutritious breakfast. P.S. Delicious Karo always adds glamour to waffles, biscuits, French toast—even spread on bread, it's a treat.

This Way

To double check, Rivera asks them (in Spanish), "Who eats fried eggs with sugar?"

If no hands go up, it's a pretty good bet that the lesson is getting across.

- To vary the routine, Rivera often gives the children a recital of the "Three Bears" in Spanish. Or they play games like "naranja dulce" (sweet orange) where they circle round and hug each other. Learning by playing is fun, the children feel.

- So far, both children and their parents are enthusiastic about the course.

- It is entirely voluntary. Yet, there hasn't been a single case of a child not taking part.

Rivera visits each class for 15 or 20 minutes twice a week. Through the week, the other teachers help out by playing Spanish records.

Here Are the Reasons

IN A community like El Paso, there are practical as well as academic reasons for teaching youngsters Spanish.

More than 50 per cent of the population (most of Mexican origin) speak Spanish.

But educators cite other reasons for teaching the very young a second language:

1. Because they didn't know the language, GI's in World War II Europe felt they were genuinely handicapped. Many of those same GI's, now parents, don't want their youngsters to be similarly handicapped.

2. With world travel so cheap and easy, future generations will be helped by knowledge of a second language.

3. There will probably be more

AN EDUCATOR SPEAKS

"It is a psychological fact that young children learn new languages easily and idiomatically," says Dr. Earl James McGrath, U.S. Commissioner of Education.

"I am not proposing that every child in every elementary school be required to study a foreign language.

"I am suggesting that as many children as possible be given the opportunity to do so.

"We are living in one world. Whether we discharge our world responsibilities well or poorly will be determined by our ability to understand other peoples and by their ability to understand us." ■ opportunity in the future for overseas jobs.

Those are among the major factors that motivated the El Paso school officials and others throughout the U. S.

Although the first year's results have encouraged Rivera, some of his pupils are worried about him.

- Said one 6-year-old to her mother: "Senor Rivera must be awfully dumb. He's been with us all term and he still can't speak any English."

- And at a recent Father's Night, another girl said to her father: "He (Rivera) doesn't speak English, so just say to him, 'Tengo gusto en conocerlo.' It means, 'I'm glad to meet you.'"

That's how one El Paso father got proof that his 6-year-old could learn a second language.

Grimaces, smiles, gestures are tools, Rivera uses in class.

ONE taste? Mother, your family will never stop with one taste of this savory, savory dish!...

So give 'em BIG servings! They'll love it — down to the last drop of rich, savory sauce!

The recipe's easy. And low in cost, for Hunt's Tomato Sauce costs but a few cents a can. Get a few cans and try it!

1 clove garlic, minced
4 tbsp. oil or drippings

Lightly brown onion and garlic in hot oil. Then take:

1 lb. ground beef 1 tsp. salt

Add salt to meat, mix lightly. Form into small balls and brown in pan with oil. Then add:

1 can Hunt's Tomato Sauce
1 cup water ¼ tsp. pepper
2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Cover pan and simmer 40 minutes. Pour over hot spaghetti (8-oz. pkg.) and sprinkle with grated cheese. Serves 4.

When you add Hunt's Tomato Sauce to your recipes, it's like doubling your cooking skill. Bright new flavor — new family enjoyment of your dishes. Add Hunt's to meat loaf, casseroles, stews, fish, leftovers! Costs but a few cents a can.

HOW PERFECT ARE YOU?

● Last year, 62 million Americans were working. And employers were still asking for more people to fill out their rolls. But even so, 40,500 veterans could not find jobs.

Why? These men were physically handicapped by the wounds they suffered in war. Many employers were afraid to take a chance.

But, according to the American Medical Association, NO adult is physically perfect. A great many disabled persons, says the AMA, are just as capable as other employees!

That's why, this past week, Vice Adm. Ross T. McIntire, chairman of the President's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped, has been asking employers to give the disabled a chance. These men can add millions of man-hours to the nation's productive effort!

A quiet man from

Slingin' Sammy Baugh, a cowboy by choice, has

By KEVIN ROBERTS

WASHINGTON, D. C.

YOU'VE heard of the strong, silent type. Well...

The National Press Club here once invited Sammy Baugh, the Washington Redskins' football star, to be its guest of honor.

Sammy squirmed all during the affair—particularly when the toastmaster got up to introduce him.

- It was a warm and flowery introduction in which Sammy was told (with a wink) that there would be no speeches.
- "All I want you to do, Sammy," said the toastmaster, "is say hello."
- Reluctantly, Baugh arose. Chairs shuffled as the guests settled down with eagerness to hear him speak.

"Hello," said Sammy. And he sat down.

That's typical of Samuel Adrian Baugh, a cattle rancher from Texas, who has played in the National Professional Football League longer than any man in history.

That's the Sammy Baugh who, for 16 years, has stood opponents on their ears with forward passes that have been called the most remarkable in football.

Once, Joe DiMaggio showed Sam a baseball and said: "I bet you wouldn't know what to do with this."

"Pump a little air into it and I would," said Baugh. (That was a long sentence for him.)

He made passing look so easy and so safe that he revolutionized the strategic concepts of the game. Baugh is to passing what Lindbergh was to airplanes.

Until Baugh came along, George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, was up to his ears in red ink.

First Cowboy Suit

BUT ONCE Slingin' Sam took over, the Redskin franchise became one of the most profitable in the League. The fans flocked to see Baugh pass.

He didn't even own a cowboy suit when Marshall, the showman, plucked him off the Texas Christian campus and introduced him to the press in 1937.

Texas...

revolutionized football

Again, Sammy looked downright uncomfortable in the unfamiliar cowboy hat, chaps and high-heeled boots Marshall had bought for him.

"Mah feet hurt," he drawled in his only memorable remark to the press.

Considering the fact that Baugh didn't own a patch of front lawn in '37, and had no more than a nodding acquaintance with cows and horses, he's done well.

His earnings total about $300,000. What has he done with the money?

Sam always says: "Half went in taxes and half went in Texas."

- The half that went in Texas went into a ranch of some 5,000 acres stocked with hundreds of head of cattle. But today he's no gentleman-cowboy. He really knows how to bulldog a steer. He lives with his wife Edmonia and four sons on the ranch.
- And forward passes got it all for him.

The first time Ray Flaherty, then coach of the Redskins, met Slingin' Sam, he knew he had someone extra special.

Flaherty was diagraming a play. "The end takes 10 steps straight ahead, then flares out to the right," explained

Flaherty, tracing the downfield progress of the receiver with chalk.

He drew a big "X" on the blackboard, and added: "When he reaches here, you just hit him in the eye with the ball."

"Which eye?" drawled Sam.

- Although statistics generally are boring, they're fascinating as far as Sam is concerned. Here are a few:

- Baugh has thrown the most passes, 2,983; completed the most, 1,689; and has gained the most yardage from passes, 21,933, or about 12½ miles.

- He had one breath-taking season when he clicked on 70.3 percent of his tosses.

Today, Sam is an old man as football players go. He was born Mar. 17, 1914, on a farm near Temple, Texas.

This season, he's used for passing only. But when he was younger, he could do anything and everything on a football field.

The first time he ever met the legendary Bronco Nagurski, either socially or athletically, was when the mighty Bronco came roaring down the field at Baugh like a beer truck careening down a hill.

"Let Him In"

SAM NEVER flinched. He stopped the unstoppable Nagurski. The Bronco weighed 230 and was the most fearsome bruiser in the business.

Baugh was—and still is—a willowy 6-foot-2 and 180 pounds.

Sam takes pretty good care of himself. He taught the boys a classic lesson his very first year in pro ball.

A monstrous tackle broke through the Slinger's protective cordon, knocked him down (which was proper enough) and then slugged him (which wasn't).

"Take it easy, son," cautioned Baugh.

- On the very next play, it happened again. One of the Redskins asked, "Want me to pop that guy, Sam?"

- "Nope," replied Baugh. "Just let him come through on the next play."

- The ball snapped from center. The tackle rushed in to tear Sam apart.

- Just as he lunged for Baugh, the Slinger slung. The ball traveled with projectile force.

It hit the onrushing man-mountain between the eyes and knocked him colder than an iceberg.

How Marilyn

In an exclusive interview,

Most publicized actress in the U. S. is blonde, bouncy Marilyn Monroe. PARADE gave Marilyn one of her first publicity breaks when it featured her on its cover in 1947. Since then, PARADE has closely followed her swift rise from model to movie Cinderella. Recently, PARADE's Sid Ross sat with Marilyn for an afternoon while she waited for stage cues during a personal appearance tour in Atlantic City, N. J. His report is the story of the troubled outlook of a girl who—by all familiar standards—should be riding the happy crest of a great wave of success:

ATLANTIC CITY.
WE SAT in Marilyn's suite at the Claridge Hotel. In the anteroom sat press agents, studio aides and local movie men.

Their talk hardly reached us. Marilyn lounged in a big hotel chair, sometimes upright, sometimes languid and beguiling—the way millions of Americans dream of her.

Just as she has talked to me before, Marilyn spoke frankly. What she told me should shatter forever any popular fancy that Marilyn, at 24, the uncrowned queen of Hollywood and the possible successor to Jean Harlow, is the happiest as well as the luckiest girl alive.

Just a Dumb Blonde?

PEOPLE expect to find me one of two things," she said. "Either a tart or a dumb blonde.

"I'm neither.

"The fact is that I'm lonely—in spite of the fastest ride to popularity that any girl ever had.

"Too much publicity makes you lonely.

"Suddenly you see people speaking to you and being nice to you. But they never did before, and you feel it's happening only because you're now a 'personality.'

"And with me, I know, it would have meant a lot more to have had a few words of encouragement before—when I really needed them." (For three frustrating years Marilyn tried to storm the heights of Hollywood after her first screen test. Until a lucky break in "Asphalt Jungle" in 1950, she was ignored except for cheesecake assignments.)

"As it is, publicity dominates my life."

In the fullest sense, Marilyn's life is not her own. She has no privacy. And for Marilyn, this is cruel. She is a girl who likes best to lounge around in blue jeans, to browse through book stores, to chatter with friends. Today, flashbulbs follow her everywhere—and her book bills are almost nothing.

- No other star is so courted.
- Twentieth Century-Fox receives more requests for interviews and picture appointments with Marilyn than with any other several top names.

- While other stars appear in two or three pictures a year, Marilyn's schedule called for six in 1952. Theater exhibitors are avid for personal appearances, and most of them bill her name ahead of such stars as Barbara Stanwyck, Paul Douglas and Ginger Rogers.

What has it cost Marilyn?

It has changed her ideas about acting.

"All this publicity makes me a little shy and afraid," she says.

"I'm afraid that people will expect too much of me, right now when I've only really started acting.

"I'm beginning to feel like a piece of statuary that people are inspecting with a magnifying glass, look-

● Relaxed in a hotel easy chair, Marilyn Monroe tells why a girl with 100,000,000 cheering fans has often found herself lonely and "left out."

MARILYN MONROE: . . . is she just a "sexy babe" . . . or a real person? . . . Sid Ross gives the . . . answer here.

Monroe Sees Herself

America's most envied girl tells how brilliant success can still be perplexing ing for imperfections—taking apart my dress, my voice, my figure, my acting—everything about me.

WHEN YOU'RE an obscure bit player or starlet, nobody cares whether you can act. But when your name is up in lights, it's different.

"I do a picture like 'Don't Bother to Knock' and some people say, 'Leave the dramatics to Bette Davis and Olivia de Havilland. Keep Marilyn Monroe in a tight dress and let her drip sex.'"

"It kind of gets me. . . ."

Actually, the public reaction to Marilyn's first full attempt at a dramatic role (as an emotionally unbalanced baby sitter in "Don't Bother to Knock") bears this out.

Some critics praised her. But most writers said flatly that she was beyond her depth.

"Some days I think most critics have ulcers," she says. "But then along comes one who is a human being and who says I'm not setting the world on fire, but that I have promise."

"Comments like these are few and far between. I want more."

But can she get them?

Some factors are against her. Her quips, for example—the bright, quotable wisecracks that reporters attribute to Marilyn.

Right here in Atlantic City, for example, she wore a striking, low-cut evening dress. Somebody asked if she minded if people stared. Marilyn allegedly cracked back: "I thought they were looking at my Grand Marshal's badge." Actually, she said no such thing.

• Yet such quotes—true or not—add to Marilyn's reputation as "sexy."

• So does an assertion (untrue) that in bed she likes to wear "only Chanel No. 5" (a perfume).

• She openly admitted that she posed in the nude for a calendar photo—in the presence of the photographer and his wife.

Good copy? Part of the growing Monroe legend?

Yes—but only part of the story.

The fact is that Marilyn is frank to a fault.

• Yet now she's afraid to be as open as she'd like to be. Too often what she says has been twisted. "It puts you on guard—and I don't want to be on guard," she says.

• Once reporters asked her about her first date with ballplayer Joe DiMaggio. (There's been talk that she would marry Joe. As of this writing, it has not occurred.)

• "They asked if we'd talked about baseball," says Marilyn.

"Then they calmly went ahead and invented a story that I'd said about Joe: 'What coordination!'"

"This sort of thing happens all the time. It upsets me. I can't get used to it, and I wouldn't be telling the truth if I said I just shrugged it off. It's 'good publicity,' I'm told. Is it really?"

Marilyn sat opposite me, her face changing but beautiful.

Marilyn's No. 1 Wish

WHAT DO you want, Marilyn?" I asked. "Where are you really going?"

"My career—it's not the end, and I know it," she said.

"That's the one big thing I've learned in the last year."

"I don't think I'm different when I say that I want things that concern only me and my happiness."

"In the movie business your career comes first. But I want to start with my life first—and then pick and choose what else I want."

• "For me, marriage and career won't mix permanently. I think a man and a woman should be interested in each other basically, with no outside force coming in between."

• "Often, in Hollywood, men, women—even married couples, compete with each other. That's no good."

• "I want something more than this sort of success—something more real, more tangible. Any woman wants another kind of life with a man, marriage, a home, children . . . I'm no exception."

"Maybe it's corny to say, but I don't want to be just a woman alone . . . I want to belong."

MARILYN's name—plus film title—is enough to bring crowds, theaters find.

WEARING form-fitting crimson gown, Marilyn steps out of car for gala showing of film, "Monkey Business," at Atlantic City. Naturally friendly, she likes crowds.

A NEW APPLE PIE

By Beth Merriman, PARADE'S FOOD EDITOR

Men will want 'seconds' of this tasty dessert

A new crop of crisp, juicy apples is rolling into market, glowing with color, bursting with flavor. Fine for eating out-of-hand, even finer baked in a pie. This brand-new pie, with luscious apple filling and rich cheese cracker crust will become a family favorite, once you try it. Serve it warm, with big cups of fragrant coffee.

CHEESE APPLE PIE

Crumb Crust and Topping:

- |                                                 |                       |
|-------------------------------------------------|-----------------------|
| 1 box (8-oz.) cheese crackers,finely rolled | 2 tablespoons sugar * |
| 6 tablespoons softened butteror margarine   | 1 teaspoon cinnamon   |
|                                                 | 2 tablespoons water   |

Thoroughly blend cheese cracker crumbs and butter or margarine. Measure 1/2 cup of this mixture; to this add sugar and cinnamon; reserve for topping apple filling. To remainder of crumbs add water; blend well; turn into 9-inch pie plate; firmly press into even layer against bottom and sides of plate. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375°F., 15 minutes. Cool.

Filling:

- |                          |                                                      |
|--------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|
| 1/2 cup sugar            | 1 cup water                                          |
| 3 tablespoons cornstarch | 2 lbs. tart apples, peeled,cored and sliced thin |
| Dash of salt             | 1 tablespoon lemon juice                             |
| 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon    |                                                      |

Mix together in saucepan sugar, cornstarch, salt and cinnamon; gradually stir in water. Add apples; cook over medium heat until mixture is thickened, stirring constantly. Continue cooking until apple slices are tender. Remove from heat; add lemon juice. Cool. Pour into cheese cracker crumb crust. Sprinkle with topping. Serve with whipped cream if desired.

THE CASTLE: it will ring with a new sound . . .

FACE LIFTING

ELIZABETH

... for an old castle, that will be a queen's lonely home

JOHN O' GROATS, Scotland. ONE OF BRITAIN'S loneliest castles has been sold to Elizabeth, Britain's Queen Mother, as her summer home.

Behind the grey stones of Barrogill Castle, here in Scotland's far-north county of Caithness, the royal widow will relax in seclusion for several months each year.

For her it will be a new home—far from the atmosphere of London. The castle overlooks the sea—remote, isolated and often bleak when north clouds blot out the sun.

For Barrogill stands almost at Britain's wild northern tip.

Already workmen are busy making the isolated castle comfortable.

Electric lights soon will be ready to replace flickering oil lamps.

And for the first time in its 400 years, Barrogill will know the high, ringing sound of a telephone bell!

A high pile of peat (see photo above)—that mixture of earth and heather roots which Scottish highlanders use as fuel—will be cleared away. The grates in which peat was burned will go, too. Central heating will be installed.

Elizabeth's neighbors will be a few crofters—small farmers—living in stone cottages in the flat countryside where the trees are shorn and clipped by biting north winds that sweep in from the sea.

• Like most ancient castles, Barrogill has a ghost—the spirit of a woman who starved to death in its dungeons centuries ago. A few people claim they have seen her walking the ramparts.

• Elizabeth was not as interested in the phantom as she was in the magnificent view of turbulent Pentland Firth, of grey hills and heather-clad fields.

Miles to Nearest Railway

THE CASTLE has 40 rooms, including a huge drawing room; a book-lined library; big bedrooms built for deep four-posters and an old-fashioned kitchen with rows of copper pans.

Walled gardens and a fine park soften the forbidding exterior.

When the Queen Mother goes to Barrogill, she will motor four miles to the nearest church in the hamlet of Canisbay. The nearest railway station is 13 miles away; the nearest airfield, 20 miles.

The Queen Mother, fond of her native Scotland, decided to have a Scottish residence of her own when Balmoral, traditional summer home of Britain's monarchs, passed to her daughter, Queen Elizabeth.

The price she paid for Barrogill has not been revealed, but renovations alone will cost about $60,000.

THIS IS the view Queen will have.

VOTE FOR RINSO AND WIN!

What could be easier? Just tell us, in your own words--25 words or less--why you vote for Rinso. You know how Rinso gets your wash whiter, brighter than new. Gets out more dirt than any other kind of washday product. And puts sunshine in your wash because only Rinso contains Solum, the scientific sunlight ingredient.

So vote for Rinso and win! Win a wonderful Bendix Automatic Home Laundry, an RCA Victor Clock Radio, or $10,000 in cash. Enter now!

OH, I'M ALL RIGHT.
IT'LL PASS OFF

IF YOU FEEL A COLD COMING ON,
WHY DON'T YOU
TAKE SOMETHING
BEFORE IT GETS

HOW ABOUT TAKING A COUPLE OF THESE
CAPSULES? DR. BEGGS
PRESCRIBED THEM FOR YOU LAST

MIGHT NOT
THING FOR ME NOW. CAN'T BE TOO CAREFUL

A MUSTARD PLASTER
HOT WATER, MIGHT SAVE YOU A SPELL

OH, I GUESS A GOOD NIGHT'S
ME UP ALL

HOW DO YOU FEEL THIS MORNING? HAVE YOU STILL GOT THOSE COLD SYMPTOMS?

YES, BUT I'M NOT WORRYING.
FEEL BETTER

GOSH, BUT I FEEL ROTTEN!
MAYBE I OUGHT TO TAKE SOMETHING - IF I ONLY KNEW WHAT

SHIFTKEY,
WHAT'S GOOD FOR A COLD?

THE BEST THING
GREEN, IS LILSHOPPER'S

I WANT TO GET SOMETHING TO CHECK A COLD.
GOT ANYTHING?

WE HAVE SOMETHING,
SIR THAT WE
HIGHLY

GOODNESS' NAME HAVE YOU GOT THERE?

NEVER MIND.
FIRST LET ME INTO THE

AGAINST COLD.
I'M NOT
IT GET THE BEST OF ME

OF MYSELF?

YES, BUT WHEN I SUGGEST ANYTHING, YOU MAKE SOME EXCUSE FOR NOT

MARK TRAIL

CHIPPER, THE BEAGLE PUP, IS EAGER FOR HIS FIRST LESSON IN RABBIT HUNTING

WHEN MAMA LEADS HIM INTO THE FIELD ON A FRESH TRAIL, HE YOWLS WITH EXCITEMENT

AND HE DOES ALL RIGHT UNTIL THE RABBIT MAKES A QUICK TURN

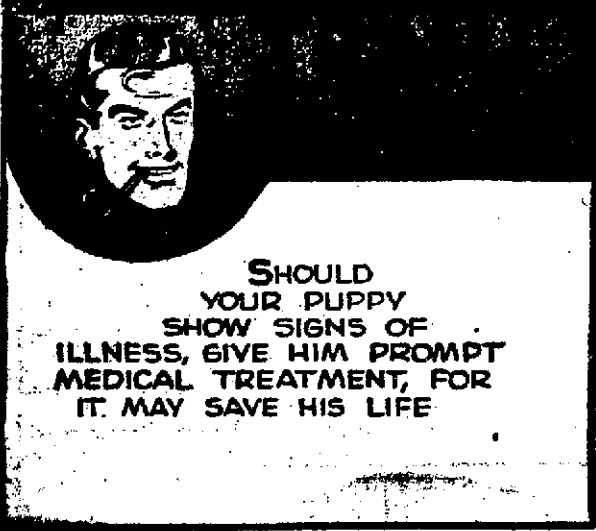

THOUGH CHIPPER'S FEET TRY TO FOLLOW, HIS BODY WON'T CO-OPERATE

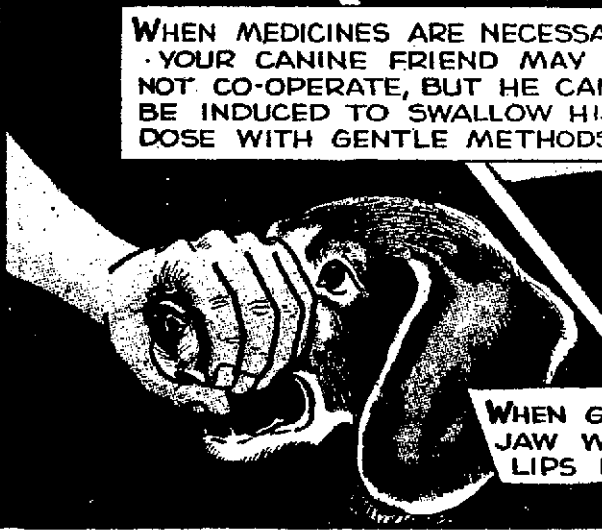

AND HE GOES END OVER END INTO A CREEK!

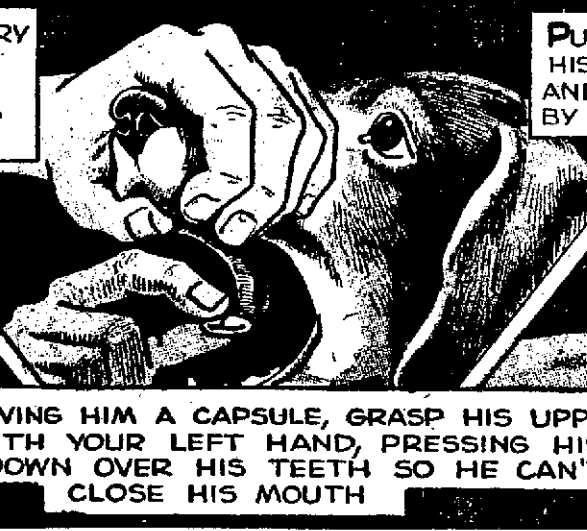

SO THE FIRST DAY'S INSTRUCTION ENDS WITH A SWIMMING LESSON INSTEAD OF RABBIT HUNTING!

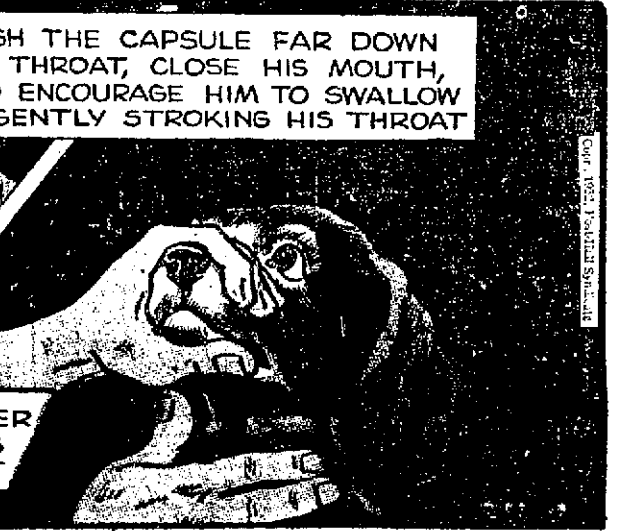

SHOULD YOUR PUPPY SHOW SIGNS OF ILLNESS, GIVE HIM PROMPT MEDICAL TREATMENT, FOR IT MAY SAVE HIS LIFE

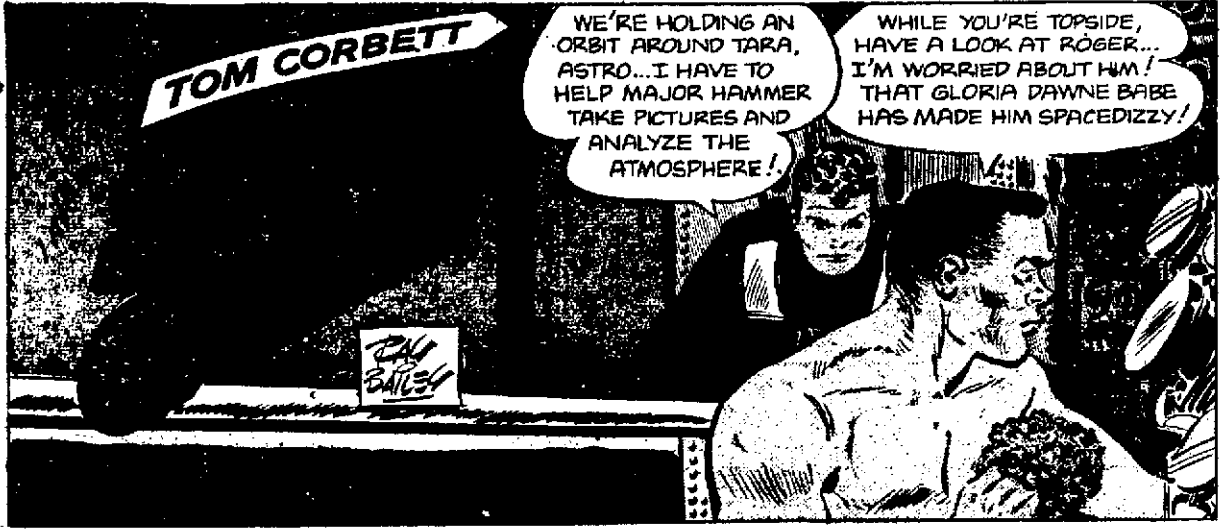

WHEN MEDICINES ARE NECESSARY YOUR CANINE FRIEND MAY NOT CO-OPERATE, BUT HE CAN BE INDUCED TO SWALLOW HIS DOSE WITH GENTLE METHODS

WASHES CLOTHES CLEANER THAN ANY SOAP NO DULLING SOAP SCUM

IT'S AMAZING - BUT TRUE! New Fab washes whiter without bleaching! Whiter than any soap or any other washing product known with bleach in the wash water. Yes, with Fab you can actually stop bleaching—except for stubborn stains. And, remember, freshly-rinsed Fab clothes are cleaner than you can get them with any soap because Fab washes out dirt and leaves no dulling soap scum!

IF YOU PREFER NOT TO RINSE, Fab gives you the cleanest possible, sweetest-smelling no-rinse wash!

SAVE CLOTHES! New Fab alone washes so dazzling white you don't need to bleach! Clothes last longer with no bleach to harm fabrics or fade pretty washable colors.

SAVE WORK! Fab immediately loosens dirt; keeps it floating in the wash water. No soaking needed! No dulling soap scum to rinse out—even in hardest water.

SAVE HANDS! New Fab is wonderfully mild to hands...safe for baby's clothes. And Fab is kind to your own pretty washables! Get the economical GIANT SIZE.

CUT DISHWASHING TIME IN HALF! Fab soaks dishes, glasses, pans shiny clean! If a food speck clings, the dishcloth whisks it off. Just a quick rinse and dishes drain sparkling clean. No hard scouring! No wiping!
